MISS CLARK WEDS

Miss Janet Creighton Clark, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Clark of Newtonville was married to Mr. Carl O. A. Ruckdeschel of Woonsocket, R. I., last Tuesday evening, the ceremony taking place at St. John's Episcopal church at eight o'clock. The little church was filled to overflowing with the friends of the couple and the decorations were evergreens and chrysanthemums. A beautiful feature of the service was the Lohengrin Wedding chorus by the full vested choir of the church as the bride party passed down the aisle to the altar, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard T. Loring, rector of the church. The bride wore white satin, Duchesse lace and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor, Miss Florence A. Belding of Fitchburg, wore white crepe, meteor embroidery panels over blue messaline and carried pink Killarney roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Alice E. Belding of Fitchburg, and Miss Marie Wales of Newtonville were in pink messaline and carried pink Killarney roses. Master Percival Clark, brother of the bride, was the ring bearer and Doris Clark, sister of the bride was the flower girl. The best man was Mr. Henry A. Clark, cousin of the bride and the guests were seated by these ushers: Messrs. Herbert Rogers, Fred B. Young of Newtonville, Channing Newell and Wilfred A. Clark of West Newton and Hans Carstein of Cambridge. A reception followed at the Clark residence on Austin street, Mr. and Mrs. Ruckdeschel being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Clark, Miss Belding, Mr. H. A. Clark, and Mrs. H. A. Clark, grandmother of the bride, who in her 91st year added greatly to the happy event by her presence. Mr. and Mrs. Ruckdeschel will reside in Woonsocket, R. I.

The newest and most artistic wall papers, including Colonial papers, among them the Longfellow and Paul Revere, may be seen at the store of Thomas F. Swan, 24 Cornhill, Boston. This well-known dealer carries a large stock of new patterns for the season of 1910, very reasonably priced.

GOLDEN WEDDING

On Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Haddon celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home on Copley street, with their children and grandchildren.

Mr. Haddon was born at Mansfield, Mass., and removed with his family to Martinsburg, W. Va., while still a boy. He came to Boston as a young man and became a teacher and shortly head master in the Boston schools, where he remained until he retired a few years ago. He was at one time president of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association and for several terms served the town and city of Newton as a member of the school board.

Mrs. Haddon was born at Lowell, Mass., was graduated at the State Normal school at Framingham and shortly after married at Lawrence, Mass., where her father was at the time city treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Haddon eldest first in Boston where their two eldest sons were born. They settled about 1865 in Newton, where they have since resided. They have three sons and one daughter, all of whom passed through the Newton schools.

Their first son is Henry W. Haddon, A.M., and LL.B. (H. U.) at one time professor of law at Cornell university and then at Columbia university, now in practice in New York City. He married his cousin Cora Frances Burr, daughter of the late Isaac T. and Ann Francis (Haddon) Burr. They have two children, one a sophomore at Harvard college and the other preparing for Bryn Mawr at Rosemary Hall, Greenwich, Conn.

Their second son, Robert W. Haddon, M.D. (H. U.) is professor of surgery at Chicago and is unmarried. Their third son, Kenneth W. Haddon, left Harvard college before graduation to enter business. He is now eastern manager of the G. H. Morrill Co. and has his headquarters in New York. He married about three years ago Corinne Thompson of Woburn, N. H.

Their only daughter, Margaret, A. B. (Wellesley), married James Hayden Wright, A.B. (H. U.), subsequently a student at the Beaux Arts in Paris, and is in Richardson's office and

VILLAGE NIGHT

The annual village night under the auspices of the Newton Centre Improvement Association will be held next Wednesday in Bray hall. When the preacher said, "Behold the perfect man!" every male member of the congregation became cross-eyed with looking at himself.

That of his successors and now an architect at Boston. They live in Cambridge and have one son.

Mr. and Mrs. Haddon were in excellent health at the time of their wedding anniversary and should celebrate many more of them.

WALES-MCLEAN

A very pretty wedding took place at the Methodist Episcopal church, Newton Lower Falls, on Thanksgiving eve, when Miss Carolyn Isabella McLean, daughter of Mrs. Margaret McLean of Newton Lower Falls, and Mr. Fred Charles Wales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Wales of Newton Lower Falls, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Geo. W. Mansfield of Newton in the presence of 150 guests from Newton Lower Falls, Auburn, Framingham, Boston, Wollaston and neighboring towns.

The interior of the church and the parlors where the reception was held were prettily decorated with evergreen and chrysanthemums.

The bride was charming in a gown of white silk with accordion pleats and pearl trimmings made en train. She wore a tulle veil caught with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She was given away by her brother, Mr. John Roderick McLean of Auburn.

The maid of honor was Miss Mabel M. Wales of Newton Lower Falls, sister of the groom, who wore an emerald gown of white Brussels net over yellow satin and carried yellow cosmos.

The bridesmaids were gowned in blue silk tulle and carried Lady Lenox Cosmos. They were Misses Minerva Loyde and Marlon Margaret McLean, sisters of the bride and Misses Leah and Lydia Hennigar of Wollaston, cousins of the bride. Little Miss Dorothy Hennigar of Wollaston, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and carried a basket of chrysanthemums.

The best man was Mr. George M. Wilson of Newton Lower Falls, cousin of the groom. The ushers were Mr. Lorin Lewis and Mr. Elmer Lewis of Dorchester, cousins of the groom. Mr. Philip McLean of Newton Lower Falls, brother of the bride, and Mr. Fred Draper of Cambridge, cousin of the bride.

Miss Katharine Graham of Edgartown presided at the organ, playing several selections before the ceremony and the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches. She wore an emerald gown of yellow silk.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Wales were assisted in receiving by Mr. John McLean, brother of the bride, Mrs. Margaret McLean, the bride's mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Levi Wales, parents of the groom. Mrs. McLean wore gray silk and Mrs. Wales a braided gown of peacock blue messaline.

The caterer was Mr. Wm. Ayers of Newton Lower Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Wales, who received many beautiful wedding gifts, left upon a wedding trip to Albany, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and New York, and upon their return will reside at 14 Fairbanks street, Faneuil, where they will be at home to their friends after Jan. 5, 1910. The groom is a civil engineer in the employ of the Boston and Albany Railroad.

The Oriental Bazaar just opened at 281 Moody street, Waltham is filled to overflowing with beautiful Japanese ware, antiques and Oriental goods of all descriptions, making it a most popular place for the purchase of gifts and prizes.

NEWTON WOMEN RECEIVE SCHOOL TEACHERS

INTERESTING MEETING AT TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

An opportunity to visit the new Technical High School and to have the aims of that school explained brought out some five hundred to the meeting of the Newton Federation on Tuesday afternoon. Special invitations had been sent to the teachers of the city and they responded in large numbers much to the gratification of those in charge of the affair.

The members were greeted at the entrance by the vice-presidents of the Federation and directed to the assembly hall upon the third floor where the meeting was held. Mrs. J. H. Pillsbury, the newly elected president, was in the chair and after a brief word of greeting presented Mr. Charles L. Kirschner, head master of the school, as the first speaker. He took for his subject "The Value of a Technical School in a Community like Newton."

Following his address the heads of three of the departments spoke concerning matters more or less directly related to their departments. Mrs. Blanche E. Hyde of the household economics department on "Should household economics receive the dignity of college requirements," Michael W. Murray of the mechanical department on "How practical is the given efficiency in that work?" and Samuel Thurber, Jr., on "What features of the old are sacrificed to the new technical training."

At the close the guests were invited to the library for a social hour. Mrs. Pillsbury was assisted in receiving by Mrs. D. K. Bartlett, chairman of the education committee, Mrs. F. F. Davidson and Miss Cora Cobb, members of the school committee. Mrs. F. E. Spaulding and Mrs. Charles L. Kirschner. The refreshment tables were presided over by wives of masters of the schools, while the young ladies of the technical school in dainty caps and aprons did efficient service in serving.

The success of this meeting is gratifying and demonstrates conclusively that the club women of Newton are ready to unite on some matter of common interest.

The substance of the addresses is given below.

Address of Charles L. Kirschner.

There are a great many people living in Newton who hold an opinion that the social and economic conditions here are so peculiarly her own, that she cannot safely follow the experiences of other cities. It is true that Newton is mainly a residential city and her problems must differ from those of a more industrial or commercial center.

We find here an unusually large number of boys and girls of the high school age, in proportion to the total population. But in common with other cities a large number of these are not attracted to a high school education. Many of these leave the grammar school upon reaching the age of 14, while others either do not go to the high school or drop out during the earlier years. Certainly these young people ought not to be neglected, and from the educational and social standpoint the problem is, how to reach, direct and train this group to the highest usefulness and efficiency. Newton will prosper in proportion to the number of useful people within her boundaries. The ideal for this community is that everyone should be busy and useful, and so trained that he may contribute most efficiently his share to the commonwealth.

The committee in charge of the high school problem made an exhaustive study of the matter and has found that a purely intellectual training is no longer considered a complete education. That pupils must be taught to do things by doing. That

The choice of Mr. Charles E. Hatfield as chairman of the Republican state committee is of great interest to his many friends in this city, and should be of great importance to the entire party. Mr. Hatfield has had unusual experience in political fields
in managing the campaigns for nomination for many offices, besides wielding a powerful influence in political affairs in this city. The office will be of unusual importance the coming year, as the result of the last election has given the Democratic party so much encouragement that hard and
sary to maintain Republican supremacy. With his aptitude for the political game, his experience and wide acquaintance throughout the state, Mr.
Hatfield should continue his political successes in his administration of the state committee.

With Speaker Walker openly advocating one form of direct nominations
it is to be hoped that that most desirable principle will be crystallized into law at the coming session of the General Court. Certainly no one in Newton would be willing to go back to the old fashioned method of nominating city officials by convention and what is true of local offices will apply with equal force to other political positions.

General Emery's statement last night that the city of Newton will be assigned one of the new armories to be erected next year by the Commonwealth, will be of great interest to friends of the local militia. Company
C has been hampered long enough by inadequate quarters and it will be heartily congratulated on its future prospects.

CONCERT.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 9, at 8 o'clock, there will be a concert in the Hunnewell Club House for members of Grace Church Parish. Miss Clara Sexton, soprano, a member of the Boston Opera Company, who has just returned from Italy, where she achieved a great success in the title role of Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor," and Miss Phyllis Hammond, Harriet—a favorite pupil of Mr.
Schnecker—who is meeting with much success on the concert stage, will assist. Miss Rillie Garrison has consented to give some readings. Ernest W. Harrison will be the accompanist.

After the concert there will be light
refreshments, followed by dancing.

Y. M. C. A.

The opening basketball contest in the Y. M. C. A. series, in which Chelsea defeated Newton 24 to 15 Wednesday, developed into one of the roughest games played in this city for several seasons.

In the second period Kelly had Barrows, playing left forwards for Chelsea and Newton respectively, came to blows and were ordered out of the game. A lengthy conference of team captains resulted in the disqualified players being allowed to return to the floor.

Throughout the game there was frequent holding, tripping and no little
"elbow" work that met with criticism
by the spectators. There were several Newton players temporarily out of the game at different times as a result of being thrown with such force that they lost their "wind." Frequent fouls characterized the contest.

SECOND GAME.

In the second game Boston Y. M.
C. A. second team won from Newton association's second team, 15 to 10, the playing of Burr and Neate of Boston and Lucas and Chant of Newton being the features.

NEW ARMORY PROMISED COMPANY C. NEXT YEAR

The 39th annual meeting of the Cladun Guard and its Veteran Association held last evening at Young's Hotel, Boston, was of great interest to both the active and veteran company for Quartermaster General William B. Emery, one of the Army commissioners of the state, announced that Company C would be given a new armory during the coming year.
The statement was received with great enthusiasm by all present.

The Association were the personal guests of President Lewis R. Speare and thoroughly enjoyed his bountiful hospitality under the genial leadership of Colonel "Bob" Edes. The guests were Hon. Samuel L. Powers, Alderman Benjamin S. Palmer,
representing the city, Mr. Charles E.
Hatfield, the prospective mayor, General Emery, Capt. Guilford, and Major Geo. C. Deihl, Asst. Commissary General, New York National Guard.

President Speare was in charge and introduced each speaker with just the right touch of rally or seriousness.
Mr. Powers was the first speaker and fully maintained his high reputation as a wit and put his hearers in the right mood to enjoy the entire evening. Alderman Palmer spoke for Mayor Hutchinson, expressing the regard of the city government for the company and speaking in high praise
of the chief executive of the city. Mr.
Hatfield aroused his audience by promising the land if the state authorities would assign an armory to the city, and General Emery, the next speaker, promptly took him up on that point, and after relating the work of the Armory commission in assigning armories, definitely stated that Newton should receive one of the armories to be built in 1910.

Captain Guilford expressed his great satisfaction that his Company

was to have adequate and suitable quarters after many years in their present armory, and promised to show his appreciation by making Company C one of the best in the state.

Major Deihl made an interesting speech, lauding President Speare's work as head of the American Automobile Association, complimenting the city of Newton on its beauty and good roads and emphasizing the value of militia service in making good citizens.

Colonel Lombard and Lieut. F. W.
Turner also spoke.

The members of the Association,
most of whom were present, are Col.
R. B. Edes, Col. W. E. Lombard, J. I.
Farwell, Reuben Forknall, Lieut. W.
E. Glover, J. W. Hahn, A. L. Kershaw,

com, Fred Bogardus, A. B. Cobb, Richard Cunningham, Moses Clark, Jr., J.
P. Cooney, and Lieut. H. C. Daniels.

At the business meeting prior to the banquet these officers were re-elected: President, Lewis R. Speare;
first vice president, Lieut. F. W. Turner; second vice president, Reuben Forknall; secretary, Col. R. B. Edes, and treasurer, Col. W. E. Lombard.

MR. TILTON DEAD.

Homer H. Tilton, aged 63, a veteran fireworks manufacturer, died Tuesday night at his home in West Newton after a long illness. He was well known among manufacturers and dealers in fireworks in the eastern part of the country.

He established the fireworks manufacturing firm of H. H. Tilton & Co. in Boston in 1873, and continued in active business until forced to relinquish his duties by illness. During recent years he had an office in Boston, and conducted his manufacturing plant off Standford street, Auburn-dale, on the borders of Charles river.
Mr. Tilton invented a number of "new" fireworks, and in the past quarter of a century was called upon to provide displays for many public celebrations. Some of the fireworks displays which he arranged called for expenditures of $10,000 each. One of his inventions was a shield torch, which was said to be the most brilliant torch ever placed on the market.

For many years he was a wholesale dealer in kindred lines of goods in addition to making pyrotechnical display goods. His home was at 51
Greenwood avenue, West Newton.
He is survived by two sons, Harry L.
Tilton, publisher of a sporting magazine; and Homer F. Tilton, who is engaged in the advertising business,
both of whom are residents of this city. The funeral services will be held this afternoon.

NEWTON CENTRE PLAY GROUND

Last Friday afternoon the Newton Centre Football Team defeated the Stearns team of Nonantum in a well played game, score 5-0. This game decided the championship of the All Newton League, as Newton Centre had won four games and lost none and the Stearns had a record of three wins and was closely played and hard fought throughout. The only score was made by a long run for a touchdown from a punt formation.

The Newton Centre team, which is the champion of the league, is composed of the following players: Thompson, q. p. capt.; West, f. b.; Murphy,
l. b. b.; Whaley, r. b. b.; Lynn and Clark, c.; Horagan, Warren and Linneman, l. g.; Pratt and Spaulding, l. t.; Harris, l. e.; Burnham and Cook, r. g.;
Lung, r. t.; Turner, r. e.

On Friday morning the Young Americans won the championship of the Newton Centre Soccer League by defeating the Hustlers 3-0. The Young Americans outplayed the Hustlers, keeping the ball in their territory most of the time. John Beecher played a fine game for the Young Americans, scoring all three of the goals. The Young Americans lined up as follows: c. Maxwell, l. f. Bailey,
r. e. Haffernehl, l. b. b. Foley, c. b. b.
Coppinger, r. h. b. Foley, Jr., c. f.
Richards, l. l. f. Beecher, l. o. f. Goodwin, r. l. f. Freeman, r. o. f. Unlacke, Capt.

At Lauriat's they are now all in

sive stock in New England, patrons have, freely at their service, intelligent aid in the matter of selection, prompt service and a guarantee of the lowest prices.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

The December calendar issued this week shows the usual high class of events beginning with Neighborhood
Night next Tuesday, when Capt. S. E.
Howard of West Newton will give some of his own experiences while on
"The Trail" in the West, to the usual
New Year's Party on Friday, Dec. 31.
The smoker on Dec. 11 is slated for an interesting entertainment and there will be a ladies' and gentlemen's bridge whist on Dec. 21, a gentlemen's bridge whist on Dec. 28, open house on Christmas Day and the children's Christmas party on Jan. 1.

At bridge whist Saturday evening,
S. H. Usher and T. E. Eustis were winners, with Bonney and Pearson second.

There was a most enjoyable ladies'
and gentlemen's bridge whist on Tuesday evening in charge of Mrs. E. R.
Uley. Prizes were won by Mrs. E.
P. Tuttle, Mrs. Edward Mellus, Mrs.
Chipman and Mrs. H. L. Dexter.

The Sarah Hull Chapter held a Birthday Meeting at the Newton Club, Newtonville, on Wednesday, December first.

After the business of the afternoon
a pleasing program was given in charge of Mrs. Henry B. Pinkham.
Miss Minnie Wheeler read a sketch
upon Sarah Hull.

Miss Helen Partridge sang two groups of songs with Madame Isadore Martinez, accompanist. Miss Amy Deid of Boston gave a group of readings. A social hour followed.

The birthday cake upon the refreshment table reminded us of one thirteen years of age. The cake was cut by our Regent, Miss Clara J. Coburn, after which three cheers were given for Sarah Hull, for our Chapter and for Mrs. S. C. Cobb of Newton Highlands, one of our charter members and the one who named our Chapter.

The ladies serving at the table

NARROW ESCAPE.

By the explosion of a can of gasoline Clarence W. Handlett, son of Fire Chief Walter B. Handlett, and himself a driver in the Newton department, had a narrow escape from serious injury when his clothing caught fire while fighting a brisk blaze in Newton Centre Tuesday afternoon.
The one who named our Chapter.

By the quick work of other firemen
in extinguishing the flames he was saved from being seriously injured, although his clothing was considerably burned.

The fire was in a shed on the premises of Francis C. McGourty, 372 Parker street, where gasoline became ignited while being used in cleaning clothes. Responding to an alarm from box 91 the department found a brisk fire in progress, which was extinguished with comparatively slight damage.

FINE CONCERT.

An interesting program was given at the Players' Hall, West Newton, Wednesday evening of this week. The attraction was the Adamowski Trio, consisting of Mme. Szumowska, piano; Timothee Adamowski, violin, and Jesef Adamowski, cello.

The program rendered was an exceptionally brilliant one, including two pieces for violin, cello and piano
by Chopin and Mendelssohn, a group of solos for piano by Chopin, two new solos for violin by Mr. Timothee Ad-amowski and two solos for cello, one a dainty Berceuse by Simon and the other a harmonious Tanantelle in the Hungarian style by Cossman. All of the numbers were appreciated by the enthusiastic audience present and the artists were generous in their giving of encores and in nearly every instance the encore numbers were better received than the program numbers themselves.

Mme. Szumowska, as usual, played in her happiest vein and the group of numbers representing her solo offering showed only too well the hard work that it is necessary to do to achieve such results. Her touch is wonderfully limpid and yet in the fortissimo passages there is nothing lacking in strength and breadth. As for her execution, it is almost marvellous. For an encore number she gave one of the Chopin "Polonaise" numbers, always so popular to the audience.

The 'Cello numbers were perhaps the favorite ones on the program—
not that they were better played than any others—but because the 'cello seems to be the favorite orchestral instrument to Newtonians. As an encore number, an original "Air ve Varle" was given.

Timothee Adamowski played two new violin solos. The first, a "Bar-carolle" and the second a "Mouvement de Valse." They were both gems and again proved that this artist well deserves the rank he occupies as the head of the most famous American Trio. For an encore number another original composition was played, a pretty lullaby, full of sparkle and life. Taken all together this concert was one of the best given in Newton and music lovers in Newton generally have much to thank Messrs. Burrage and Hatfield for in providing such entertainments.

The program was under the direction of A. H. Handley.

The second concert of this course will be on Wednesday evening, January 5th, at which time the attraction will be the Boston Philharmonic Orchestral Club, assisted by Miss Clara Sexton, soprano. Miss Sexton is one of the singers of the Boston Opera House and is arranging a program that will indeed be a delight to those who hear it. She has just returned from Italy, where she appeared in the title role of Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" and other of the famous Italian operas.

The ladies of the Newton Lower Falls M. E. church announce their annual bazaar and entertainment next Wednesday at Freeman hall, Lower Falls, from two until ten o'clock.

NEWTON WOMEN.

(The new woman)

Manual training holds an important place in the school curriculum. That it possesses great disciplinary or educational value when given in connection with book work. The scope and influence of a school combining both sorts of work would reach a large number to whom a purely "bookish" course does not appeal.

As we now recall the boys and girls dropped from our own school, because we were too great for them to keep up with, we find many of them today our leading business men, public officials and many, our most respected men and women in the community. Of course these boys and girls were not weak, as their future has shown, they were simply different. The public school had not provided a place for them, her methods were too non-elastic.

This new school is an enlargement and extension of the scope of the old Newton High School to meet the demands of those desiring a more practical high school training. The two schools are not rivals, one is but the complement of the other. Each has its own work to do, each has its own kind of pupils for whom to provide. The relations between these two schools must be the most cordial and friendly. There must be no class distinction. It is true that a new school of this character will at first attract children from the humble homes. The number of others, however, enrolled in the school this year shows that parents recognize the fact that true culture and good manners are in no danger of being easily rubbed off. As the school becomes better known and parents see what we are trying to do and are accomplishing, they will judge the two schools wholly from the standpoint, "Which will do the most for this particular boy or girl?"

The technical high school is designed to give the pupils a general high school education through a carefully adjusted course of academic work plus manual or technical work—shop work for boys and household work for girls. Such training teaches the value of accuracy and perfect and true work.

In this school all the academic subjects found in any high school will be taught. This work will require about two-thirds of the school day. The other third will be devoted to technical work. Work is the spirit of the school, work shops and laboratories the distinguishing feature. It is a school where boys and girls are allowed to work. A principal may boast that in his school pupils are made to work. Our boast is that they may work.

A boy spends three or four periods daily in academic study, and two periods in some form of work in wood or iron, at the bench or with a machine, or in mechanical drawing. The work given him is of a very practical nature. The girl spends a similar amount of time with books and two periods daily in the study of household activities. This latter work includes a study of foods, clothing and the home itself. It calls for work in cooking, sewing, laundering, serving and nursing, planning of a house, decorating and furnishing the same. This again calls for drawing, work in leather, wood and clay, stenciling and block printing. It is the kind of work that brings the girl into her own sphere.

Although the school is designed to give only a general high school education, the very practical character of the knowledge gained and the skill acquired in the shops, laboratories, sewing and drawing rooms, makes it possible for a graduate to find a remunerative position upon graduation. It is seldom a difficult matter for a graduate to decide upon a line of work and to find ready employment. Above all the work is not intended to make a carpenter or machinist of the boy, or a dressmaker of the girl. It is not a trade school. If either cares to specialize after leaving school, the training here will be found a distinct advantage in helping the one to become a good carpenter or what not, and the other, an intelligent dressmaker. We are aiming to send out graduates with an all-round education, that they may be better qualified to direct work in an office, factory or manage better the affairs of a household.

Since the children can no longer learn by observation, as the father can no longer teach the son or the mother the daughter, our schools must assume a more industrial and vocational character to the end that the children will grow up with more industrial intelligence and a better appreciation of these economic problems.

In closing his address Mr. Kirschner stated that the doors are always wide open to visitors and invited them to visit the school especially while the pupils are at work. He also stated that in addition to the 500 pupils, that some 150 post graduates and teachers are taking courses afternoons and with those from the old high school who are taking courses in sewing, cooking, drawing and those taking evening work, there are about 700 outside the regular students availing themselves of the advantages offered by this new school.

Mr. Murray in his talk upon the efficiency gained, outlined some of the courses offered, pointed out how things become fixed by doing them and that some things are only learned by doing them. To the business man such training is valuable, for it is necessary for him to know how things are done, to the dentist and nurse who particularly work with their hands it is invaluable. It engenders the democratic spirit, helps to select the life work, and opens up avenues of farther work. The boys who have graduated from such schools are in demand as soon as they leave. There is a shortage of teachers of manual training. In the shops they aim to have men in charge who have had practical business experience and from this very experience have a good effect upon the boys in relating this study to what is coming in their later careers. The shop work and mechanical drawing is correlated. He has a chance to do different kinds of work instead, as is the case of the boy in a machine shop, of learning merely to do one kind of thing or the running of but one machine. Mr. Murray cited instances of boys who had been able to find out and put in order machines which the owners themselves had been unable to do.

Address of Samuel Thurber, Jr.

Should I talk to you for ten minutes, or for ten hours, on the subject given me, I could only come to one conclusion, "No such sacrifices really exist." In spite of what some parents and possibly some teachers, still believe to the contrary, if any one of you will carefully, thoroughly, thoughtfully examine the courses of study of the two Newton high schools, as set down in this pamphlet, you will find my statement correct, that after all no appreciable sacrifice was necessary in planning the academic work of this institution.

Let me make the matter more plain. With the single exception of Greek, every academic subject of the Newton high school is taught now, or as pupils wish, it is to be taught, in this Technical high school. The five courses of this school call for classes in English, Latin, French, German, history, ancient, medieval and modern, all the various branches of mathematics, drawing, mechanical and free-hand, chemistry and physics, government, botany, biology, physiology and so on throughout the entire list of those studies which are considered suitable for secondary institutions of education.

Then again when you come to examine those tabulated courses still more minutely, you find the number of periods given to the academic studies which I have enumerated, in the Technical high is, four cases out of five, exactly the same as in the old school, never more than one period a week less. The total number of periods a week which the boy in the older school devotes to academic work is twenty, here it is seventeen.

So on throughout the various years of all eight courses, there is, in a few places only, the slightest appreciable difference of amount in academic work, required or offered, in the two schools. Where, then, one may ask, do we find time for household economics, design, machine and forgo work, cooking, garment making, millinery, laundering and dietetics?

The answer is simple. Very largely from the so-called study periods of the usual curriculum. Most boys and girls here, unless they are shirkers and inveterate seekers for paths of least resistance, have a pretty full program,—that is, their day here is well filled with mental or manual activity. They have very few periods called study-hours.

I am surprised, and I confess a little vexed, to have every now and then, one of my neighbors in Newton ask me if the Technical high school prepares for college. In the room of which I now have charge in this building there are thirty-one pupils of the second year technology-college course, and of this number all but seven expect to go to college. Every one of these pupils is busily preparing for the college which he has chosen. At the end of his senior year, moreover, he will be fitted to enter any college in this country which he may desire to attend.

I am also surprised to hear people in Newton refer to this institution as a trade school or an industrial school. Emphatically it is neither one nor the other. It is simply, as Mr. Gorham said last spring, high school No. 2, built because high school No. 1 could hold no more seats—just as in about fifteen years, if Newton children keep on increasing as rapidly as they have in the past, high school No. 3 will have to be put up.

It is, then, another high school, with practically the same scope of academic work as the old school, but in addition, to meet the new ideals of our age, a technical department, with shops, laboratories and equipment to train the hand and supplement the book work of the academic departments. It is not in any sense a mere appendage of the other high school; it is a distinct, separate institution of itself. On the other hand, it is not in any way a rival of the older school. They stand and work together, with the same high ideals and purposes,—the old, with its magnificent half-century record and with its illustrious traditions; the new with its splendid outlook on a future of great things. Together they form the secondary school system of the City of Newton.

Address of Mrs. Blanche E. Hyde.

If household economics is, as is claimed, the study of the laws, conditions, principles and ideals which are concerned on the one hand with man's immediate physical environment, and on the other hand, with his nature as a social being, and with the relation between the two, it should be worthy of consideration as a course by itself in the most conservative colleges. But it is only with a few very rare years that authorities have looked at it in any other than a tentative way, although courses of study in household economics for the higher institutions have been a subject of discussion since 1889.

Mrs. Hyde went to give results of investigations made by the Lake Placid Conference on Household Economics. The principal reason for the conservatism of the colleges is quite apparent: in that the women's colleges were modeled after the men's, and in order to maintain a relatively high standard the same subjects were made the basis of scholarships, and the women's colleges have been afraid to introduce courses in home economics for fear of lowering their standards.

To sum the matter up, we may say that many colleges would like to introduce it, but are afraid to do so, and the Eastern colleges are even more conservative than the Western. It is quite certain, that in order to make the subject count for college entrance, we shall have to do intensive work, probably confine it to some one topic which can be closely related to the sciences. This might be either along the line of textiles or foods, either of which offers a wide field for scientific work.

Along social lines there is even a more far reaching field, for psychologists and physicians have become convinced that physical conditions cause mental deficiencies, so attention is being directed to laws of right living. It is no more nor less than an indirect study of economics from the grades through the high school and college to learn how to use one's

The High School Basketball season opened Friday afternoon, Dec. 3rd, with a match between Newton and Watertown High Schools. The Newton High School team will play every Friday afternoon of each month with the exception of one which day will be given to the Watertown High School team. These High School games should be patronized not only by High School students, but by lovers of basket ball.

On Friday evening at 5.30 the Bible Class rally for members of the Boys' Department was held. Mr. H. W. Gibson, Boys' State Secretary, made the address. The Women's Auxiliary served the supper, and is to look after that feature of the work. A large enrollment is expected.

On Sunday afternoon at 3.15 Rev. James Campbell, Pastor of the Methodist church of Newtonville, will speak to young men and older boys. Many of our members had the opportunity of hearing Mr. Campbell speak at our annual meeting last May, and he will be welcome again.

The meeting for younger boys which will be led by Mr. Walter Gilliam and Seth Wood will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Association held a meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Eliot Trowbridge, Peabody street, to discuss the feature work of the Auxiliary. There was a large attendance, and the outlook is bright for the remaining portion of the year's work.

Since the successful campaign for a new building in Newton, representatives of the Association have had repeated calls to assist in campaigns in other cities. Mr. Frank A. Day gave a very fine address at the opening banquet at Lowell, and materially helped them in interesting many of the prominent men of that city. Secretary H. W. Bascom has been at Lowell and Lawrence helping to perfect the organization of the campaigns. Mr. C. L. Ellison spoke in one of the large churches in Lowell Sunday.

A building committee has been appointed to have charge of the grading of the grounds and erection of the new building at Newton, and will soon have something to announce to the public.

Physical Department Notes.

Mr. Richard Wheeler of Auburndale has been engaged as pianist for classes of the Association.

The senior class will now take up the Sailor's Horn Pipe dance for class work, and already they have shown marked progress.

In the High School class a basketball league has been organized, consisting of four teams, namely: Tigers, Red Sox, Giants and Pirates. The games are played every Wednesday afternoon. Much excitement prevails in this series of games, owing to the rivalry of the different teams. These games afford a fine opportunity for those wishing to learn basket ball, or for those who intend trying out for the high school teams. The teams are captioned as follows:

Red Sox—Miles Robinson.
Giants, who are heading the league—Harold Newcomb.
Pirates—William Cady.
Tigers—Seth Wood.

The games are open to all without admission.

There is much rejoicing in the physical department, especially among athletes, owing to the fact that J. J. Cody, Jr., one of the best all round athletes in New England, has decided to represent the Newton Y. M. C. A. The local association will endeavor to arrange dual meets with Boston, Somerville, and Lynn Y. M. C. A's.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At a well attended meeting of J. Wiley Edmonds Camp, Sons of Veterans, held Wednesday evening at G. A. R. hall, Newtonville, these officers were elected: Commander, Lawrence T. Putnam; senior vice commander, Edward P. Hunt; junior vice commander, George F. James; members council, Emmett W. Robinson, George F. James and James H. Wentworth, delegates to state convention, Rev. M. A. Levy, Edward P. Hunt, alternates, George F. James, Burton Groth.

The camp was inspected, Past Commander Perry acting as inspecting officer. The installation will take place next month.

To be successful both the baseball pitcher and the orator must have a good delivery.

PEARY RECEIVES $50,000.

Hampton's Magazine Breaks All Records.

It seems probable that many years will pass before an author receives a higher price for his literary product than Commander Robert E. Peary receives from Hampton's Magazine for his own story of the discovery of the North Pole.

This feature cost Hampton's a clean, cool $50,000. No rate per word is specified in the contract, but it is generally estimated that Commander Peary is receiving $1.18 cash for each word that he writes for Hampton's Magazine. Bend. B. Hampton, editor of the magazine, makes this statement:

"If you have a desire to estimate the rate per word that will be earned by Peary with his North Pole story, you would be safer in placing it at $2.50 per word than $1.20. We have bought only American and Canadian magazine rights, and Stokes' book rights cover only these countries. That leaves all the foreign rights to sell. When they are figured up, the totals should amount to $100,000 or even $150,000."

Peary is not a good business man. As a matter of fact, he is a poor man. Mrs. Peary has been the business head of the family, and the Commander never loses an opportunity to praise her for the manner in which she has labored and borne the brunt of his quarter of a century of work in the Arctic. Peary and Mrs. Peary have sacrificed their material comfort to this Arctic ideal. Every dollar they could spare from actual living expenses has been used to equip expeditions, so that, when Peary returned a few months ago, there was mighty little money in the Peary bank account.

FOR CHRISTMAS

We have quantities of things that will make the best possible gifts for Christmas,—attractive, useful, inexpensive. They are prettier than we can tell in printing, and we have more kinds than we can specify.

We wish you would visit us,—just to see how attractive our shop really is. We have time to show you our goods regardless of sales, and we think you will enjoy looking.

REAL ESTATE.

John T. Burns has sold the property at 57 Hyde avenue, Farlow Hill, Newton, for Mrs. M. Louise Pratt, to M. Hollander of Boston, who will occupy. There is a 15-room house, having three bathrooms and other improvements, occupying 10,250 square feet of land. The total assessment is $18,200.

The same broker has sold three two-family houses, numbered 143, 149 and 153 Charlesbank road, Newton, to Mrs. M. A. Downes of Watertown. The grantor was George M. Bridges. The property is rated at $12,500, and includes 10,995 square feet of land. The nine-apartment frame house at No. 11 Faxon street, Newton, has also been sold by Mr. Burns. The title was given by the Brighton Savings Bank, and the purchaser was M. J. Brown. It is rated at $9,700.

Alford Bros. have made the following leases:—No. 33 Berkeley street, West Newton, for C. F. Leathe for H. S. King.

No. 29 Oxford road, Newton Centre, for C. A. Sawin to B. R. T. Collins. The Newton Centre Garage, No. 792 Beacon street, to Joseph W. Crowell. Suite No. 6 in house No. 3 Bradford court, Newton Centre, to Joseph W. Crowell. Suite No. 1 in house No. 2 Bradford court, to Sydney S. Paine.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The November meeting of the school committee was held last week Wednesday evening, Mr. Botfield in the chair.

The approval of the city solicitor of a charge of $4.00 for residents and of $7.00 for non-residents to cover expense of tuition for the establishment of special post-graduate courses, in addition to cost of materials used, was reported by the superintendent. The resignation of Helen V. Mason of the Bigelow school was accepted to take effect at the Christmas holidays. The superintendent was authorized to make and renew contracts with janitors and engineers.

The schools were ordered closed from noon Thursday, Dec. 23 to Monday, Jan. 3rd for the usual Christmas recess.

TIE GAME.

In an annual contest, postponed from Thanksgiving Day, Newton and Brookline high teams played a 0 to 0 game in Preparatory league series Saturday afternoon on Claffin field at Newtonville, closing the football season.

The teams were pretty evenly matched. In the first period Brookline got the ball on the 5-yard line only to fumble. The visitors fumbled seven times during the contest, Newton recovering the ball each time. Newton fumbled only once.

Brookline made dangerous gains by rushing, but Newton met this by working the forward pass for long gains several times. For Brookline O'Hearn played an admirable game, while of the Newton players Barber, Marshall and Flanagan, the latter playing end instead of his usual position as tackle, were particularly creditable.

IN MEMORY OF THE LATE MISS SARAH SHAW.

As the beautiful petals fade:
As the twilight deepens into gray;
Leaving the lovely, mellow light
To cheer us on the lonely way,—

So, that loved and gentle friend,
Left us, for the Spirit Land,
Left us for the world of bliss
To dwell with Jesus' Angel band.

How hard for mother and friends
To say, "Dear Father, Thy Will be done,"
Yet, in Thy loving, mystic power
That changes not, from sun to sun,

She will rise in realms of light,
With Christ, her Friend and Shepherd
Then, shed no tears of grief today,
But thank our Father, that we loved her here.

THEATRES

Kelth's Theatre—Next week at Kelth's will be one of unusual interest in Boston, from the fact that it will introduce for the first time here in vaudeville Eleanor Gordon, formerly leading lady of the Boston Theatre Stock Company. Miss Gordon has been successful in securing one of the very best short comedies written in years. It is called "Tips on Taps," and the story of the sketch is that of a young wife who secretly plays the races, and goes to her husband's pockets in order to secure money to buy expensive gowns and thus maintain her position of wealth as an aid to his business. The complications into which her falseness leads when she tries to hide her turf operations furnish lively merriment and the finish is exceptionally strong. The surrounding bill will include Carter De Haven, "The Beau Brummel of New York," who made such a hit there with his songs and clever dancing, making his changes of costumes in view of the audience. Other features will be "Sivers" the famous clown, in a most amusing pantomime; the Gordon Eldrid company in a sketch called "Won By A Leg;" the Nichols Sisters, the Kentucky belles; Al Carleton, monologist; The Village Choir, and Appale's Animals.

Boston Theatre—One of the greatest successes of the present season is Klaw & Erlanger's big spectacular production of "The Circus Man," the current attraction at the Boston Theatre. There are many reasons for its success. In the first place it is a dramatization of a widely read book—Holman F. Day's "Squire Phin" which has to do with down east folk. In the next place the star is Maclyn Arbuckle, an actor who has a loyal following in New England and particularly in Boston as his successes as Jim Hackler in "The County Chairman" and "Slim" Hoover in "The Round Up" (Nobody loves a fat man) attest. The play offers the best and most consistent, clean, theatrical treat imaginable. Judged from any viewpoint it is a splendid piece of playwriting. There is an abundance of comedy and there is something in the story that makes a direct and irresistible appeal to the seeker after entertainment. There will be Wednesday and Saturday matinees during the engagement and the regular prices of the Boston Theatre will prevail for all performances.

American Music Hall—Julian Eltinge, conceded by all to be the world's greatest portrayal of feminine characterizations will return home to Boston next week. Julian Eltinge is the last word in the impersonation of characters of the fair sex. His beautiful costumes have at all times been the envy of the women and the admiration of the men. While Mr. Eltinge will retain some of the favorite characterizations which have been seen here before he will introduce many new ones. He will also present his sensational dance called "The Goddess of Insence." Surrounding Mr. Eltinge on the bill will be a big list of stars including Nellie Wallace England's Premier eccentric comedienne. Blake's circus a riot from start to finish. His incredible mule, Maudie's sister, is a whole show in itself. A real novelty will be presented by Staley & Birbeck who are known as the musical blacksmiths. Aside from the sensationalism of the act it is chock full of good music. As a black face comedian George W. Day is in a class by himself. Travesty also finds its place on the bill in the one act comedy "A Lesson at 11 P. M." by Fred Hallen and Mollie Fuller. More music will be furnished by the Kohler Trio, vocalists of rare ability who will offer delightful operatic excerpts.

NEW CHANNEL.

A channel will be dredged from the main channel which was recently made in Charles river near Newton, Faneuil and Watertown to a landing in Newton near the foot of Charlesbank road. The work will be done under direction of the Charles River Improvement Commission, by invitation of residents of this city. The decision will be pleasing to the motorboat owners having crafts on the river, particularly to Newton residents who recently formed the Charlesbank Boat Club and received permission to locate a clubhouse on the riverbank in Ward 7.

Globe Theatre—The story of "The City," Clyde Fitch's last play, is perhaps the most complicated ever written by the gifted author. The first act is laid in a small town in New York state, George Rand, Jr., as the result of sharp practices, has amassed a large fortune. He retains the respect and confidence of the entire community. His son inherits his father's tendencies for underhand methods, but the boy as he grows to manhood, is unconscious of any dishonorable intentions. He is crooked in business without knowing it. For some time the son's one ambition has been to live in New York, and the sudden death of his father makes this possible. The skeleton in the Rand family is the existence of Robert Haddock, an illegitimate son of the elder Rand, which fact the father on his death bed tells his son and heir. The cast includes many notable players, among them being Walter Hampden, Tully Marshall, Eva Vincent, Lucille Watson, Mary Nash, Edward Emery and George Howell. Matinees are given on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Brown of 402 Newtonville avenue, Newtonville, was passed in the quiet of their home on Thanksgiving Day. But the none of their descendants, who would have made the occasion a social event, are now living, and no announcements were sent, the editorial and club associates of the husband, and the family friends of the married pair remembered them with a shower of congratulations and floral gifts, and generous relatives did not forget to count the fifty years in coins of gold. The editors and artists of the staff of the Youth's Companion, with which Mr. Brown has been connected for more than forty years, presented a beautiful framed souvenir with their autographs; a pleasant greeting that will hang in an honored place. The grateful couple return thanks to the kindly ones who thought of them, and presented so many tokens of affectionate remembrance.

FLAG RAISED.

A very pleasant affair, that of a flag raising, took place at the Williams school, Auburndale, the morning before Thanksgiving, in which the teachers and pupils with a number of their friends were much interested. The school had long been in need of a new flag, and through the efforts of Master Dean Johnson Almy, money enough was collected, the flag bought and raised to the top of the pole by Master Almy and his young brother. Owing to the storm compelling the children to remain under cover, the singing had to be given up.

NEW BOOK.

A contribution to literature of unusual value and of much interest to residents of Newton is made in the publication by Little, Brown & Co. of "The Ring and the Book; an Interpretation," by the late Rev. Francis Bickford Hornbrooke, D.D. Dr. Hornbrooke's lectures on Browning's great poem are the basis of this work and those who heard them will recall with what dramatic force he told the intensely thrilling story, presenting with telling effect its impressive lessons. The book contains a fine portrait of Dr. Hornbrooke and a "Foreword" giving a sketch of his life by Mrs. Hornbrooke, who has edited the work for publication. Dr. Hornbrooke ranked among the foremost interpreters of Browning and his old parishioners and friends are gratified that some of the results of his study are thus given to the world. Copies are for sale at H. B. Coffin's.

FOOTBALL.

On Friday the Stearns school football team was defeated for the first time this year by the Newton Centre team on the Newton Centre playgrounds by a score of 5 to 0. In the last five minutes in the second half Miller, Stearns school quarterback, fumbled the ball, and the half back on the other team picked it up and went for the only touch down. Ralph Bowen, the wonderful full back of the Stearns school, made great gains all through the game. In the second half the Stearns school recovered the ball on their five-yard line, and in four rushes Bowen carried the ball to the Newton Centre's three-yard line. But their half back then fumbled the ball and a Newton Centre player recovered it. Cleary did fine work for the Stearns school, making a 45-yard dash in the second half.

REAL ESTATE.

Henry H. Read has sold for William Z. Ripley and Addison C. Burdham, trustees under the will of Charles S. Davis, the property situated No. 982-984 Beacon, corner Crystal streets, Newton Centre. This property consists of a double frame dwelling house with 10,000 square feet of land. The whole assessed on a valuation of $6750. The purchaser buys for investment.

He whose house is heated by steam or hot water is wise; but he is doubly so, who has a "WINCHESTER" heater in his cellar. He is fortified against any weather, no matter how cold. Made by Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.

NEW BOOKS

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD

ISSUE SPLENDID JUVENILES FOR CHRISTMAS

FOR THE STARS AND STRIPES.

By Everett T. Tomlinson.
First Volume of "War for the Union Series." Illustrated by Frank Vining Smith.

There is now a place for a stirring series of books based on the Civil War, written with historical accuracy
and without appeal to sectional bitterness, and all will agree that Dr.
Tomlinson is the man to write it.
This story is based on true happenings, and the thread of it is the escape of a young Union soldier from a Southern prison. Graphically told incidents, true to fact, crowd each other. There are guerrillas, prisons, campaigns, negroes, friends and enemies, loyal men and others, all parts of the tale. Above all, the book is interesting as well as intrinsically valuable, and the keynote to the series will be loyalty to a re-united country,
in which sentiment those of all sections can heartily join. (Price, $1.50.)
Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

THE FOOTBALL BOYS OF LAKE-PORT.

Or More Goals Than One.
By Edward Stratemeyer.
Fourth Volume of the "Lakeport Series." Illustrated by Arthur O.
Scott.

Mr. Stratemeyer shows in this book
what the jolly and dauntless boys of Lakeport did when the football season came around. Their heroes of the baseball field were not long in organizing an eleven, and there followed a series of exciting contests for the Lake Pennant. The boys had a college man to coach them, and made a number of brilliant plays, some of which are described in detail. How the quarter-back helped his rival of the gridiron to get away from his enemies and reach the field in time, and then defeated him, is strikingly told.
But the story is not all football, and some jolly times on the water and on an island are depicted, and the author shows how a youth, intensely shrinking, overcame his timidity and made something of himself by simply saying "I will" and sticking to it. (Price, $1.25.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

AMERICAN PATTY.

A Story of 1812.
By Adele E. Thompson.
Fifth Volume of "Brave Heart Series." Illustrated by J. W. Kennedy.

Patty is a brave, winsome girl of sixteen whose family have settled across the Canadian border and are living in peace and prosperity, and on the best of terms with the neighbors and friendly Indians. There are hungry wolves, to be sure, and Patty shows her courage in escaping from them, but strife with fellow-men is unthought of. All this is suddenly entirely changed by the breaking out of war, and unwillingness on the part of her father and brother to serve against their native land brings distress and deadly peril. But all ends well, and the reader rejoices with the brave girl who never fails in patriotism, duty, or cheerfulness.
There is need of such books to show what has been endured to make our country possible. (Price, $1.25.)
Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

THE BOY WITH THE U. S.
SURVEY.

By Francis Rolt-Wheeler.
First Volume of "U. S. Service Series." Thirty-seven illustrations from photographs taken in work for U. S.
Government. Price $1.50.

This is the first of a series of boys'
books along entirely new lines. Appealing to the boy's love of excitement, this series gives actual experiences in the different branches of government work little known to the general public. This story describes the thrilling adventures of members of the U. S. Geological Survey, graphically woven into a stirring narrative that both pleases and instructs.
The author enjoys an intimate acquaintance with the chiefs of the various bureaus in Washington, and the finished manuscript is submitted to them for final approval to ensure accuracy of statement. These are the very books that will develop boys into well-informed and valuable citizens of these United States, alive to the needs of conservation of the vast resources and energies of their country. The illustrations from photographs are of unusual excellence.
Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

THE LITTLE HEROINE AT SCHOOL.

By Alice Turner Curtis.
Second Volume of "Little Heroine Series." Illustrated by J. W. Kennedy. Price, $1.25.

Happy Edith Austin, the "Little Heroine of Illinois," is sent to a girls' school in the suburbs of Boston, where she enjoys all the good things, learns many valuable lessons,
makes friends, and, best of all, discovers that she is not a waif without relatives but has cousins of whom she can be justly proud, and who are equally glad to acknowledge her. It is a complete story in itself, with a well-defined plot, and including many delightful incidents, as well as suggestions in regard to entertainments
for school-girls, and shows a steady development of character which makes Edith and her schoolmates valuable acquaintances for girls of twelve and fourteen. Her efforts to economize and her courage and success in turning dislike into loyal friendship will touch every girl's heart, and awaken the desire to be as true to her ideals as is Edith Austin.
Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

HELEN GRANT, TEACHER.

By Amanda Douglas.
Seventh Volume of "Helen Grant Series." Illustrated by Amy Brooks.
Price, $1.25.

Helen Grant, the interesting young college graduate, is a teacher in the new high school in a small town. Her experiences and encounters with the pupils, among whom are some very active youths, offer opportunities for the young teacher to show herself earnest and capable. Her great desire to be of benefit to those in her charge, and the pleasing manner in which she meets the different situations in school life, endear her not only to the pupils but to their parents as well, and she wins the love and admiration of all. In all her long career as a writer of favorite books, Miss Douglas has never created a more attractive character than Helen Grant, the friend and inspiration of an ever-widening circle of older girls.
Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.

MOTHER TUCKER'S SEVEN.

By Angelina W. Wray. Illustrated by Elizabeth Withington. 12mo Cloth.

Here is a story that appeals to one instantly, and containing the same elements that have made the famous "Pepper Books" the success that they are: the merry, active life of a loving family forced to find pleasure in most economical ways, but never letting it prevent very great happiness in each other, and the resolute overcoming of obstacles. "Mother Tucker" is the refined, delicate widow of a country
clergyman who lost his life in an act of heroism, and the seven children are of varying ages, but all are busy and cheery. How the boys plan to earn money, how love for her own family proves stronger than the attraction of wealth to pretty Molly,
and what even little Martha can do,
must be read to be appreciated, and one need not be ashamed of wet eyes
when "Merry" wins a prize on a piece written in secret by her kind eldest sister. Mother Tucker and her
"seven" deserve every bit of the good fortune that comes to them. (Price, $1.25.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

DOROTHY BROWN.

A Story for Girls.
By Nina Rhoades. Illustrated by Elizabeth Withington. Large 12mo Cloth.

This is a story for somewhat older girls than the famous "Brick House Books" by this author, but with the same winsome quality, a more elaborate plot, and much longer. It introduces the heroine in New York as a little girl of eight, but soon passes over six years and finds her at a select family boarding-school in Connecticut. An important part of the story also takes place at the Profile House in the White Mountains. The charm of school-girl friendship is finely brought out, and the kindness of heart, good sense and good taste which find constant expression in the books by Miss Rhoades do not lack for characters to show these best qualities by their lives. Other less admirable persons of course appear to furnish the alluring mystery which is not all cleared up until the very last. The great number of "Brick House Book" readers who will want this book will find their interest materially increased by the reappearance of favorite characters in other books, and its success is assured from the first. (Price, $1.50.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.

THE SCHOOL FOUR.

By A. T. Dudley First Volume of "Stories of the Triangular League."
Illustrated by Charles Copeland.
12mo cloth.

Mr. Dudley, having by his "Phillips-Exeter Series" placed himself in the very front rank of all writers who give prominence to school athletics, now turns from it temporarily to begin another series of similar nature and no less interest. The events of the story centre in the Westcott School, one of three which have formed a new league. The leading forms of athletics, including rowing, figure in the gaining of points towards the championship cup, and the rivalry is most intense. At Westcott's, the crowning student honor is the captaincy of the school four, and the way
in which the succession to the coveted position falls to the one best deserving it forms the climax. Football is no less prominent in the progress of the story than rowing, and both general school life and competitive relations with other schools are graphically set forth. One of the best features of this really great book for boys lies in the contrast shown between the boy with some ability who talks himself into prominence at first,
but does not hold the pace, and the modest fellow, who starts quietly, but is "coming" all the time. The career of the hero is typical of Mr. Dudley's books. This book is especially valuable in that it gives, better than has ever before been given, a word-picture of life at one of the great private schools which form such a feature of the American educational world, and send to the colleges so many of the best athletes as well as of the finest students. (Price, $1.25.) Lothrop,
Lee & Shepard Co.

WINNING HIS SHOULDER STRAPS.

Or Bob Anderson at Chatham Military School.

By Norman Brainerd First volume of the "Five Chums Series." Illustrated
by Frank Vining Smith. 12mo Cloth.
A stirring story of life in a military different from the ordinary boarding-school. Bob Anderson, the hero, is a good friend to the to, and each of his four particular friends is a worthy companion, with well-sustained individuality. The school is in the northwestern part of the State of New York, and, of course, a little world in itself. The dearest honor to a student is to become an officer, and these coveted honors are secured partly by competitive rank and partly by popular vote. Among all kinds of dispositions, temperaments, and every boy, good, bad, and indifferent, is a natural fellow, who talks and acts like a bright, up-to-date lad in real life. (Price, $1.25.) Lothrop, Lee &

BROWNING LECTURE.

Permit me to publicly express my appreciation of the recent interpretation of Browning given by the Rev. R. W. Van Kirk at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wildes Smith on Tuesday evening.
Mr. Van Kirk's impersonation of the characters of Count Guido at his first reading, and of Canon (apocryphal) last Tuesday evening were truly realistic. He enters so perfectly into the spirit of Browning's creations as to cause his hearers to forget the reader and to see only the villainous count, and the pure minded priest as they give their defense before the judges.
Truly to lovers of good reading and of Browning's masterpiece "The Ring and the Book," they have been two evenings of rare enjoyment.
Mr. Van Kirk has a wide reputation as an interpreter of Browning and it is to be hoped that the people of Newton may have further opportunities to hear him.
FRED L. SMITH, Newtonville.

THE GINGER JAR

The world hath many prizes
To offer the sons of men;
And ever deeds of valor
Have engaged the flattering pen.

We sing of a humble worker,
A toiler unknown of the mob;
Of one who fails not nor falters—
The man who is right on the job.

If we were as silent with respect
To our achievements as we are to our mistakes,
What a silent world this would be.

Perhaps Fletcher got his idea of the healthfulness of thorough chewing from the cow. She stands at the head in that line.

J. J. Hill, the railroad magnate, must be a first-class driver since he can handle several lines at once.

Many a man who is "down on his luck" might easily reach prosperity by preface his luck with a "p."

In baseball the pitcher may hand up all the curves he pleases and still play a straight game.

It may be pleasant to sit in the lap of luxury, but consider how it hurts to be tumbled out.

What the corn heard with its ears and the potato saw with its eyes, none will ever know.

Why is Johnny like a side-tracked freight car? Because he has been switched.

The nightmare waits for those who indulge in too much Christmas cheer.

The potato bug is bad enough, but the ever-present humbug is worse.

Most schoolboys would rather eat a "pleeg" than speak one.

A man is in no condition to settle down until he has settled up.

"Weather" may justly be termed a bad spell of weather.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

The "Christmas Stamps" issued by the Newton Federation for the benefit of the tuberculosis work have arrived and been placed in the hands of the club presidents. They are very attractive in design with a wreath enclosing a double cross and bear the words, "Newton, Mass., Federation of Women's Clubs, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year." They are printed in three colors, red, green and gold. Their use is not confined to members of the Federation, but for anyone interested in the object they represent. Let every woman support this endeavor, remembering that the complete sale of the issue will mean some $900 for a good cause.

On Monday afternoon, Dec. 6, the Mothers' Club will listen to a lecture by Mr. Charles S. Thomas of the Newton High School on "Literature and Life."

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Dec. 7 there will be a musicale. The Current Events lecture will be given by Mrs. May Alden Ward on Dec. 9.

The Civics Committee of the Massachusetts State Federation will hold a conference at Cary avenue church, Chelsea, Thursday, December 9, at 2 P. M. Members of civics committees and others interested in civic and social service work are invited to attend.

Mrs. Ellen H. Richards of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will speak before the Social Science Club on Dec. 8, subject, "The Hygiene of Housekeeping." Guests may be invited.

About one hundred members and friends of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands listened with interest to a lecture by Mr. Seumas McManus upon Irish Songs and Folklore, on Monday evening, Nov. 29. The speaker was dressed in native costume which greatly resembled the Scotch. He said that the Scotch derived theirs from the Irish. Music and an informal reception completed an enjoyable evening. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Robert Gorton of Berkeley street, West Newton. In addition to the usual papers there will be vocal music of unusual attraction.

A very enjoyable lecture, entitled "How the Other Half Live in France," was given by Miss Anna Seaton Schmidt before the Waban Woman's Club last Monday afternoon. Miss Schmidt proved herself thoroughly conversant with her subject and gave her hearers many new ideas of life in France, particularly among the peasant classes.

Mrs. Josephine K. Crain, president of the club, was the hostess of the day, while at the tea table were Mrs. William H. Parker and Mrs. Donald M. Hill.

The meeting on Dec. 13 will take the form of "Gentlemen's Night" and will be held in Waban hall.

The Pierlan Club met with Mrs. H.

E. Locke of Boylston street on Wednesday afternoon. After the business meeting Mrs. Blanche E. Hyde of the Technical High School spoke upon Household Economics.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning the first hour of the session was given to the monthly routine business with reports from standing committees. The social service committee placed on sale the Christmas stamps which have been issued by the Newton Federation for the benefit of the tuberculosis work. The stamp savings committee reported that its work is going on satisfactorily. The forestry committee proposes to start a study class in the near future. The chairman of the Consumer's League committee urged thoughtfulness on the part of the women in their Christmas shopping, especially in the delivery of packages, not to necessitate its being done late in the evening.

In accordance with the new plan this season the second hour was given to a speaker. Rev. John Hopkins Denison, D. D., of the Central church, Boston, spoke on the "Boston 1915 Movement." Dr. Denison's address has already been fully reported in these columns in connection with the account of the State Federation meeting at Brockton, so it is only necessary to recall a few of his chief points: The existence of much prejudice, both race and religious, of class, and corporation, and church selfishness and the necessity of getting rid of these. The need of all pulling together in order to accomplish anything. The movement stands for a plan, the best possible one, and for a date ahead at the expiration of which something ought to be accomplished. It also stands for sticking to that plan if it takes five, fifty or one hundred years to succeed; for asking the question, What are you doing for Boston? and chiefly for an optimistic outlook, instead of picking flaws and denouncing everything that is proposed. It is, indeed, a united movement for progress.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will meet on Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 2:30 at Grand Army Hall, Masonic Temple, Newtonville.

The entertainment committee have prepared a special feature for the social hour which is to follow the business meeting and all members are cordially urged to be present.

Castle Square Theatre—The triumphant success of "Hamlet" at the Castle Square a few weeks ago showed that the John Craig Stock Company possesses a remarkable versatility, and the praises showered upon his production from all sides has emboldened Mr. Craig to give another Shakespearean play during the coming week. In order to offer a contrast, he will turn from tragedy to farce, the play chosen being the merry and lively "Taming of the Shrew," which is one continuous laugh from beginning to end. It has been usual in times past to give this play in an incomplete version, but Mr. Craig will produce it in its entirety, including the preliminary induction in which appear Christopher Sly and his companions, and following the memorable arrangement of the play that Augustine Daly and Ada Rehan gave such vogue to a dozen years ago.

LECTURE COURSE.

The third season of popular lectures given under the auspices of the Men's League of the Newton Highlands Congregational church has just been announced and includes a lecture on "Negro Education not a Failure," by Dr. Booker T. Washington, on December 7th, one on "Wild Animal Life" on January 11th, by Rev. William J. Long, "German and American Ideals" by Dr. Eduard Meyer on January 25th, "Lawyers" on March 8th by Hon. Samuel L. Powers and "Readings from Dickens" on April 5th by Mr. Charles T. Copeland.

MR. SMITH DEAD.

Mr. Nathaniel Selwyn Smith, a well known resident of Newtonville, died on Saturday, November twentieth, after a long period of failing health. He was born in Boston, August twenty-seventh, 1832, and was the son of Phoebe E. and Nathaniel P. Smith, formerly of Groton and Newton. He leaves a widow, one son and two daughters. Funeral services were held from his late residence, 46 Lowell avenue, on Wednesday, November twenty-fourth, at 2:30 P. M., the Rev. Richard T. Loring, of St. John's church officiating and the burial was in the Newton cemetery.

FOOTBALL.

An interesting game took place at Boyd park last Saturday between the Gardners and the Union A. C. Juniors. Neither side were victorious and as a consequence both sides have a claim to the championship for 65-pound teams. It was the second tie game that had been played between the two teams.

HELD UP

COWS STOP TRAIN

Six cows that were being driven from the farm of Frank A. Hurley in Newton Centre to Brighton escaped from their driver Tuesday night and held up a train on the Boston & Albany circuit line west of Chestnut Hill station.

The cows had been sold Tuesday and early that evening a man started to drive them from the Hurley farm at 30 Hurley place, in the outskirts of Newton Centre, to Brighton, where it was intended to kill and dress them. When well into the Chestnut Hill district the entire drove took to the railroad tracks despite effort of the driver to keep them in the road. As a train approached the cows refused to budge. One of them was struck by the locomotive and got off the track in a hurry. It became necessary to stop the train and "shoo" off the others.

The cows then went into the woods and wandered off in different directions. Wednesday morning five of them returned to the barn. Patrolman McAleer found the one that had been struck by the train walking around the Boylston street district. He took her to a Newton Centre stable.

Make your calls in a taxicab. Phone South 700.

The Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., will send a barrel to Brewer Normal School, Greenwood, South Carolina. Articles of clothing, books and magazines are solicited, and may be left at Mrs. Willard Tripp's, 23 Boyd street, by December 20.

GOOD ADVICE

CHRISTMAS RESOLVES

1. I am resolved that through no neglect or carelessness of mine shall any person be prevented from having a Merry Christmas.

2. To this end I am resolved to complete my purchases at least a week before Christmas.

3. If for any reason I should fall in this resolution, I shall exercise all gentleness, kindness and patience while making my purchases.

4. I am resolved so to arrange and simplify my Christmas work that I shall not come to Christmas Day too weary to enjoy it and to give Good Cheer.

5. I will make no gift which is not an expression of my love and good will, or of my genuine desire to give pleasure.

6. In selecting my gifts, I will be guided solely by fitness, not by financial value.

7. I will be simple in my giving, spending no more than I can easily afford.

8. As far as possible I will make my gifts an expression of myself.

9. I am resolved to make Christmas a distinctly happier day for at least one person who feels no claim on me.

10. I shall delay no creditor for the sake of making Christmas gifts, but shall regard the payment of my bills as a better expression of the Christmas spirit than the making of gifts.

WABAN SCHOOL.

Mr. Leon H. Vincent, the distinguished lecturer, will lecture on Sir Walter Scott, at Waban School, Waban, Mass., next Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock. A most cordial invitation to be present is extended to all.

SURPRISED

PARTY AT AUBURNDALE

Mr. Harold N. Clarke was very pleasantly surprised on last Saturday evening, at his home on Auburndale avenue. At about 8 o'clock a number of his friends gathered at the house and when, a few minutes later, he came home, it was a complete surprise, although his emotions were so well governed that many thought the secret had got out.

During the evening Mr. Chester Tainter presented Mr. Clarke with a very classy stick pin which followed a very creditable speech. Those present were: Misses Gladys Taylor, Grace Clarke, Myrtle Ford, Sadie Costley, Jessie Costley, Beth Watts, Clara Watts, Eleanor Campbell, Rose Conroy, Harold Clarke, Richard Morey, Ted Smith, Chester Tainter, Miller Harold, Harley Thayer, Allen Peck, Brewster Cook and Ralph Percival.

The evening was filled out with games and music after which refreshments were served. "To be or not to be" warm. That is the question which confronts the house holder. A "WINCHESTER" steam or hot water heater gives perfect warmth to the coldest weather. Made by Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

A horse attached to a carriage occupied by John Daley of 9 Carrigan place, Brookline, and John Driscoll of 38 White place, Brookline, became frightened at a motor cycle when on Brookline street, Oak Hill, Friday afternoon and ran away, both men being thrown out. Driscoll had his left leg and left arm fractured, and Daley received several broken ribs. The horse was caught after running some distance. The men were removed to their homes.

ban, Mass., next Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock. A most cordial invitation to be present is extended to all.

BAD FIRE

F. W. STEARNS' HOUSE DAMAGED

The alarm early Tuesday afternoon from box 13 was for a fire in the ell of the residence of Mr. Frank W. Stearns on Park street, Newton. It is said that the cause was a defective flue, and while the firemen were able to confine the flames to the rear of the house, considerable damage was done, principally to the second floor and attic. The loss is estimated at over $5,000, covered by insurance.

For quick service use a taxicab. Phone South 700.

SQUASH TENNIS.

In the opening matches of the Massachusetts squash racquet association series Newton Centre Saturday afternoon won three out of four from B. A. A. on the Newton Centre squash tennis club courts.

The matches were well played, those in which Wales beat Hutchins and in which Nichols won from Cutler being particularly sharp. The summary:

Wales, Newton Centre, beat Hutchins, B. A. A., 11-15, 15-10, 18-17. Speare, Newton Centre, beat Greenough, B. A. A., 15-5, 15-2. Nichols, B. A. A., beat Cutler, Newton Centre, 3-15, 17-15, 18-17. Pratt, Newton Centre, beat Mason, B. A. A., 14-18, 15-4, 15-3.

D. A. R.

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton, met with Mrs. Benjamin W. Hackett, The Beaconfield, Brookline, Monday, Dec. 6, at three o'clock. The company were received by the Regent, Mrs. Arthur P. Friend, who was also a hostess, and Mrs. Hackett. Miss Ethel Jaynes of West Newton sang charmingly a group of songs, followed by the paper of the afternoon, read by Mrs. John W. Deering, former Regent of the Boston Tea Party Chapter.

The company were delightfully entertained with the history of Sir William Pepperell, the only American-born who was ever made a Baronet.

After singing "America," a social hour was enjoyed while the guests were served to dainty refreshments.

VILLAGE NIGHT

HELD AT NEWTON CENTRE

POP CONCERT AND DANCE THE ATTRACTIONS

The annual village night of the Newton Centre Improvement Association was held Wednesday evening in Bray hall of that village and over four hundred were present to enjoy the program. The affair took the form of a pop concert and the audience were seated at some 65 tables and served with light refreshments by the young ladies and young men of the village. Booths at the sides of the hall with attractive ladies in charge sold candies and flowers and the bar at the corner, where one could obtain lemonade, cider, ginger ale and even soda lemonade was well patronized. Possibly this was due to the fact that the spectacle of the two largest men in the village, gowned in regulation barkeeper's costumes, ordered about by the chairman of the committee, a man only half their size, was alone worth the price of admission.

The hall was most attractively decorated with bands of bunting draped in double rows around the walls, the lower band broken at frequent intervals with the national flags and appropriate pictures, and streamers from all sides of the hall centering above the chandeliers. Cigars were sold by young men dressed in Turkish costume and a rushing business was done during the entire evening.

The following program was rendered by Kanrich's Orchestra and met with hearty and frequent applause, the audience joining in singing the choruses of the popular songs.

1. March, "Gridiron King".....Fletcher
2. Overture, "Orpheus".....Offenbach
3. Waltz, "Spring, Beautiful Spring".....Lincke

4. Selection from "The Three Twins".....Hoschma
5. Intermezzo and Barcarole.....Offenbach

From "The Tales of Hoffman"

6. Popular Songs:

a. My Cousin, Caruso, Edwards

b. I've got Rings.....Scott

7. Three Dances from "Henry VIII":

a. Morris Dance.....German

b. Shepherd's Dance

c. Torch Dance

8. Selection from "Faust".....Gounod

9. March, "St. Botolph".....Spalding

10. Waltz, "Blue Danube".....Strauss

11. Popular Songs:

a. I wish I had a Girl.....Le Boy

b. Arab Love Song.....Hein

12. Dance of the Hours.....Ponchielli

From "La Gioconda"

13. "Wild Cherries" Rag.....Snyder

At the conclusion of the concert, the floor was cleared for dancing which lasted until midnight.

The evening was in charge of the following committees, Mr. Wm. H. Rice, chairman; Mr. Sumner Clement, secretary; Mr. A. C. Burnham, treasurer:

Hall and Decorations.

Alfred E. Alvord, Chairman; Morton E. Cobb, William G. Snow.

BIJOU THEATRE.

The Bijou has now been fitted up as a first class vaudeville and moving picture theatre. Polite vaudeville is introduced between the reels together with illustrated songs making a complete program without a change.

Wednesday night of each week is amateur night and local talent is invited to send in their names for the competition for the prizes on these nights. The Bijou has an asbestos curtain and scenery and is enjoying good patronage in its new capacity.

LATE CAR.

Beginning next Sunday morning the Street Railway Company will run a late car from upper Main street, Waltham, to Nonantum square and return, leaving Waltham at 1.00 A. M. and Nonantum square for the return trip at 1.35 A. M. The service will be an experiment for 60 days and will continue if the patronage warrants.

PENSIONS FOR TEACHERS.

Pensions for public school teachers were urged by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston, secretary of the state board of education, in an address before the members of Newton equal franchise league yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. George F. Lowell, in Newtonville.

She declared that the need of pensioning public school teachers is a pressing one. She added that teachers are, in reality, social workers, although they receive less pay than most workers classed as such. She predicted that public school teachers will get larger salaries as quickly as their work in social lines becomes generally recognized.

The Newton equal franchise league has in preparation a large petition to the mayor and aldermen asking the pensioning of public school teachers after 25 years of service.

POP CONCERT.

The second in a series of Pop Concerts, under the auspices of Newton Lodge, I. O. O. F., will be held next Wednesday evening at eight in Odd Fellows Hall, West Newton. The M. Millie Beardsley Concert Co. will provide the entertainment, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Weaver Bold, reader, and Miss Louise Chisholm, soprano. The concert will be followed by dancing. Tees and soft drinks will be provided.

CALEB STARK CHAPTER.

Caleb Stark Chapter, Junior Sons and Daughters, will meet with the treasurer, Miss Gladys White, 73 Crescent avenue, Newton Centre, next Saturday morning. An interesting program has been arranged by the hostess, who has invited the State director, Mrs. Mary-Abby Proctor, to be present. Miss White and Miss Marion Campbell will serve as ushers at the D. R. State Christmas party, to be given on Saturday, Dec. 18. The Junior work is one of the many departments which the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., of Newton, is successfully carrying on, and the newly-appointed director, Miss Marion D. Tucker, is getting the Caleb Stark Chapter in excellent condition.

D. R.

Attended by a large number of guests a subscription dance was conducted by Sarah Hull chapter, D. R., in aid of its patriotic work, at the Newton club house, Newtonville, Friday evening. The matrons were Mrs. Daniel A. White, Mrs. Charles A. Clarke, Mrs. Harold H. Shumway, Mrs. Thomas M. Elwell and Mrs. Charles O. Tucker.

Lower Falls.

The bazaar conducted by the ladies of the M. E. church Wednesday afternoon and evening was under general direction of Mrs. Peter C. Baker, Mrs. E. H. Thurmer and Mrs. H. Littlefield. The chairmen of the several tables were the following: Miscellaneous Table, Mrs. Rutherford Lambert; Apron, Mrs. Mary Wilson; Mystery, Mrs. Frank Baker; Candy, Miss Mabel Wales; Supper, Mrs. P. C. Baker; Ice Cream, Levi Wales. The bazaar was attended by several hundred persons.

N. H. S.

The Newton high school faculty announced this week that Albert Vinal cannot play on the basketball team this winter because of being a post-graduate. Vinal was ruled off the football team for the same reason after having played most of the practice games. The committee ruled that Vinal would have been eligible if he had taken a five-year course, but having received his diploma last June for four years' work he must be considered a post-graduate.

It was also voted to follow a new system of appointing managers for the athletic teams, two boys being elected by the junior class, and whichever assistant manager does the better work will be chosen as manager for his senior year.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

dangers from the use of the common drinking cup.

No meeting is complete without a word from the president of the Federation. Miss Bacon spoke briefly of the work done by her own club in Worcester. She pointed out that the Public School Association is quite different from the Home and School Association, touched upon the Mothers' Club in connection with the kindergartens and emphasized the value of the social hour in engendering a democratic spirit in the community.

At the close tea was served by the New England Women's Club and many remained to discuss these matters further.

The Newton Mothers' Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. D. G.
Wing of Otis street, West Newton, on Monday afternoon. The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Charles L.
Thomas of the English department of the Newton High School and his subject "Literature and Life." All who heard him were hearty in their commendation of the lecture. The usual social hour followed.

At the meeting of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands on December 6 a delightful musical program was given by Mr. and Mrs. Dunsmuir and Mr. Barnes, in addition to the papers.
Dickens is the character being studied this month. At this meeting a sketch of his life was given and also a review of David Copperfield. Next week the club meets with Mrs. Chamberlain of Centre street.

The annual musicale of the Newton-ville Woman's Guild was given under the direction of Mrs. Josephine Martin Wakefield on Tuesday afternoon.
The artists taking part were Mr. Alfred F. Denghausen, baritone, Miss Allice Pillsbury accompanist and Miss Marion L. Tufts, pianist. The program was of high order and much enjoyed by all present.

At Waban Hall on Monday evening, December 13, the Waban Woman's Club will observe "Gentlemen's Night." Mrs. Emily Farrow Gregory will be the entertainer, her subject,
"Cabin Days in Dixie."

The subject of the paper to be given on Wednesday at the Social Science Club will be "The Campaign for Pure Food."

On Friday, December 17, from 11
A. M. to 5 P. M. the West Newton
Women's Educational Club will hold a "Twenty-five Cent Sale" in Players' Small Hall. This will be an excellent opportunity to buy small articles for Christmas as well as those of greater value. There will also be a food sale
in addition to the fancy articles.

POINSETTIA BAZAAR.

A Poinsettia Bazaar was held Wednesday afternoon and evening in the parlors of Central church under the auspices of the Ladies' Fund Association. The various tables were attractively decorated, the brilliant red
of the poinsettia flowers giving a dash
of color on the white background.
There was a large attendance. A turkey supper was served at 6.30 and in the evening a Victor Graphophone concert was given. The tables were in charge of the following ladies:
Fancy Table, Mrs. Henry F. Ross;
Mother Goose Room, Children's Table,
Mrs. Edwin D. Dodge; Preserves, Mrs.
A. H. Patterson; Apron, Mrs. Z. D.
Kelly; Gift, Mrs. F. Carr; Candy,
Misses Thayer and Spear; Ice Cream, Queens of Avillon, under direction of Mrs. Eleanor Nagle; Goose Head
Grab Box, Miss Hamilton. A turkey supper was served under the management of Mrs. John W. Byers and Mrs.
William E. Strong, chairman of the Association. Over $525 was cleared.

scribed the water supply of Los Angeles, Cal., which comes from the Sierra Nevada mountains.

—The party given at the Hunne-well Club Thursday evening for the members of the parish of Grace church was largely attended. The entertainment consisted of soprano solos
by Miss Clara Sexton; readings by Miss Billie Garrison, and cello solos
by Mr. Carl Webster. The program was under the direction of Mr. A. H.
Handley. An interesting feature of the evening was the presentation of a purse of gold to Mr. Charles N.
Shaden the choir master by Rev. Dr.
MacLure on behalf of the parish.
Light refreshments and dancing followed.

—Mrs. Catherine Kelly Kinsela, for 45 years a resident of the Nonantum
district, died at her home on West street last evening after a year's illness with paralysis. Mrs. Kinsela was twice married, her first husband being Joseph Kelly, who died some years ago and her second husband being the late James Kinsela. She is survived by two sons, Robert Kelly of Somerville, and James Kelly of Baltimore, and four daughters, Mrs. Rose Flood of Nantasket, Mrs. Mary Roch-

music and readings was given in the evening, under the direction of Mrs.
Geo. Barber. The sale was under the management of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. F. A. Hubbard, president, and a good sum was realized which will be applied to church work.

MOTHERS' REST.

The Immigrant Party that is to occur in Bray Hall on Jan. 3, is already creating much interest and promises to afford more entertainment than is often crowded into one evening. The executive committee comprise Mrs.
Frank A. Mason, Mrs. Arthur C.
Badger, Mrs. W. C. Bray, Mrs. John
Sanborn, Mrs. Wm. Coolidge, Mrs. S.
A. Shannon, Mrs. H. R. Luther, and Mrs. E. Ray Speare. Tickets may be obtained from them or any woman interested in the Mothers' Rest. The date has been chosen especially for our sons and daughters who will be at home from school and college.

Newtonville

—Mr. Calvert Crary of Foster street is spending the week in Binghampton,
N. Y.

—A meeting of the Claffin Club will be held Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Methodist church.

—A Lend-A-Hand whist was held Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Angie L. Savage on Brooks avenue.

—Mrs. Edgar M. Daniels of Court street is back from a several months'
visit in Chicago and other western points.

Cards have been sent out by the Elmwood Club for a dancing party to be held in Dennison hall next Saturday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

—In the parish house of the Universalist church next Thursday evening the Thespians will present the three-act military comedy, "A Little Savage."

—The first open night of "The Polymnia" will be held Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Arthur F. Jones on Newtonville avenue.

—The quarterly conference of the Methodist church was held Tuesday evening with Rev. J. W. Campbell at the parsonage on Newtonville avenue.

—The first of a series of assemblies,
in charge of Miss Harrington, was held at the Newton Club Tuesday evening. Dancing was enjoyed from 8.30 to 1 o'clock.

—Dr. Henry E. Goddard of Brockton, Mass., will deliver a lecture in the parlors of the Church of the New Jerusalem, Highland avenue, next Sunday evening, at eight o'clock. Subject: "Mental Healing."

—At Central church on the Friday evenings during Advent Rev. J. T.
Stocking will speak on appropriate themes as follows: Dec. 10, "The Light of the World"; Dec. 17, "The Hope of the World"; Dec. 24, "The Joy of the World."

—A series of special meetings, to continue two weeks, will be held at the Methodist church beginning Sunday, January 2. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. Dr. L. J. Blaney of Malden and Rev. L. H. Bugbee of Brookline.

—A recital was given in the New Church parlors Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Newtonville
Women's Guild. The talent was Miss Marion L. Tufts, pianist, Mr. Alfred
F. Denghausen, baritone, and Miss Allice Pillsbury, accompanist.

—The annual turkey supper and sale by the Sewing Circle of the Universalist church was held in the parish house yesterday afternoon and evening and was largely attended. An unintentional injustice was done the ladies of this church by the item last week to the effect that this supper had been held the week previous, instead of the advance notice which should have been published. The editor deeply regrets the error and offers his most humble apology.

THE LICENSE VOTE.

As there is to be so little contest in the municipal election this year, many voters have said that it would be useless to go to the polls. It is just this spirit and conditions that the liquor interests are praying for, and that will, some day, make it possible for them to approach us the morning after election with the salutation, "We are going to have a wet season." Every voter who has the interest of the commonwealth at heart, should make a special effort to go to the polls and cast a NO vote on the license question, as the larger the total NO vote in the state, the more likely we are to secure good temperance legislation, and a rigid enforcement of the law. A large NO vote here would also signify to the officials that a rigid enforcement of the law is demanded in Newton. Statistics show that many who vote the rest of the ticket, neglect to vote on the question of license. If Newton ever goes license it will be the result of this neglect coupled with the stay at homes. When there are voters in our city who go, and vote simply and solely for license, it behooves us to get every NO vote possible. This is a duty we owe to our homes, society and the state.

PROTECT THE LAUREL.

Our mountain laurel, Kalmia latifolia, is one of our most beautiful native shrubs, both when covered with its wonderful masses of pink and white flowers in early summer and during the rest of the year on account of its rich foliage. Being an evergreen, which very few of our native shrubs are, it makes a striking feature in a winter landscape.

Laurel is distributed from Canada to Florida, and is a typical feature of our New England woods and pastures. Not occurring in other countries, it is an essentially American plant, and it should be our pleasure and duty to protect it from destruction; but its very beauty and charm induce cutting to an alarming extent. It is gathered extensively twice a year. In summer the flowers are taken for church and house decoration. In winter the inroads are much more extensive and dangerous. Enormous quantities are then used for festoons, wreaths, etc., in the Christmas dressing of churches and the decoration of ball-rooms. As it is then cold weather, the foliage keeps well, and bears transportation to a distance, so that the quantity collected is only limited by the demand and the available material. It is to be noted that this cutting is all from wild laurel growth, not from plants which are grown for this purpose, although it is a shrub easily cultivated.

The flowers are borne only upon the shoots of the previous year's growth, so that, if these are cut, a year's flowering is lost; and, when looking at long festoons of laurel leaves, it is saddening to think of the great quantity of blooms that has been destroyed for the next summer in this truly extravagant winter decoration.

The owner of a laurel swamp recently gave permission to a florist to get "a little laurel for Christmas decoration." The florist brought a cart and devastated the place, so that there were hardly any flowers the next summer. Such excessive depredations on a slow-growing plant cannot but have a most serious effect in localities which are accessible to our large towns.

What can be done to prevent this destruction? It might be lessened by cutting the laurel properly and using it in moderation; but in no such way could the present demand be supplied. The only effective way is to stop the demand. We must face the fact that the laurel should not under existing circumstances be cut at all, and that its place should not be supplied by other evergreens.

What then can be done?

First, we can, given a sufficient motive, live without decorations.

Second, we can for ordinary festivities adopt decorations wholly artificial—paper foliage, flowers, etc., or merely crepe paper; for church and other dignified occasions use simply cultivated flowers and potted plants.

Third, we can both refrain from using laurel now and at the same time cultivate it in any quantities we please for judicious use in a few years. All this may seem to many a violation of sentiment. But can we heal-tate between the sentiment which recklessly destroys for a passing pleasure, and that sentiment which cherishes and conserves, not only for ourselves and our neighbor, but for all who come after us? We Americans need to learn moderation, a lesson in taste as well as in morals,—to find as much pleasure in a few flowers or a single spray of foliage as in the masses which we now think indispensable.

It is merely a question of time as to the laurel. Shall we stop using it now while we have some left to rejoice in as it grows, or shall we stop only when we have no more anywhere?

REAL ESTATE.

Through the office of John T. Burns of Newton and Newtonville the estate at 16 Harvard street, Newtonville, has been sold to W. D. Felton of Boston. The grantor is Mrs. S. M. Kimball. The property is assessed on a basis of $16,500 and consists of a 15-room residence and 26,690 square feet of land. The new owner intends to occupy after making extensive improvements.

Mr. Burns also reports the sale of the corner estate at 124 Grasmere street, consisting of a 12-room house, together with 3750 square feet of land. F. A. Krim of Allston has bought for a home. John McCannan of Newton was the grantor. This estate is valued at $10,000.

The above broker also reports the sale of the property at 12 Copley street, Newton, consisting of a 10-room modern house, together with 8000 square feet of land, the whole rated at $9500. The grantor was H. D. Corey and the purchaser Dr. W. F. Whitney.

NEWTON BLUE BOOK.

A canvass is being made for the only exclusive Newton Blue Book which will be issued the last of the winter. This book is published bi-yearly.

There is a large and growing list of subscribers who appreciate and use this book.

It contains much useful matter and information for reference in the home besides a double list of the principal residents.

The price remains the same as it was two years ago. Sold mostly by subscription given to canvassers.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

The December Neighborhood night on Tuesday was well attended notwithstanding the inclement weather. Besides the usual attractions of bowling, billiards, cards and dancing, the Entertainment Committee had invited Capt. S. E. Howard of West Newton to relate his experiences "On the Trail" in the cattle country. Capt. Howard gave a most interesting story of the methods used twenty years ago in driving great herds of cattle from Texas to Montana, with tales of cowboy feats, stampedes, and stirring incidents of a life unknown to the East. The narrative was full of a dry hu-

A SHORT STORY AND TO THE POINT.

It must be understood that while P. H. Graves & Son is carrying on a Fire, Smoke and Water Sale of furniture, carpets, rugs, etc., that the stock as it stands today is only or very slightly damaged; in fact, so little, that it cannot be seen in many cases. Yet with the insurance companies settled with, and being forced to make way for the contractors and mechanics on repairs that they are forced to do all they can to sell the stock at once, as they cannot move it elsewhere without a great expense. Now this is a good opportunity to buy right, they deliver all goods bought at this sale free of charge.

N. H. S.

By a score of 43 to 13 the first basketball team that has ever represented the Newton high school defeated the Watertown Independents in its opening contest Friday afternoon in Newton Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Captained by Wood and comprised mainly of former association players, the Newton team proved too fast for the Watertown players after the first few minutes of play.

The teamwork and passing of Newton was like clockwork, particularly in the second period, when Osborne and Merrill shot frequent goals from difficult angles, the latter working up from his position at left back to assist in running up the score.

There were frequent fouls called upon Newton players for holding, however, which enabled Watertown to score seven points on free tries. Of the visiting players the work of Robinson and Bent was especially creditable. In a second game the Newton high second team won from the third team, 21 to 8.

LASELL SEMINARY.

The Christmas vesper service will be held at Lasell seminary on Sunday evening, December 12th, at 6.30 o'clock, and the Pupils' Musical rehearsal is on Tuesday evening, December 14th, at 7.45 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Welles E. Holmes, who has for years been connected with the electric lighting business in Newton and Watertown, and who was gladly retained by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company as its district representative in charge of its electrical business in this territory, has been given added responsibility. The electrical business of the Company in the Waltham district has been entrusted to his supervision along with his present duties here. He assumes the work that has been laid down by Mr. W. H. Cole, who has just been promoted to Superintendent of the Department of Street Installation in the Bureau of Construction in the Edison Company. This is a practical illustration of how the Edison Company appreciates the ability of the men who have come into its service from other electrical companies. Mr. Holmes will retain his main district office, as heretofore, at 433 Centre street, Newton.

Our Newton Centre shop is just the place for new gifts that suggest themselves. It is the easiest way you can find of relieving yourself of the worry of trying to think "what to give."

Our variety in home articles is good. We have INEXPENSIVE things in abundance, but nothing that is CHEAP.

We guarantee our entire stock to be just as we represent it,—we know our prices are right,—often lower than city prices for the same thing.

Castle Square Theatre—It is a merry and laugh-giving play that Mr. Craig is to produce at the Castle Square Theatre next week. "The Man with a Past" is the work of Harry and Edward Paulton, and the heroine is a beautiful young woman who, although happily married, cannot rest content unless her husband will reveal to her some of the doings of his bachelor youth. During the week of December 20, the Castle Square Theatre will be closed until Friday evening in order that thorough preparation may be given to Mr. Craig's Christmas extravaganza. It will be a novelty from start to finish, filled with music, spectacle, and humor, and its title, "1915" is evidence of its local appeal. The opening performance will be given Christmas Eve, and it is the entire work of Theodore Friebs.

The discussion raised by the recent action of the aldermen in fixing the school appropriations for 1910 at a point considerably less than requested by the school committee, now centres
about the decision of the committee in expending the sum appropriated. I suggested a week or so ago that a considerable saving might be effected by increasing the size of classes—a plan which met with much favorable comment. It is also possible to effect a saving—or rather prevent an unnecessary expense—by taking a definite stand against the proposed abolition of the ninth grade.
While members of the committee deny that this policy has been adopted, yet some 75 or 100 children were sent to the High school this fall from the eighth grade and unless there is some decided protest, it is evident that this number will be increased the coming school year. The cost of educating a pupil in the high school as given by the last school report is $67.30 per year, and the cost for educating in the grades is $35.67 per year. While it is possible that the increase in high school attendance, due to the abolition of the ninth grade, might reduce somewhat the per capita cost as given above, it is manifest that there would be an extremely large increase in the cost of educating the 250 or 300 pupils who would enter the high school
over and beyond what it would cost to give them the usual ninth grade course. The city of Boston abolished its ninth grade in 1908, with an increase of three times the average number of pupils entering its high schools for that year and a total increase in expense of something like $75,000. Besides the monetary consideration, to which some might enter the objection that the possible benefit to the children should be given the greatest weight, it has been suggested that the abolition of the ninth grade is not beneficial to the pupil. While Newton sends a very large proportion of its grade pupils to the high schools, there are many whose education ceases with the grammar grades. To deprive these children of one year's education would do them a grave injury—one which would not be offset by the claim that some would enter the high school, at the end of the eighth grade, who would not enter at the completion of the ninth. The possible advantage to the few cannot atone for the wrong to even an equal number whose school education ceases at the grammar school. There are also many objections which appear to sending young children to the High school. To all who reside outside of Newtonville, it means the use of street or steam cars, with possibilities of accidents. It means the carrying of cold lunches or the expense of purchasing them at the school, in either event the lack of paternal oversight over eating which is of great importance in young children. It means the probability of better clothing, as every child likes to appear as well dressed as its comrades—a consideration which often works to keep the children of the humbler classes out of the High school. And last but not least is the Careful investigation of the rumors of neglect of duty by the Newton fire department at the fire this week at the Stearns house, shows them to be without foundation. The apparatus responded promptly to the telephone call, and was out of the fire house

before the bell alarm had been given.
Chief Randlett was on the ground immediately after, and the chemical lines were in the house at once. As soon as the fire was located, several lines of hose were run in, and water was being used within ten minutes of the arrival. It is true that one length of hose burst, but it was near the end of the work and came where the hose crossed the piazza rail. Chief Randlett congratulates himself that the department came out of the fight
so well and says it was the best handled fire he has had in Newton for a long time. In view of these facts it is a pity that rumors derogatory to the fire department are being circulated. Such action not only reflects seriously upon the department but it has a decided effect upon the matter of insurance rates and may entail additional burdens upon property owners.

important effect which hundreds of older, but still inexperienced boys and girls, have upon the moral character of the younger children. It is true that this cannot be measured in accurate terms, but everyone knows that it is a most important factor in school life. Personally I wouldn't like to send a twelve year old girl into the busy life and work of a high school with close contact with hundreds of children, over whose conduct,
except within the limits of the school room, the teachers have but limited control. On account of these considerations, I earnestly trust that the school committee will conclude to save its money and retain the ninth grade in the Newton schools.

Municipal elections in this city are almost a farce. That scheduled for next Tuesday has but two contests,
one for ward alderman in Ward 2 and one for ward alderman in Ward 4.
All other places on a full ticket for mayor, aldermen at large and ward aldermen, are uncontested,—something I believe not equalled anywhere in the country. While this to some represents a public indifference, almost criminal in its negligence, to others, it indicates a satisfaction with existing conditions which is most complimentary to the city. I am rather inclined to the latter view, as a glance at the ticket shows that the city continues to receive the services of its best class of citizens. The indifference shown towards the election
next Tuesday cannot fail to manifest itself in the vote on the license question and while Newton is not expected to vote affirmatively, our good old fashioned majority for NO is liable to be greatly reduced. Do not fail, therefore, to exercise the suffrage
next Tuesday and cast your vote for NO license.

The opening of a through station
at Newtonville, where residents of this city can purchase tickets and check baggage to New York and other important cities, represents an effort
on the part of the railroad management to accommodate railroad patrons in this city and may, in time, result in making Newtonville an important railroad point. It is safe to say that Newton residents appreciate what Mr. Hustis has done for the railroad service since he has had charge of the B. & A. and any step he may take to improve conditions will have hearty support.

erett M. Stowell of Brimfield, Mass.

—In the opening matches between Newton Catholic club and Waltham council, K. of C., in the former organization's clubhouse, Monday evening, the Catholic club won, 11 to 9. The events included whist, checkers, cribbage, 45 and pool.

—Fire broke out from some unknown
cause Monday in the house at 260 River street, owned by Thomas Quinn
and occupied by the families of M.
Quinn and Patrick Loughlin, for which there was an alarm from box 32 at 12.17. Damage was slight.

—Mr. Frederick G. Pettigrove, chairman of the State Prison Commissioners, will speak at the Congregational church on next Sunday (Dec. 12), at 12 noon, upon "Reform Features in Prisons." Mr. Pettigrove is the foremost authority upon this subject in this state. All are welcome.

—Mrs. Mary E. Moran, aged 70, widow of John Moran, died Saturday morning at her home, 251 River street. She was born in West Newton and had always made her home in this city. She is survived by a son, Andrew, of West Newton,
and a daughter, Mary, of Roxbury.
The funeral took place Tuesday morning, with repulse mass at St. Bernard's church and burial at Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

ty men and thirty women already on its waiting list. On January first the one at Lakeville will be opened and at Westfield on February first.

The Club Editor had occasion to seek information upon a certain subject in the Newton Library the other day. As she was allowed to roam among the shelves at her own inclination she began to contrast in her mind the present privileges with those of ten or fifteen years ago and to wonder if the club women in general realize what a treasure house the library is. What a satisfaction it is, if in search of some particular sort of information and one does not know exactly what are the best books, to be able to go straight to the shelves one's self and look over all the works on that subject, instead of being obliged to depend upon picking out from the card index what seems as if it might be what is wanted. Then there is the privilege of taking more than one book on a particular card and the possibility of keeping them more than the traditional seven or fourteen days and also the vacation privilege. Many classes and clubs have for a long time availed themselves of the good collections of photographs of all kinds. Do all realize that there are lantern slides and music as well?

Anyone who has had some subject to look up cannot have failed to notice the personal interest taken by the attendants in finding all that is possible for the seeker and their real regret if unable to find what is wanted.

The new system of numbering, or rather lettering, is very perplexing and certainly signifies but little to the uninitiated.

By this means all books on the same subject are brought together on the shelves in alphabetical order and it also admits of infinite additions without renumbering. These advantages far exceed attending difficulties.

There are many reasons why Newton is a good place in which to live and when enumerating them the library should surely not be forgotten.

An unusually large number of members and guests assembled at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning to listen to a talk on "Hygiene of Housekeeping" by Mrs. Ellen H. Richards of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology before the Social Science Club. Mrs. Richards treated of four important factors in the hygiene of the home—light, air, heat and water. Light and air are so closely related that it is difficult to speak of them separately. She dwelt upon the great importance to the life of the world of light and particularly of sunlight. All wholesome growth takes place in the light. Since it is the most important fact we have, it is necessary when building a house to get the sun plan before arranging the location of the rooms. Just as plants need light, and in most cases sunlight, in order to live, so the human being needs it. They are very sensitive to foul air, to escaping gas and other impurities and quickly indicate when something is wrong. For this reason and for the moisture which they evaporate into the air among others Mrs. Richards said she would not live in a house where plants would not grow. Science has recently shown that there is a close relation between the green coloring matter of plants, which we know depends on light, and the red corpuscles of the blood. This fact alone points out the necessity of light in our houses.

The speaker touched upon what is known as the Ralston theory, air in motion with sunlight upon it, called glaze, as having a beneficial effect upon the vitality of the person. The greatest trouble with our houses is that the air is stagnant. The bad air collects at the top of the room; so high rooms with much space above the windows are difficult to ventilate properly. An ideal way to ventilate would be to have a grating around the very top of the wall to let out the impurities. A substitute for this which Mrs. Richards uses herself is to keep a skylight always open. Contrary to her expectations at first the cold does not blow down, for the heated air rising presses with sufficient force to prevent its coming in. An electric fan is a help, since it keeps the air in motion, adding evaporation upon the person and lowering the bodily temperature. That we do not know how to make our houses comfortable for our families is one of women's disgraces.

A large part of the dirt, she said, is brought into the house upon our clothing and shoes. The only remedy she could suggest for this would be to have a vestibule where everybody is brushed off with a vacuum cleaner and the shoes removed before entering. She cited one school where the master had the pupils' shoes brushed off in the basement before going in. Upon investigation this was found to be the cleanest school building in the city. The only way to prevent the outside dirt from blowing in is to keep the lower windows closed. She thinks that in time the lower windows will be made not to open, for with modern ventilating systems it is perfectly possible to do this. Warm air can be fanned in in winter and cool air in summer. Since the movement in the air depends on heat, the heating of the house in closely related to the ventilation. The general tendency today is to keep houses too warm. The furnace is the heart of the house in the winter and it was her opinion that the head of the house should attend to it. A steam radiator in a room is intolerable, hot water is much better, but indirect radiation is still better. It is a problem to be studied, for it is the duty of every housewife to keep her house in good condition for her family, that the child for whom the house exists may have the very best possible conditions under which to develop.

Mrs. Clara B. Beatley, secretary of the conference committee on moral education, followed, pointing out how many parents are helpless before the question of the moral education of their children and how grateful they are for help. Mrs. Beatley showed that these organizations easily furnish opportunity for giving the parents just the help they need in these matters. Her talk was listened to with close attention and received the hearty sympathy of all present.

Mrs. Lillian Folger, chairman of the health department of the State Federation, showed how the work of her department may be done through these parents' associations. There is need of new books on hygiene to be used in the schools, of a better understanding of medical inspection and the

PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary Wiley Warren (otherwise known as Mary I. Cram late of Newton in said County, deceased).

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Calvin M. Cram who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the twentieth day of December, A. D. 1909, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to each of the persons named in the petition, seven days at least before said Court. Witness, Charles J. McElreath, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-sixth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by James H. Nickerson to Edmund Commons, dated June 9, 1898, and recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds, Book 2471, Page 216, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the premises hereinafter described on Monday the twenty-seventh day of December, 1909, at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described as follows, to wit: a certain piece of parcel land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Newton in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts called West Newton and containing ten thousand six hundred and eighty-three feet, and bounded and described as follows: beginning at the Southeast corner of the premises at the Western side of Washington Street and thence running Northwesterly by the former of D. C. Sanger one hundred and thirty-seven feet and two inches; thence running Northwesterly on a line at right angles with the first mentioned line, seventy-eight feet; thence turning at right angles with the last mentioned line and running one hundred and thirty-six feet and nine inches to said Washington Street; and thence running Southerly by said street, seventy-eight feet to the point of beginning.

The premises are to be sold subject to any unpaid taxes and assessments. Two hundred dollars ($200) will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.
WILLIAM HACKETT, THOMAS H. LYONS, THOMAS CUMMINGS, Executors of the will of Ellen Commons, the assignee of said mortgage. LAWRENCE BOND, Attorney, 1040 Old South Building, Boston, December 2, 1909.

THEATRES

Holla Street Theatre—"A Fool There Was," with Robert Hilliard as the star, will be seen at the Holla Street Theatre, Boston, on Monday, Dec. 13. It is the production of that skillful and expert manager, Frederic Thompson, whose offerings are significantly successful. It has enabled Mr. Hilliard to achieve the most emphatic success of a career which has included everything from society drama to the one-act playlets of vaudeville. Porter Emerson Browne, a former resident of Newton, vitalizes in "A Fool There Was" Sir Philip Burne-Jones' famous picture of the vampire woman and her dead dupe, which inspired Kipling to write his poem of the fool who loved "a rag, and a bone and a hank of hair." The story reverses the familiar triangle of two men and a woman and gathers force from the struggle of two women for a man. Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given. Seats are selling now for the Christmas performances.

Keith's Theatre—Eleanor Gordon received tremendous receptions on her return to Boston last week at Keith's Theatre, and so great has been her success that it has been decided to hold her over for another week. Lovenberg's Operatic Festival is a beautifully spectacular production called "Gypsy Life" and "A Carnival in Venice." The company is one of the largest ever appearing in vaudeville and the singers are all people of reputation. Another feature of more than ordinary interest will be the reappearance here of those famous comedians, Howard & North, who will present their new sketch called "Back to Wellington." Still another spectacular production will be that of the Lulu Beeson Trio, who will present with beautiful scenic and light effect, and plenty of action including lively dances, "A Night in El Paso." For comedy there will be Tom Barry & Company in a most amusing sketch called "Nick Carter;" Lew Hawkins, the famous minstrel; Tom & Edith Almond in an Australian specialty including the Kangaroo Dance; and a number of others yet to be announced.

Boston Theatre—"The Circus Man" has struck a lively gait at the Boston Theatre where Maelyn Arbuckle and the large company supporting him in Klaw & Erlanger's meritorious production have been attracting large audiences. Rarely has a more amusing and interesting group of characters been seen in a play and the comedy is certain to make warm friends among playgoers fond of simple, unsophisticated human nature—humorous, pathetic, dramatic. Tears and smiles alternate in this refreshing story of people "Way down East." "The Circus Man" is a play that grips and convinces and sustains the interest during all of its five acts. Mr. Arbuckle as "Fighting Hime" Look has never during his long years on the stage had a better part or one in which he appears to such splendid advantage. The character has more rich, red blood, more of the depth and breadth of human passion, more of sympathy, more of the blending of comedy and tragedy than any role written into a modern play of late years. There are matinees every Wednesday and Saturday and for all performances the regular Boston Theatre prices prevail.

American Music Hall—The success of Julian Eltinge at the American Music Hall this week was such that the management wisely decided to hold him over for another week. His new songs and his latest sensational "Colbra Dance" have added wonderfully to his act. The Four Mortons, that riotous family of fun makers will next week make a strong bid for headline honors. Nellie Wallace, England's premier eccentric comedienne will be a pleasing number for her style of material and her method of delivering it never fails to keep the audience in roars. More comedy will be added by Caron & Herbert, comedy acrobats who are perhaps better comedians than they are tumblers. Hawkins is a young Boston boy and does some phenomenal feats in jumping and Allan Shaw as a coln manipulator is without a peer on the vaudeville stage. The balance of the bill will include Tyler & Burton and other high class numbers.

THE NEW PLAYWRIGHT.

Former Newton Man Most Successful. Porter Emerson Browne, the new playwright, was born in Beverly, June 22, 1879, and graduated at the Newton high school. He has been a newspaper reporter, weigh-boss in a Colorado mining camp, a sailor, a stock ranchman in Virginia, a toller on a North Carolina rice plantation, and is still a magazine writer. He contributes to Collier's, Everybody's, The Red Book, Appleton's, the Cosmopolitan, Success and other publications. And he finds time to write considerable verse.

Browne met Robert Hilliard, the actor, through a story, "The Proof," published in the Red Book. Hilliard wanted the dramatic rights. They became firm friends. One day Hilliard said he wanted a play upon a peculiar theme. "I will give you only two words," said he, "they are Kipling's

PORTER EMERSON BROWNE,
Author of "A Fool There Was."

"The Vampire." Two weeks later "A Fool There Was" resulted. Frederic Thompson accepted it instantly and produced it with Hilliard last spring in New York, where it ran for the best of the season. It is to be played at the Holla Street Theatre, Boston, next week. Since then Thompson has accepted two more of his plays, touching upon modern society, "Waste" and "The Lure," both to be produced this season.

Browne has a charming little home at Norwalk, Conn., where he does all his work. Two years ago he married a favorite ingenue, Myrtle Suzanne May, who retired from the stage. They have one child, a girl. Porter Browne is ingenious, diffident and still somewhat dazed by his sudden success. He is a great favorite in The Lambs and The Players, of which he is a member.

TOYS FOR SHUT-INS.

The little shut-ins and cripples of Boston this year are to experience a real Christmas—something many of them have never known.

A plan has been inaugurated by The Boston Journal whereby each little boy and girl can be remembered in a manner which will mean as much joy to the giver as to the poor little recipients.

Like the famous Flower Day last summer, when over 100,000 little toys were made happy with gay and fragrant blossoms, The Journal has extended its plans until now a more wonderful success than ever is assured.

The churches of far and near have co-operated, the express companies, the railroads and the suburban newspapers, and when Dec. 14, the date of collecting toys, comes around, all kinds of wonderful child things will pour into the receiving stations. In every suburban locality receiving stations have been established where the good people and children at large may leave their gifts on the morning of Dec. 14, between the hours of 8 A. M. and noon. Automobiles will then collect, and from then until Christmas the work of sorting and apportioning the toys for the great delivery by automobile on Dec. 24 will continue.

Every charitable organization of Boston, including the neighborhood houses, settlements and missions, is compiling lists of needy little tots, and it is estimated that no less than 25,000 little sons and daughters of the poor will understand the real spirit of Christmas in their own homes for the first time.

All kinds of toys in good condition—it matters not if they are second-hand as long as they are whole—games complete, books and candy may be left at vestry, Lincoln Park church, West Newton, or opposite Track 1, South Station, Boston, on the morning of Dec. 14.

Never has Boston seen charity on so large a scale and each case will be passed upon by the following advisory board: Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, Rabbi Charles Fleischer, James S. Murphy of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and Miss Adelaide Hibbard of Dorchester. All communications should be sent to the Toy Editor, Boston Journal.

TAXICAB SERVICE.

Mr. J. W. Crowell, the well known automobile dealer, has inaugurated a taxicab service for the city, with first class machines and competent chauffeurs. Prompt service at Boston rates can be obtained by calling South 700.

Safety For Your Estate

Our method of administering estates and trust funds has not only all the advantages of an individual trusteeship, but other points of superiority that one-man direction cannot have. Sickness, accident or death cannot endanger a trust confided to us, because no one man is responsible for it. Our executive board act together, and are ready for business every business day in the year.

Every investment made, or other important action taken, represents the collective wisdom of a group of men expert in trust management, and their services cost an estate no more than it would pay an individual.

All our securities are officially inspected three times a year. We give bonds equal to twice the amount of the personal property of an estate we administer; and these bonds are backed by a guarantee of $4,500,000. An individual acting as executor or trustee rarely is required to give security.

EDUCATION

SUPT SPAULDING TALKS TO TEACHERS

URGES HIGHER IDEALS AND MORE PUBLICITY

The following address was made to all the public school teachers, principals and supervisors of Newton by Superintendent of Schools, F. E. Spaulding, at a meeting held Oct. 26 in the Technical high school:

WORKING UP TO AN IDEA.

In a recent magazine sketch of the life and work of that man who towers above all others in the current history of our great Northwest, occurs this expression:

"He projects an idea ahead, then works up to it."

Here we have epitomized in ten words the secret not alone of the marvelous constructive power and influence of James J. Hill, but of the success of every man whose achievements have distinguished him from the rank and file of his contemporaries. Indeed, every one who really does anything, every one who is a positive, intelligent force, it matters not in what field, under what circumstances or conditions he works, projects ideas ahead, then works up to them.

So simple, apparently, is this fundamental, universal secret of success! We are quite ready to accept it and to pass it by as a common-place, without pondering it sufficiently to realize its full import. Were it my purpose to essay an abstract sermon with this ten-word expression as a text, I should be tempted to follow the stereotyped plan of many a preacher of a past generation, analyzing and emphasizing the rich significance of every word, something after this fashion:—It is he, himself, who projects the idea; he projects the idea; he projects the idea ahead; it is an idea, not a rock, or a bullet, or any tangible thing, but an idea, that he projects ahead; then, when he has projected his idea ahead, he persists in the work; and he works to a purpose, to a definite end; he works up to that idea of his which he projected into the future.

Thus would I attempt to reveal the constructive imagination, the independence and self-confidence, the practical intelligence and skill, the faith, the unremitting perseverance, the creative power, implied in the words of this simple text.

But it is not my purpose to impose upon you a sermon, least of all a sermon dealing with abstract truths. I purpose rather to discuss with you, very simply and concretely, the work in which we are engaged; but to discuss it in the light of this simple secret of all intelligent achievement.

What are the ideas which we are projecting ahead of us? Are they adequate? Are they worthy of the cause and of our efforts? How are we working up to them? What does our work mean? To what extent does it advance us? To what extent does it make us more adequate? Wherein is our work inadequate, inefficient, perhaps positively obstructive? What still waits on our efforts? Such practical questions as these will engage our attention.

The grand, all-comprehensive idea which we are trying to project ahead and toward which we are trying to work, is the idea of Universal Education. This expression has been so long and so commonly misused and abused, it seems necessary to define and explain at some length the idea which these words ought at once to suggest.

Really universal education does not consist in the maintenance of a system of kindergartens, elementary and high schools, culminating ever in the college and university, all affording free tuition and located within easy access of every child and youth of the Commonwealth; really universal education does not consist in teaching this subject, or that, or any number of subjects to all who are able to learn those subjects, willingly or under compulsion. Such is not at all the genius of truly universal education. Universal education has to do primarily not with schools and subjects, but with boys and girls, young men and young women. Universal education means the development of every boy and every girl, each according to natural endowment, and in harmony with the demands of life. It is the function of universal education to make the most of every child and youth in the community; to enable every child and youth to make the most of himself, to become just as efficient a member of society as his natural capacity, developed by adequate instruction and training permits. Such is the genius of universal education. Such is the idea which we would project ahead.

It is of first importance that we conceive this idea clearly. Substituting for it the idea of a system of schools and curricula, which are but the possible instruments and means of education, is a mistake both common and disastrous. It confuses our thought and renders abominable our practice. It makes the real education of the child an incident and an accident; it perpetuates forms long after they should have been abandoned.

The true idea of universal education demands that our schools accept, welcome, all children and educate each and every one; that they reject none. What a transformation in our schools and in our school administration would be wrought by full and hearty acceptance of this idea and the real determination to work up to it! We should no longer expend a considerable part of our energy in rejecting the unfit. Every child we reject reveals our incompetence; every uneducated living witness to our failure to make education really universal. No less is our failure revealed in every child who is only bodily present in our schools, whose powers lie dormant, unawakened and untrained by our ministrations. We are, indeed, surrounded by clouds of witnesses of both types.

The idea of universal education forbids us to hold responsible the child who fails to be endowed by nature with those capacities and interests which respond to the conventional tests, and which are developed by our time-honored subjects; the responsibility is on us, who profess to be able not merely to teach Latin and mathematics, to those who show an aptitude for these subjects, but to educate boys and girls. If we have not the means and the methods adequate to the best development of every boy and girl who applies to us for education, then it is our duty to secure such means and to invent such methods forthwith, or to confess our failure.

At best, we are just now beginning to furnish, somewhat reluctantly and judgmentally, more adequate means of educating some of the many who vary materially from the type which our conventional methods of education select. Hasten the time when we shall rejoice at the variation in types, in individuals; when we shall realize that human values are the real values which we are here to conserve and to enhance.

Hear again the inspiring words of Emerson. "Education should be as broad as man. Whatever elements are in him that should foster and demonstrate. If he be dexterous, his tuition should make it appear; if he be capable of dividing men by the trenchant sword of his thought, education should unsheathe and sharpen it. . . . If he is jovial, if he is mercurial, if he is great-hearted, a cunning artificer, a strong commander, a roent ally, ingenious, useful, elegant, witty, prophet, diviner,—society has need of all these. . . . We teach boys to be such men as we are. We do not teach them to aspire to be all they can. We do not give them a training as if we believed in their noble nature. . . . I suffer whenever I see that common sight of a parent or senior imposing his opinion and way of thinking and being on a young soul to which they are totally unfit. . . . You are trying to make that man another you. One's enough." (From Emerson's Essay on Education.)

Involved in this idea of universal education, the adequate education of everybody, are the ideas of universal means and universal purposes of education. There lie ready to our hands the whole natural world of things, animate and inanimate, all the ever-working natural forces, all the inventions and tools, all the machinery and processes by which man controls and shapes to his uses the things and forces of nature, and all the living fabric of human society. All this overwhelming wealth of material is subject to our use in the educational process; yet, up to the present time we have relied mainly on a few books. Far be it from me to underestimate the value of the book, unquestionably the most potent single instrument of education that man can use. But let us not forget that Mother Nature did the very respectable job at education before man consciously took the matter in hand and Mother Nature never used a book.

Scarcely less limited than the possible means of education are the possible ends which it may serve. Universal education prepares not for a few select careers only, but for every occupation and profession which contributes to social life and progress. Universal education forbids us to reject earnest aspirants for commercial and industrial careers,—careers which, for the most part, were non-existent and impossible in the generations past, when the purpose of the curriculum, and the methods of the public school were first being established.

The idea of universal education calls upon us to realize that we are teachers in and for the 20th century, not the 16th or 18th; that we are responsible for the preparation of boys and girls to do the work of the 20th century, not that of the ages gone by. I know full well that the layman, the man engaged in the work of this ever-busier world, in his dissatisfaction with the results of our efforts at education, is wont to demand a return to the old regime,—as though, forsooth, we had every really departed from it!—Idealizing the results of the past and assuming that similar results would meet the requirements of the very different world of to-day. This lay attitude is most natural, and could hardly be otherwise. It is a rare man who has thought out a conception of education in terms other than those in which he was taught. The effort to do this is comparable to that of lifting one's self by his own boot-straps.

We teachers are wont to resent the layman's preference and demand for the schools of the past. Yet teachers as a body have assumed precisely the same attitude, and have maintained it far more rigidly than the layman. The sole difference is this: we teachers cling to the past in the present, while the layman reverts to the past as he knew it a generation back.

Teachers and laymen together need to face about; to take their bearings in the current of civilization and life which is all flowing into the future.

It ill becomes us teachers to hold the layman responsible for his mistaken attitude; we are responsible—for his attitude and ours alike. Are we not teachers? Do we not profess to teach, to educate? We have not the faintest conception of the genius of American education, if we do not realize that we must teach the people, the adult people, if we would teach the children; that we must teach the people in order to teach the children. The people want to be taught! Never before in the history of the world was there so universal and so strong a popular demand to know the significance and the possibilities of education. Never before were the times so favorable for the teacher who knows his business. As never before, the people are turning to teachers for leadership in this business of education. And, alas, they are quickly turning away, unsatisfied, skeptical. The people have little respect for our professional knowledge, because they so quickly discover that we know scarcely more about the real significance of what we are doing, and of what we propose to do, than do the people themselves.

If we would enlighten and lead the people, we must project an adequate, practical, worthy idea ahead; an idea in harmony with the conditions and the aspirations of the times; an idea toward which we can all work, teachers and people together. If we haven't such an idea, we must invent one, as Voltaire said a godless universe must invent a god.

Such an idea, I believe, is about to define itself and to rise into the clear consciousness of the people. That idea is the idea of three-fold universal education,—the education of all, by all means, for all things. The presence and growth of this idea, albeit still vague and largely subconscious, is evidenced by the manifold developments and the expansion of educational aims and means and benefits, which we have witnessed here and there and increasingly in the last short generation, notably in the last few years. I refer to such things as laboratory work in the sciences in secondary schools, courses in modern languages, the establishment and growth of the kindergarten, commercial courses and departments, special provisions for backward, defective, diseased, abnormal, even hungry children, vacation, evening and play ground schools, and now the very widespread demand for industrial and agricultural education and trade training. Only in the light of the idea of universal education can all these superficially diverse movements be justifiably and harmonized.

That truly universal education is the ultimate goal of all this expansion, intensification, and diversification of educational effort, is recognized and clearly enunciated now and again by those who are doing most to inform and to mold the educational thought and practice of the time. Listen to the slightly varied expression of this idea by De Garino, Draper, Hanus, and Elliot:

"The educational meaning of democracy is that every child shall have both the incentive and opportunity to carry his educational development as far as his ability and circumstances will warrant, and in such direction as his taste, capacity, and situation in life may make desirable. For in education what is best for individual is also best for society." (Charles De Garino.)

"(The educational policy of the nation) 'stands for a balanced educational system—the best and broadest that can be made, and therefore good enough for all, in which every one may find what he will, may go as far and as high as he will, and not for a system which dignifies any interest or aids any class as against any other. In a word, it believes in schools of every grade and for every purpose, with equality of opportunity and absolute freedom of selection for all; and with special privileges for none.' (A. S. Draper.)

"A modern school can meet the legitimate demands of society only by adapting its aims, means, and methods to the changing of a progressive civilization. . . . It is equally true that unless the school meets the needs of the individual, unless it promotes conspicuously his development as an individual, he will turn from it with dissatisfaction as soon as he becomes aware of the discrepancy between his needs and the opportunities which the school affords for meeting them." (F. H. Hanus.)

"The fundamental object of democratic education (is) to lift the whole population to a higher plane of intelligence, conduct, and happiness. . . . The standard of education should not be set at the now attained or the now attainable." (Ex. Pres. Elliot.)

Such is the idea of universal education which our far-sighted leaders, our educational statesmen, are projecting ahead. The worthiness, the nobility of this idea, is beyond all question. But is it not too large? Is not its possible realization, even in the most progressive community, too remote? How can it serve to inspire and direct the thoughts and the activities of every one of us day by day?

Let us see. What does this magnificent building, without question the best public educational plant in New England, what does it mean? Why was it built, at a cost equal to one-third the value of all the rest of the twenty-six school plants of the city? How shall we justify it? Will it suffice to point to the various shops and laboratories, with their equipment of fine tools and apparatus, to kitchen and drawing room, to lecture room, counting room, and library, each furnished and adapted in all details for the instruction and work designed to be carried on there? Far from it. All these things are very fine, most interesting, most admirable, revealing elaborate planning and painstaking thought in their conception; but, after all, what do they all signify? Their meaning is not self-evident; they are not their own justification. Such things formed no part of the educational equipment of forty years ago. Shall we, then, attempt to explain and justify this plant by comparison with school plants of a generation ago? Impossible! It were as easy to justify the transcontinental express and the ocean greyhound in terms of the prairie-scholar and the dugout!

No, the significance and the justification of this plant are revealed neither in the plant itself, nor in any other plant, past or present. They are revealed clearly in the light of the idea of universal education, toward which we are striving. This plant represents one step, and quite a long one, toward the realization of this idea here in Newton. There are many boys and girls of high school age in this city to whom the school across the way cannot offer adequate means of training, means suited to the best development of their powers and to their preparation for the life before them. Here we hope these boys and girls, many of them, at least, will find just what they need. This is the reason, the justification, of this school, of every department organized, and of every course to be carried out in it.

Here the boy and the girl whose intellect can be aroused, whose taste can be cultivated, whose character can be formed, only by dealing with material things, finds an educational opportunity comparable to that which has been afforded heretofore only to the boy and girl especially susceptible to the influence of the written and spoken word.

Here the boy and the girl who desire to prepare for a commercial or an industrial career, will find opportunity to advance as far on their way as may those who fit for the professions. The purpose of this institution as a whole, the purpose of every part of it, is to educate more boys and girls and to educate them more adequately and effectively than was before possible.

The only serious criticism which I have heard of the projected plans and purposes of this school, and I have heard this more than once, and from high educational authorities, runs in this wise: Your plans and purposes are ideal; the extent and variety of opportunity offered, from college preparation to specialization in art, in commercial and industrial work, are unparalleled; but all this simply cannot be carried out successfully in a single institution. It ought to be done, but no one has yet succeeded in doing it; others have projected similar but less ambitious plans, and have failed in their execution.

Shall we justify this criticism? If we do so, we shall give the most convincing proof that we have no practical realization of the meaning and the demands of universal education; that we do not know how to educate boys and girls; that we can merely give instruction in certain subjects and to the select. I will not believe that we are going to repeat here this dismal failure, which others have made. On the contrary, I hope and predict for this institution even a much larger and more varied service than has yet been definitely projected for it.

In the manual training room of the Stearns school, at Nonantum, on the first day of February last, there was opened a school of a type entirely new to our community, almost as new to this country. This school is known as the Newton Independent Industrial School. Thus far it has been supported by a donation of Newton who is an expert in making safe investments which promise large returns. Among the very gilt-edged investments, he rates boys above bonds. This school was established for boys who find themselves of high school age while still in the grades, and generally in low standing in their grade work; for the boys who do not respond to book-instruction and who are getting little training in school that will fit them for usefulness; for the boys that our regular elementary curriculum fails to make the most of, according to their individual possibilities. It is a trade school which will aim to turn out boys prepared, with practical experience, to become intelligent and more or less versatile workmen.

In the short period of its existence, this school has already not only demonstrated the need of such a school, but it has given abundant evidence of capacity to meet that need. This school started with a single class of eighteen boys under one instructor. It has been recently removed from the Stearns to the old abandoned Jackson school building, where its enrollment will be increased two or three fold as soon as competent instructors can be secured.

In its modest beginnings and humble surroundings, this little industrial school presents an extreme contrast to this Technical High School, with its magnificent plant, its elaborate and splendid equipment, and its extensive and varied courses. But I do not hesitate to say to you that I consider the establishment of that little school even more significant than that of this grand one. It signifies a distinct and positive advance in an absolutely new direction; it is a clean cut step in our progress toward universal education. Its work lies in a rich field hitherto neglected.

In these two schools, the Independent Industrial, and the Technical High, both opened in the year 1909, we see the beginnings of expansion in educational opportunity, in educational means and aims, surpassing all the expansion of the last forty years.

I say we see here the beginnings of unparalleled expansion. How large a service each of these institutions will render remains to be worked out. Each one has still to define clearly and to adapt to conditions as they become better understood the idea of its peculiar function—the idea which has already been projected ahead, but only in the rough; then each one has to work up to this projected idea.

Who is concerned, who is responsible for the growth and development into the fullest measure of usefulness of each of these new institutions? Every one of us; those in charge of these schools and their assistants, of course; but on every teacher in Newton rests some responsibility. Especially heavy and obvious is the responsibility resting on all principals, supervisors, and teachers in the higher grammar grades.

You grammar school principals and teachers, you who know better than all others the capacities, the needs and ambitions of your pupils, you must know our high schools and our industrial school, the character of the work offered in each; you must know and appreciate the function of each. If you are true educators of boys and girls, interested in their future as well as their present, and not mere instructors in grammar and mathematics, the character of the institutions for which you may direct your pupils, must be of great concern to you. It is your right and your duty, not only to know these institutions, but to aid in making them efficient, adequate for containing the education of your boys and girls.

Do you not perceive that the development of our two new institutions, each so distinctive in function, demands a reshaping of the former function, not only of the Newton High School, but in a measure, of every grammar school in the city? Every school in the city needs to be defined anew and to project ahead the idea up to which it will work. To do this intelligently, every school must know the function of every other school, must know the ideas up to which the other schools are working. Only through such mutual knowledge and influence can we work in full harmony and with greatest effectiveness toward the realization of universal education.

After these new institutions have begun to develop efficiency, and after we have all begun to readjust ourselves and to intensify our efforts in a more effective co-operation, we shall be in a position to see more clearly and to appreciate more keenly what must still be done if we would make universal education a reality. And I fear that we shall find ourselves still very far from the goal.

These are the questions that test the efficiency of every school and of every classroom. Have the boy and the girl as they leave that school and that class-room developed up to their respective capacities? Has the most been made of each one that was possible at that stage? These questions are far more searching than the more usual ones. Have they done the work of the class or school satisfactorily? Are they prepared to take up the work of the next higher school or class?

When the latter questions begin to give way to the former, we shall begin to be troubled, in a way that we are little troubled now, by the presence of scores and hundreds of boys and girls in our schools who are doing nothing that educates, or only a slight fraction of what they ought to do; we shall be troubled at the sight of boys and girls several years over the normal age for their grade, who shall be troubled, rather than relieved, when annoying children leave our schools uneducated; we shall be troubled at sight of the gangs of able-bodied young loafers that infest many of our street corners; because we shall realize how largely we have failed to make our education truly universal.

But such troubles will be a hopeful sign. They will inspire the hope that more intelligent effort is about to succeed to indifference and irresponsibility.

There is yet another reason, scarcely less important than those already given, why every one of us should have not only a clear conception and an intelligent and firm grasp of this grand idea of universal education which we are trying to work out, but some real understanding of the function of every school and department, some appreciation of the work of our colleagues in this great undertaking. I refer to the enlightenment of the public. It is a part of the larger duty of every one of us to educate parents and citizens, as well as children. In the long run, the measure of success not only of our whole undertaking, but of that small part for which each one is immediately responsible, depends upon the understanding and the approval of the public.

This general thought has been expressed so many times that it makes little impression. What does it mean concretely? It means that we have set up ideals and established institutions here in Newton beyond the full comprehension of the majority even of the more intelligent citizens. They need to be told, they want to be told, what we are trying to accomplish. Why should there not be a hundred, two hundred, of us who could explain clearly and convincingly the purpose and function not only of our new institutions, but of the older, many of which also are misunderstood and appreciated. How many of you teachers in the elementary schools could give a clear presentation of the purpose, the character and the chief features of the eight courses in these high schools? Could every high school teacher, even do that? How many high school teachers know the work of the grades well enough to talk intelligently about it for three minutes?

It concerns the work and the interest of every one of us that the public should understand and appreciate the general character and purpose, not merely of our special work, but of all the work of the schools. Should a reaction in public sentiment, a weakening in public support, arise through failure to understand and appreciate the work and the work of this Technical High School, the Newton High, every school in the city, even to the smallest kindergarten, would immediately suffer. And the reverse is no less true.

Our greatest weakness, teachers, here as everywhere, is our failure to think, to work, and to stand together professionally. Let us ask ourselves, each one, what we have ever done, personally, outside our immediate work with our children, to advance the cause of education in this city? What work of intelligent appreciation of the work of a school or department other than our own have we spoken? What evidence have we given that we were one of a force now nearly three-hundred strong working together enthusiastically in a common cause and in a harmony that springs from mutual appreciation? What evidence of this are we capable of giving?

How many times have we revealed the limitations of our knowledge, the narrowness of our interests, by our inability to explain appreciatively to a thoughtful inquirer the significance of some work, or department, or new departure, for which we do not hold ourselves immediately responsible? How many times has our manner of disclaiming responsibility, perhaps even the magnifying of our ignorance or the expression of our indifference or positive disapproval? I sometimes wonder how much of all this grand and diversified educational activity here in Newton would remain were its continuance to depend upon the positive appreciation and the active moral support of us who are engaged in it. I believe I would rather trust it to the broader sympathies of the people.

Such ought not to be the case. It is our duty, our privilege, our professional and personal interest, to anticipate the educational needs of our public, to become, each one of us, a positive, progressive, educational force in the community. That principal has not fulfilled his function who has merely organized and directed the work of his school successfully; that teacher has not fulfilled his function who has merely taught the assigned subjects skillfully, who has even educated to their capacity the boys and girls under her charge; there is yet a larger duty for both teacher and principal—the duty of forming, shaping, and directing public thought and sentiment concerning educational matters. We have no right to shrink and shrivel ourselves into the mold of factory operatives, who know and care only for the bit of work on which they are engaged, who are ignorant and indifferent about the larger concerns of the industry.

It is the duty of every one of us, who will not confess his incapacity, to have or to be in the process of forming clearly conceived, well thought-out opinions on the many great problems of public education which are engaging the thought of the people as never before. If we, whose proper business it is, are indifferent or are incapable of marching at the head and directing the course of this educational procession, we need utter no complaint if we are compelled to follow even, the mistaken leadership of others, or to drop out of the ranks altogether.

Prea, Butler, of Columbia University, has this apt word to say of the educational administrator. He says: "The educational administrator has before him a statesman's task. He deals day by day with great human forces and with interests of surpassing importance. If he is truly an educational administrator, not a tyrant, he is not at sea drifting without chart or compass."

We are all called to be educational administrators—to deal day by day with great human forces and interests. I would like to see every school in this city the center of a live public educational movement, a movement in which we would try to teach the public the function, the meaning, and the scope of public education, but in which we should learn more than we could teach. I know some desultory efforts at parents' meetings and associations have resulted in small perfunctory gatherings that seemed to accomplish nothing, perhaps did accomplish nothing. Nevertheless, the fact remains that many people do want to hear a live educational message that goes to the very heart of things; the people have never wanted that message so much as they want it to-day. And it ought to be a fact, if it is not, that we teachers really want to hear what the people are honestly thinking and feeling and saying about education. Here we have the ample basis for the most profitable kind of co-operation of public and school; the mutual desire to know and to understand, to make known and to be understood.

Let us then all work together, as we have never worked before, in the spirit of broad-minded, professional, progressive enthusiasm and appreciation; let us work with and through the public, that the cause of education may have that sure support and momentum which only an appreciative and enthusiastic public can give; so may we confidently hope to win surely and steadily toward that idea of genuine universal education which we have projected ahead of us.

NARROW ESCAPE

SAVAGE ATTACK BY LEOPARD AT NORUMBEGA PARK

Three men employed in the zoo at Norumbega Park, Auburn, had a close call for their lives Monday when a female leopard which they were trying to lead into a cage became infuriated and attacked them.

The men were Samuel Stephenson, James Burns and Frederick Harrington, all experienced employees of the zoo. After their trying experience they were able to go to their homes.

Although their clothing was torn and each received bruises and scratches by being struck by the leopard, none was seriously injured. That they escaped with their lives was a surprise to other employees of the park, who were attracted to the zoo by the noise of the battle with the animal.

The men were employed in the work of getting a number of the animals into small cages for the purpose of sending them south, where it was intended to place them on exhibition until the reopening of Norumbega Park next spring.

The work progressed without incident until Stephenson, Burns and Harrington started to get two leopards into different cages from the large enclosure. The male leopard was led into a cage without difficulty, but when the men endeavored to lead the female into another cage she took lively objection to the proceeding. As the leopard was regarded as being tame, and had given the zoo employees no trouble during the several years it had been upon exhibition here, the men anticipated no serious difficulty, although they took the precaution of arming themselves with clubs. They "shooed" the female leopard to the door of the cage. They then entered the cage and endeavored to coax the animal into the cage. Suddenly the animal made a dash at Stephenson. He and his companions beat off the leopard with their clubs, but not until all had received several bad blows from the infuriated animal's paws, tearing their clothing and starting the blood out of big scratches on their bodies. The cries of the men and the sight of blood trickling from their bruises served to more thoroughly arouse the desire for liberty by the leopard. Dashing again at the men the leopard began a roaring that could be heard throughout the vicinity, and the cries were taken up by the other animals remaining in the winter quarters.

The noise attracted practically all the men employed in caring for the park during the winter, as well as street railway employees in the office near the Commonwealth avenue entrance. Realizing that there was serious trouble with the animals, Manager Alberte seized a gun which is kept for just such an emergency. Running to the big enclosure he discharged the contents of the weapon into the leopard in the nick of time. The big animal rolled over onto the ground and expired within a short time. Had Manager Alberte been a few moments later in going to the assistance of his employees, it is believed, it would have been impossible for all three to escape with their lives. Doctors were quickly summoned. They found that Stephenson had received the worst injuries. After dressing the wounds of all three men, the doctors said that they were able to go to their homes. It has been several years since there was previously any trouble with the animals in the park zoo. Although the number of animals kept in the park is large, and they are regarded as being as fine specimens as any upon exhibition in the country, they have heretofore submitted quietly to being led into individual cages for the purpose of being moved whenever necessary.

At the time of the fire in Norumbega Park last summer, when the theatre was destroyed and several other buildings partly burned, the animals in the zoo became infuriated. Guards were placed about the enclosure with guns, ready to shoot any animal that should escape, but the guards were not required to discharge their weapons.

NEW BOOK.

Human Beings vs. Things.

By Asenath Carver Coolidge

This Book was begun prior to the Cuban and Filipino wars, and was continued during the intervals of Peace in which reforms were thickening and constantly coming in collision with the over strained and on-rushing

commercialism that strives to make a business even of life-destroying war

The story opens with a heroine who has taken for her maxim, "Human Beings are Better Than Things." She begins by applying it to those of her own sex who incline to make slaves of themselves to useless work—such as the care of old relics which have no beauty or utility. But her work does not stop with them, for she is quick to perceive that the useless and foolish work to which women are addicted is not so deplorable as the brutal work in which men engage so largely.

As the story progresses, she wins to her side not only a niece and her lover but a lover of her own. The niece inherits a fine old mansion, filled with old relics of all sorts. It is situated in a part of the country which has become infested with railroad tramps. At this house the two couples meet and proceed to use or burn the old relics, make room for the tramps, give them useful work and prove in other ways their firm belief in their oft-quoted saying that "Human Beings are of More Consequence Than Things."

Cloth, One Dollar. May be ordered through any bookseller, or will be sent postpaid for the price by The Hungerford-Holbrook Co., of Watertown, N. Y.

Those who buy books for Christmas gifts—and most people do nowadays—will do well to look in at Lauriat's during the week. Everything is in readiness, and never did the store or stock look more attractive. The store's central situation, opposite Franklin street and close to Subway entrances and exits, makes it very convenient for Newton people visiting Boston for their Xmas shopping.

NEW PASTOR AT BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. HARRIE R. CHAMBERLIN.

The new pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlin, will be present at the church Friday evening, 17th inst., and will preach on Sunday, the 19th. Mr. Chamberlin is a graduate of Harvard University, taking the A. M. degree in four years. He then took the full three years' course in Rochester Theological Seminary and on his graduation was immediately secured as assistant to Rev. Clarence Barbour, D. D., of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church in Rochester. After three years he was called to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Morgantown, W. Va., which is the seat of the State University. He has been very successful there, more than 100 having united with his church during the past year. President Strong of the Rochester Theological Seminary and Dr. Barbour, with whom he was associated in church work for three years, both speak in the highest terms of the ability and devotion of Mr. Chamberlin, and his coming will doubtless be an accession to the strength of the churches of our city.

REAL ESTATE.

John T. Burns, Newton and Newtonville, has sold, for Dr. W. F. Whitney, his home, 1 Bacon street, Newton, to Mr. Henry Duggan. The property comprises a 10-room frame house with auto garage, all on corner lot of 8500 square feet and valued at $5200.

Through the above office the following properties have been leased:

HUNNEWELL CLUB

Last Saturday night at duplicate bridge, the winners were Dr. Gummings and Dr. Gleason, and C. C. Smith, and C. F. Stanley.

Monday evening the smoker, postponed from the preceding Saturday attracted over 200 members, notwithstanding the stormy conditions outside. The committee had provided plenty of long stemmed pipes and bowls of tobacco were placed about the house from which to fill them. An enjoyable entertainment was provided by S. Wilson Bailey, with sleight of hand, The Catulucci trio with musical bells, George B. Cutler, with a musical monologue and R. C. Jenkins with whistling solos. The last but not least attractive number on the program was a Dutch supper.

Tuesday evening the clubhouse was captured by whistlers of Boston and vicinity, fifteen tables being filled in the second game in a series of two pair team matches now being conducted by the New England Whist Association. The winners were A. J. Chase of Malden, W. E. Dow of Boston, C. L. Bacon of Waltham and W. A. Graustein of Cambridge.

85 Newtonville avenue, owned by Mr. W. Young of Indiana, to Mr. Charles H. Dewey of Worcester.

Mr. James Williams of Quincy has leased the McLean house, 14 St. James street, the owner being Mr. L. Jones of Boston.

Mr. Charles Olstrom of Cambridge has rented 6 Remick Terrace, Mr. J. Strum of West Newton having rented 8 Remick Terrace, situated off Charlesbank road, Newton.

NEW BROKERAGE FIRM

Of more than passing interest to Newton people is the formation of the new brokerage firm of Thompson Towle & Co., member of the New York, Boston and Chicago Stock Exchange, with offices at 50 Congress street, Boston and 25 Broad street, New York for three members of the firm are residents of Newton, Messrs. G. N. Towle of Newton Centre and Jos. N. Lovell and W. F. Bartholomew of West Newton. Messrs. Towle and Lovell are now members of the well known brokerage firm of Towle & Fitzgerald while Mr. Bartholomew is editor of the Boston News Bureau and has been associated with that paper—the leading financial paper in the East—for 17 years. Other members of the new firm will be Wm. B. and J. Edw. Thompson of New York prominent in financial and mining circles in New York, Frank W. Holmes of New York and Joseph Remick of Boston now a member of the brokerage house of Schirmer, Chapin & Emmons and for 25 years previous with Kidder, Peabody & Co. He is a brother of Frank Remick of Kidder Peabody & Co and Will Remick of the firm of R. L. Day & Co.

The new firm opens for business with the New Year.

One of the great attractions of Lauriat's famous bookstore at all seasons of the year—emphasized at this holiday time—is the careful selection of really good books that they have opportunities to buy up at special prices, both in this country and abroad. They are books that appeal to the tastes and purses of the everyday buyer and some unusually good bargains appear among them this year. A few specimens appear in their announcement in another column, others are noted in a special catalogue that they will send free to any address.

HATFIELD ELECTED

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

HIGGINS AND LYONS WIN IN WARD CONTESTS

The city election, always uninteresting, was unusually so this year, and less than half the registered voters cast ballots last Tuesday. For 21 offices there were but two contests, both confined to the limits of a single ward. In Ward 2 Willard S. Higgins, Republican, won in a close fight with James S. Cannon, receiving 374 votes to 351 for his opponent. A recount has been asked for, but will hardly change the result, as our precinct officers are usually accurate in their returns. In Ward 4 Alderman Lyons was again returned, with 331 votes to 307 for his Republican contestant, David Morton. In all other cases the candidates were unopposed, Democrats for ward Aldermen in Wards 1 and 3 having the Republican endorsement, and Mr. Sullivan, the Republican candidate for Alderman-at-large from Ward 5, having a Democratic endorsement. Mr. Charles E. Hatfield was elected Mayor without opposition, receiving 2539 votes out of the total of 3059 cast. George M. Angier received one vote for Mayor in the Waban precinct, and John E. Frost had one vote in Precinct 2 of Ward 2. Thirty-three votes were cast for school committee by women. Edgar A. Brown received one of the women's votes in Precinct 2 of Ward 6 for school committee from that ward, while Fred P. Dunbar had one vote for school committee from Ward 6, cast for him in Precinct 1 of that ward.

An unusual feature of the day was the presence of members of the Equal Suffrage League at all the different polling places for about three hours in the morning, distributing cards to voters as they left the voting booths, with this statement: "According to the Constitution of the United States women are citizens. Whilst Massachusetts pretends to recognize the Constitution of the United States, she in fact disregards it wholly so far as allowing the women in the Commonwealth to exercise the right of suffrage, which is inherent in citizenship." The ladies, who worked under the direction of Mrs. George F. Lowell, president of the league, and Mrs. S. L. Eaton and Mrs. W. E. Birdsall, were rebuffed in but two instances. In Newtonville a voter tore up the card and threw the pieces away, while a man in Newton Centre refused to accept the card.

The license vote was largely No, as usual, 772 Yes being cast to 1918 No. Last year the figures were, Yes 981, No 1984.

The returns were unusually prompt in reaching City Hall, Precinct 1 of Ward 1, arriving first at 5:18, and Precinct 1 of Ward 2 being last, at 7:55.

Mayor-elect Hatfield kept open house in the evening at Players' Hall, West Newton, and a large number called to congratulate him on the compliment of a unanimous election to the mayoralty.

The vote for ward Aldermen was as follows:

Ward 1—William J. Doherty. Pre-

POLYMNIA GUEST NIGHT.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 15, the first of the Polymnia musicals for the season of 1909-10 was held. Associate members and guests, about 50 in number, assembled at the hospitable home of Mrs. Arthur F. Jones, 370 Newtonville Avenue, to enjoy a thoroughly delightful programme and to compliment the club again on the earnest, intelligent study their work shows under Madame Martinez's inspiring direction and the steady gain they make from year to year in confidence and finish. The Polymnia was assisted by Miss Rosalind Kempton, violinist; Madame Isidora Martinez, soprano and solo pianist; Mr. Thomas W. Cotton, baritone. Miss Kempton has made great strides forward in the technique and finish of her work and plays with feeling and taste. Mr. Cotton's warm, rich baritone delighted his audience, and his songs were well chosen to show the power as well as the beauty of his voice. When the Polymnia may put Madame on their programme for solos this rest assured that the programme is a success. Her singing Wednesday night showed anew the artistic taste and trained technique that so beautifully supplement the lovely quality of her voice. And her work at the piano is always that of an artist.

Following is the programme:
1—Fairy Song.....Zimmerman
The Polymnia.
2—Violin solo, "Meditation" from "Thais".....Massenet Miss Rosalind Kempton.
3—Baritone solo, "To the Evening Star" from Tannhauser.
Mr. Thomas W. Cotton.
4—Group of Canons, 17th and 18th Century.
The Polymnia.

5—Pastorale.....E. Elgar
Miss Kempton.

6—Songs:
a. Three traditional Spanish songs.
b. Chanson d'Alain.....Gounod
Madame Martinez.

7—The Angelus.....Chaminade
The Polymnia.

8—"To Daphne."
Mr. Cotton.
9—Piano solo:
a. "Bourree".....Bach
b. "At Twilight".....Martinez
Madame Martinez.

10—"Annie Laurie," arranged by Dudley Buck.
The Polymnia.

At the end of the programme the company was invited to the dining room to enjoy a more material feast. Both socially and artistically the affair was thoroughly successful.

UNITARIAN CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club was held last evening in the parlors of Channing church. The reception was at 6:15, dinner following at 6:30, in the banquet hall. A short business session followed the dinner and at 8 o'clock Hon. Milton Reed of Fall River, the special guest of the club, gave an interesting address on his recent tour around the world. He took his audience from Boston to Chicago, thence by the Southern Pacific to San Francisco and by boat to Hawaii, where a visit was made to the wonderful volcano region. The principal cities of Japan were next visited and then the route was to Corea, China, Monken, Jarvin and over the Siberian railroad to Moscow and St. Petersburg. Berlin was next visited and the closing weeks of the trip were devoted to visits to Finland, Norway, the North Cape, Buda Pesth, Copenhagen and to New York. Mr. Reed made his address of great interest as he commented at length on the life of the various peoples, their religion, morals, manners and customs.

—The annual meeting of the Congregational church was held last Friday evening. Annual reports were read and the same officers elected with the exception of Mr. H. B. Patrick who becomes a deacon in place of Mr. M. Frank Lucas. Mr. C. A. Wyman has resigned as clerk but will continue to serve until the vacancy is filled.

—At the First Unitarian church last Friday afternoon occurred the funeral of Mrs. Pamela Orne Bond, widow of the late Rev. Henry F. Bond. There were many relatives and friends present and numerous floral tributes. The services were conducted by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of the church. The interment was in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

—The funeral of James B. Healy, a well-known parishioner of St. Bernard's Church, took place on Dec. 9, requiem mass being celebrated in the church with Rev. Charles J. Galligan celebrant. Attending the service were Rev. Father Justin, C. S. P.; Rev. Father Keelan, S. J.; Rev. Joseph Fitzgerald and the Sisters of the Good Shepherd. The floral offerings included handsome tributes from the Knights of Columbus and M. C. O. F., of which Mr. Healy was an active member; from employees of the wagon and accounting departments of Adams Express Company, by which he was employed 37 years, and from numerous West Newton friends. The bearers were Grand Knight Gallagher of the Knights of Columbus council, Chief Ranger Cahill of the local M. C. O. F. court, William Hutchinson, William Lyons, Timothy Gannon and Edward Sullivan. Mr. Healy is survived by a widow and 13 children.

PROBATE COURT.
To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Pamela O. Bond, late of Newton, in said County, deceased, WHEREAS a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by John M. Harnden, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the third day of January, A. D. 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirtieth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

NEW QUARTERS

After changes, which have taken 10 weeks to accomplish, the Newtonville Trust Company has resumed business in their former quarters in the Masonic building, at the corner of Walnut street and Newtonville avenue. The renovations include a complete change of front from the old quarters, the public lobby being now adjacent to the Newtonville avenue front. Flemish oak, plate glass and a terrazzo floor and mosaic border give a most attractive finish to the business quarters, and a luxurious customers' room, with Flemish oak desks and chairs and silk curtains, invites more than casual inspection. The customers' desks are fitted with the trust company stationery and the management expects and invites its customers to make use of it on all occasions. The working quarters of the bank officials are separated from each other by lattice partitions and fitted with the most up-to-date furnishings. The storage vaults of the company have been closed with white tiling and have the best electrical and burglar proof protection. Coupon rooms are provided for the use of its patrons and the directors have a commodious room in the rear.

These changes were necessitated by the growing business of the company, which now has nearly 1000 accounts and deposits of over a half-million dollars. The officers are: Dwight Chester, president; James W. French, John F. Lothrop, Frank L. Richardson, vice-presidents; Samuel W. French, treasurer; with Albert P. Carter, Samuel Farquhar, Oliver P. Fisher, William F. Hammett, Hon. Seward W. Jones, Fred S. Pratt and Andrew S. Woods as directors.

POLICE COURT OF NEWTON.

H. W. Orr Company vs. Fred J. Read.

Petition to enforce lien.

Respectfully represents H. W. Orr, doing business under the name and style of H. W. Orr Company, of Newton in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts within the district of said Court, that he has a lien and a proper charge for money due him on account of work and labor, care and diligence, money expended on or about the personal property described in the schedule hereto annexed, marked "A," under a contract with Fred J. Read, whose usual place of abode is now unknown, and who is the owner of said property; that said property is now and has been since the first day of October, 1908, in the possession of the petitioner.

And your petitioner further says that the amount due under said contract, in the district of said Court, was $64.80, according to the account hereto annexed, marked "B," that the whole of said amount has been due and unpaid for 60 days prior to the filing of this petition and that the storage which has accrued since the said first day of October, 1908, is also due and unpaid.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays that the lien which he has in said property may be enforced and order be made directing said property to be sold to satisfy said lien, together with charges for storage from October first, 1908, to the date of sale, and all other expenses in the premises.

By his Attorney, HARRY D. CABOT.

At the Police Court of Newton, holden at Newton, within the Court of Middlesex, for civil business, on the fourteenth day of December A. D. 1909:

On the foregoing Petition, it is ordered that the petitioner give notice to the said Fred J. Read, whose usual place of abode is unknown, and any owner unknown, to appear before said Court, on the eighth day of January, 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing an attested copy of said petition and this order of Court in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in said Newton, once a week for three successive weeks, the last publication to be seven days at least before said January eighth; that they the said Fred J. Read and any unknown owner may then and there appear and show cause why the prayer of said Petitioner should not be granted.

By the Court, FRANCIS W. SPRAGUE, 2d, Clerk.

DAVIS CLUB SHOW.

A representative company gathered at the Hunnewell Club Wednesday evening when the two act comic opera "The Alderman" was presented by the Foot Light Club of Boston under the auspices of the William H. Davis Club of Eliot church. As all members of the cast were strangers in Newton mentioning names would mean but little, but the work of the soloists was very good and the chorus of 40 voices showed careful training and sang with understanding and an interest in the various selections. The small stage handicapped the dances and the limited space made it necessary to leave out considerable of the acting. An orchestra of six pieces provided the music. Some of the topical songs made a hit and the character parts were well represented both as regards costume and make up and the acting. Informal dancing followed the entertainment.

FOUR ALARMS.

Fire broke out early Tuesday morning in the plant of the Game-well Fire Alarm Telegraph Manufacturing Company on Chestnut street, Upper Falls. The blaze was discovered by Patrolmen Dugan and McKenzie, who sent in an alarm from Box 621 at 1:33. The department quickly extinguished the fire, which started from a gas jet in the second story of the factory, with a loss of $150. Some defect in the box caused the alarm to be given four times.

MR. WHITE DEAD.

Mr. J. J. White of Newton passed away suddenly in Boston December 3, of heart failure. Mr. White was well known in Newton, where he spent a great part of his life. He also had lived the last 15 years on Cape Cod, where he made many dear friends and had a beautiful home there. "To know him was to love him." He was a prominent man in Masonic societies. Funeral was held at Newton Chapel, attended by the Royal Arch Chapter and Fraternal Lodge of Hyannis and Dalhousie Lodge of Boston, paying their last tribute to their dear brother, whom they laid peacefully at rest. The singing was by the Weber quartet. Mr. White leaves a wife and one niece to mourn his loss.

AMONG WOMEN.

The guest night of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on December 30 offers many attractive features. Mr. La Rue Vredenburg, the well-known and popular reader, will give selections, and Miss Bertha Kinzel, the soprano of the Baptist church, will sing. After the programme the floor will be cleared for dancing. Tickets may be secured of Mrs. Hallett, 16 Hillsboro Terrace, and Mrs. Kendall, 876 Beacon street.

Mrs. L. P. Everett of High street entertained the Pierian Club and their guests at her home on Wednesday afternoon. Papers were read upon the life and work of Chopin, Mendelssohn and Ole Bull. Selections from their compositions were played by Mrs. E. L. Zeiss, Miss H. E. Sturtevant and Mrs. H. E. Locke. Mrs. Highlands.

ORGAN RECITAL.

The first of the series of organ recitals was given by Mr. Everett E. Truette at Eliot Church, last evening. There was a representative audience composed largely of lovers of good music from the Newtons, Boston and surrounding towns.

The next recital will be given Thursday evening, January 20, by Mr. Gaston Deihler of New York city.

NEWTON CLUB.

The first bottle pool tournament ended this week with Mr. J. A. Paton winning first prize and Mr. J. H. Eddy the second.

Mr. William M. Flanders gave a dinner to some business friends on Wednesday evening.

About 200 were present at the vaudeville entertainment on Tuesday evening, with bell ringers and a magician on the program. Light refreshments were served.

WATERBURY-ELY.

Miss Esther Maria Ely, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Arthur Ely of Newton Centre, became the bride of Mr. Howard Ernest Waterbury of Portland, Oregon, this noon, the ceremony taking place at the Ely residence, 35 Cedar street, in the presence of the immediate families. The bride, who wore a white satin messaline trimmed with princea lace, was attended by her little sister, who carried her bouquet of bride's roses. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. E. T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, was followed by a wedding breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Waterbury will reside in Portland, Oregon, where they will be at home after February 1.

MRS. QUINN DEAD.

Mrs. Bridget Quinn, for over 55 years a resident of this city died on Tuesday at her home, 443 Watertown street, Norantum, after an illness of six weeks. Mrs. Quinn was 78 years of age and was the widow of the late Charles Quinn. She is survived by three sons, Hugh Quinn of Cambridge and Charles and Frank Quinn of Newton and one daughter, Miss Annie Quinn of Newton. A requiem mass was held yesterday morning at the Church of Our Lady. Rev. James F. Kelly, celebrant. The burial was at Calvary Cemetery and Messrs Owen Gallagher, Hugh Murnaghan, Daniel Quinn, Bernard Quinn, Nicholas Mc-Mullin and Anthony Glides were the pall bearers.

Use Crowell's Taxicabs. 'Phone South 700.

ORGAN PROGRAM.

Mr. Henry T. Wade will play the following program at Eliot church next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. The public is invited.

$3500 FIRE.

The family of Henry Genoski awoke early Thursday morning to find the lower part of their dwelling at 266 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, burning briskly. After notifying the fire department the occupants quickly dressed and got out of the house without difficulty. The fire, which started in the basement, gutted several rooms on the first floor and burned up through the roof near one of the chimneys. The department saved much of the contents. The damage was estimated at $3500, and was partly covered by insurance. The fire was caused by hot ashes being dumped in a wooden barrel several hours previously. The alarm was from Box 84.

LASELL NOTES.

Last Thursday evening the French department presented Mollere's "Les Precieuses Ridicules," the proceeds being for the benefit of the Denison House Settlement work in Boston.

Saturday evening the Dramatic Club gave as its annual mid-year play, "The Kleptomaniac and the Nettle."

The Christmas Vesper Service on Sunday was conducted by the Lasell Glee Club. A pleasing program was rendered, including chorals, hymns, a French carol and solos by Misses Shepherd, Flynn and Pierce.

Monday was Christmas Day at the Seminary. The dinner tables were decorated with greens and heaped with gifts. Later in the evening a German Christmas play was given in the gymnasium.

The Pupils Musical Rehearsal was held Tuesday evening. The program consisted of piano and voice selections. Christmas vacation began at 5 P. M. on Wednesday and ends Jan. 6.

—Mrs. F. W. Johnson of Eliot entertained the members of the Luncheon Whist Club at her home on Thursday.

—The Guild of the Good Shepherd met for its regular work on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edmund Winchester.

—Mr. and Mrs. Louis O. Tilton of Waban avenue are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby last week.

—Mr. W. G. Strong of Windsor road is in Washington, D. C. where he is visiting his daughter, Miss Isabel Strong. Dr. and Miss Margaret Strong have recently returned from a stay of several months in Bermuda and are in Boston for the winter months.

—The weekly meeting of the Young People's Lyceum was held this last Sunday with Mrs. O. R. Rice of Beacon street, twenty five members and guests being present, and much enjoyed the entertainment. Miss Helen Wiley read a beautiful story "The Song of the Serian Guest," and Miss Grace Miller rendered two violin selections, the "Slumber Song" by Hawser and "Cantelena" by Bohn most acceptably.

—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Spencer of Pine Ridge road and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bryant of Windsor road were hosts and hostesses at a fashionable and merry dance held at the Brae Burn Country Club on Tuesday evening. The guests included ten couples from Waban and a like number from Brookline and Boston and a most enjoyable evening was passed the orchestra being excellent and the collation sumptuous.

—The Beacon Club held its monthly meeting at the residence of Mr. W. M. Gould, Beacon street, a rather small attendance enjoying one of the most entertaining and instructive lectures of the season. The speaker was Professor Charles E. Fay of Tufts, an expert in mountaineering, former president of the Appalachian Club and one of the officers of the American Alpine Club which has Lieutenant Peary and Dr. Cook among its members. Mr. Fay has been on numerous trips of exploration and ascent in the Canadian Rockies and made the first ascent of several of the highest peaks in this country and his experiences were graphically retold for the benefit of the audience. His subject was "Mountaineering in a new Switzerland," and his stories and vivid descriptions were illustrated by beautiful and unusual lantern slides.

$350 CLEARED.

The ladies in charge of the Newton table at the fair for the benefit of the Animal Rescue league wish to thank all those who assisted in making their table a success, the amount cleared being a little over $350.

WABAN SCHOOL.

As previously announced, Mr. Leon H. Vincent gave his very interesting lecture on "Sir Walter Scott" before the Waban school last Saturday evening. A large audience availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing this distinguished lecturer. Mr. Vincent has a very happy talent of portraying his characters and the fact that many persons who attended the lecture, went away with the determination to re-read some of the Waverley Novels, is praise sufficient of the lecturer. Mr. Vincent is very popular in Newton. We noticed in the audience many people living in the parts of the city adjacent to Waban.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Sunday afternoon meeting for young men and boys will be omitted, according to the usual custom on next Sunday, which is celebrated in most churches as Christmas Sunday.

The building committee, composed of Messrs. Frank A. Day, Charles E. Riley, Allan C. Emery, James E. Clark, Hiram E. Barker, Carlton L. Ellison, Frederic D. Fuller, D. Fletcher Barber and H. W. Bascom, met to organize on Tuesday evening. Mr. Frank A. Day was chosen chairman, Allan C. Emery vice-chairman and H. W. Bascom clerk. Plans for the future were discussed.

The Boys' Bible Class, which meets every Friday evening, are drawing a large number of boys. The plan is to have the boys partake of a supper for which they pay 10 cents, after which they are divided into seven classes, according to age and ability, under competent teachers, who instruct them for one-half hour. Once a month some one is called in to speak to the boys, this feature taking place at the regular class session. This work is in charge of the boys' work director, Mr. Walter Gilliam.

Much interest is being manifested in the High School basketball league, which is affording opportunity for a large number to gain skill in the game. The games are played every Wednesday afternoon. The senior basketball team will play Somerville team next Wednesday. This promises to be a very close game. Chelsea has defeated both Newton and Somerville by a close margin. The first team will take a trip to the western part of the State the latter part of this month, playing Springfield and Northampton. It is probable that a trip will be taken to Maine during the month of January.

The talks given by Physical Director Macpherson every Tuesday night on anatomy and hygiene are affording an opportunity for young men to learn more about their bodies in a practical way. The next talk will be on the vascular system.

This season promises to be a very active one for the athletes. A. D. MacRae, a member of last year's crack relay team, was elected captain of the athletic team. Arrangements have been made to have a dual meet with Cambridge Y. M. C. A. Jan. 20, the meet to be held in Newton. On Dec. 28 a closed meet for members will be held in the local gymnasium, at which time it is hoped that many of the younger athletes will enter and prove their worth for future meets.

There is much interest in handball in the Business Men's class. A handball tournament will soon be arranged.

Every business man in Newton and vicinity should arrange his time so that he could put in an hour twice a week in this class, to better fit him for the strenuous business life of today. The time is divided up as follows: Before the drill about 15 minutes is devoted to handball, about 15 minutes to a good hygienic drill, and the balance of the hour is devoted to play. We will be glad to have you come in and view this class while it is on the floor.

POLICE NOTES.

Anthony E. Navin of Newton Centre appeared in court Wednesday, Dec. 8, on a charge of violating the automobile law by operating an automobile from a garage at Chestnut Hill to his residence on Eastbourne road after sundown without the rear light burning. Upon his explanation that the lamp had been lighted in the garage and that he did not know it had gone out, and that he thought a policeman who tried to intercept him was saluting another officer who was riding with him in the machine, he was discharged.

Salvatore Jesardi, charged with assaulting a fellow countryman with a chair and a knife, was fined $20. The complainant said he wished to acknowledge satisfaction and call off the proceedings, but Judge Kennedy said he could not allow such proceeding. After some hesitation the complainant showed a bandaged hand, but declared that he could not take oath that Jesardi had caused the injury. He said he thought he might have received the cuts by falling.

Israel Cooperstein, who was summoned to appear in court the same morning on a charge of violating a city ordinance by allowing his horse to destroy a shade tree, defaulted.

Julius Bates, 22, formerly of Nonantum but now of South Braintree, charged with larceny of an overcoat valued at $19 from Maurice S. Perlmuter of Nonantum, was discharged. The testimony was that Bates bought the overcoat on the installment plan, and had arranged to make a payment this week.

George C. Papineau, 23 years old, known also as George A. Wallace and George A. Chamberlain, whom the police say is wanted in several places in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, pleaded guilty Monday to two counts of larceny of subscription money in this city and withdrew his appeal on a similar case in which he was convicted here Oct. 8. On the case in which he withdrew the appeal he was given two months in the house of correction. On one of the new cases he was given 30 days to be served at the expiration of the previous sentence. The third case was placed on file. He was arraigned under the name of Wallace. After he had pleaded guilty to both counts the police testified that his real name was Papineau, and under that name had served a sentence in Massachusetts reformatory at Concord, and had been sentenced to the house of correction previously by the Newton court. Under one of his assumed names, it was testified, he was con-

THEATRE

Boston Theatre—"The Circus Man" begins its fourth week at the Boston Theatre with the performance of Monday night. "The Circus Man" is a dramatization of Holman F. Day's story of New England life, called "Squire Plin." "The Circus Man" is full of remarkably funny episodes, but while it has jollity in plenty it does not exist for merriment alone. There is considerable provocation to tears and much incentive to serious meditation, but the love interest and the merriment and the sunshine dwarf the pathos and the shadows. As "Fighting Hime," Maclyn Arbuckle has a character which fits him capably, and to which he easily lends his own big-hearted, buoyant personality. Miss Esther Lyon makes a most captivating widow. There are regular matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday.

American Music Hall—The long awaited Consul the Great, the wonderful man monkey, will make his first Boston appearance at the American Music Hall next week. Boston is familiar with the average trained monkey, but Consul is more than a monkey. He is equal to the average man in everything but in the power of speech. The four Hortons will remain over for another week and throughout the whole act there is not a dull second. A real treat for lovers of stock will be found in the act of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker, who will be assisted by Rose Morison in presenting the one-act playlet, "Just a Fresh Air Kid." The act itself is full of humor, wit and pathos. The balance of the bill will include some of the real high-class vaudeville features. A pleasing novelty is in store for the youngsters in the shape of Santa Claus, who will make his appearance after the matinee on Friday and Saturday and continue his visits during every matinee of the week following. He will present to every boy and girl present a beautiful toy and a bag of candy. For Friday and Saturday Walter Walker will portray the character of Santa Claus.

Keith's Theatre—The greatest interest has been aroused in Boston over the coming to Keith's Theatre of a new juvenile comedian named "Little Billy," said to be the smartest at the same time the cleverest youngster that has ever appeared on the stage. He will make his first introduction to Boston Christmas week, where he will be a feature of a splendid holiday bill prepared especially for the Christmas season. One feature of it will be the distribution of presents to the thousands of young folks who always go to Keith's at Christmas time, and Billy will be on hand to do the honors, besides appearing in his own specialty of singing and dancing with many changes of costume. The entire bill will be in keeping with this, including the big musical spectacle, "Kris Kringle's Dream," with the "Top o' the World Dancers," and the famous Collier Ballet; Howard and North, the rural comedians, in "Back to Wellington"; Frankie Carpenter, New England's famous repertoire star, the Two Pucks; Frank Morrell, the minstrel tenor; the Juggling Normans, and that most versa-

Park Theatre—As I was critically scanning the long list of attractions offered in Boston, something, I can't say what, held my eye to these words, "Fannie Ward in Van Allen's Wife." I immediately made up my mind to see this Mrs. Van Allen.

The last time I had visited the Park Theatre I laughed until I cried. Yes I did, and so did everyone else who saw "The Gentleman From Mississippi," but with Miss Fannie Ward behind the glare of the footlights, tears were beckoned, not from laughter, but from real, honest, cross-my-heart-and-hope-to-die sympathy for the character of Muriel.

So intense, so vivid, so wonderfully true is Miss Ward's portrayal that for I sat through the performance with both hands tightly gripping the chair I was thrilled as I have never been thrilled before. One simply must see Fannie Ward to appreciate what I have just said. No amount of praise can do her justice.

No, I can't tell you another word about the play, for then you will know too much as you sit waiting for the curtain to rise.

All I have to say is, go to the Park Theatre and see Fannie Ward for yourself at the first opportunity. Then if you are anything like myself, you will want to see the play a second time, for that's what I'm going to do. Faithfully yours, MARY DASCOMBE.

COLONIAL THEATRE—Mrs. Margaret Deland, the celebrated writer of Boston, has recently achieved a great success in New York City with the dramatization of her novel "The Awakening of Helena Richie," which Miss Margaret Anglin is now presenting at the Savoy Theatre. She is about to celebrate the one hundredth consecutive representation of the play which is a remarkable achievement at any time, and particularly so, in view of the fact that the play is Mrs. Deland's first dramatization. The remarkable performance of Miss Margaret Anglin as Helena Richie and her superb supporting company have contributed not a little to the splendid results.

Following the New York season, Miss Anglin will take the play to Mrs. Deland's home town, Boston, and will commence a short season there at the Colonial Theatre on Monday, December 27th.

NEW RECTOR.

The Rev. Francis B. White has accepted a call to become rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church at Lower Falls and will begin his duties in this city early next month. He is now rector of St. James' Church in New Bedford. Previously he served as rector in Fall River and Brockton. He has frequently supplied Trinity Church, Boston, and St. James' Church, Cambridge. He is about 40 years old, married and has two children. He will succeed the Rev. Thomas L. Cole, who concluded his duties as rector of St. Mary's Church in September, after serving eight years.

We are going to talk Christmas this week and next. We want you to know what we have. A printed list doesn't tell you much. Will you come to our Newton Centre shop and look? Never mind about buying, just come. Purchases will take care of themselves.

You will get a new idea of patterns in scrims, muslins, cretonnes, nets, table covers, wall papers of course, dimities, brass and stencil work, and many other things from your visit, and all these things will make good gifts for your friends who like pretty homes.

The unanimous election of Mr.
Charles E. Hatfield as mayor of the city for the next two years is a high compliment to the ability and personality of that gentleman. It is a compliment which the city rarely bestows
at a first election to this honorable office and then only upon those who
by their work for the public welfare
have fully justified that honor. Mr.
Hatfield will enter upon his duties as chief executive with the hearty good will of every citizen and, if his past record is any criterion, will measure fully up to the standard set by his predecessors.

The light vote of an off year and an uncontested election for the office of mayor are responsible for the close vote for ward alderman in ward
two. Mr. Cannon, who is personally popular, and deservedly so, made a splendid run and nearly caught his opponent napping. The ward is so strongly Republican that this feat would not have been possible except under these unusual conditions.

POLICE NOTES.

Word was received in this city
Tuesday of the death in Hanover of Charles P. Heustis, formerly captain of police in this city. He was appointed to the department as patrolman in the early 70s. Later he was made captain and held that position for many years. He then went to Nome, Alaska, where he remained the greater part of a year. After returning to Newton he resigned from the police department and bought a farm near Wellfleet and later moved to a farm which he bought in Hanover.

—Mrs. Marshall E. Howard of Malone, N. Y., is visiting friends here.

—Mr. J. A. Hurd of Allerton road has gone to Oklahoma on a business trip.

—A pound party was held at the Congregational church last Wednesday evening.

—Rev. D. Brewer Eddy and family have returned from a several weeks'
visit in New York.

—Miss Lottie Johns of Ellsworth, Me., will be the guest of Rev. and Mrs. G. M. Bailey over Sunday.

—Miss Lottie Hardy of Lasell Seminary is spending the Christmas recess at her home on Floral street.

—Mr. W. W. Martin and Miss Minnie Nickerson of Hartford street left this week for California where they will pass the winter.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mitchell of New York have been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R.
Logan of Lake avenue.

—The members of the St. Paul's Club were guests of the St. Lawrence Club at the church of the Messiah at Auburndale last Tuesday evening.

—The summer home of E. Moulton
at Inglewood Beach, West Yarmouth, was destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. Probably caused by defective flue.

—The C. L. S. C. met Monday at the home of Miss Manson on Lincoln street. Refreshments followed an attractive program of musical and literary numbers.

—The alarm from Box 66 about one o'clock Thursday morning was for a fire in some rubbish in the cellar of the house occupied by the Williams family on Harrison street, Elliot.

—Plans are being worked out for the Christmas observance in church and Sunday-school at the M. E. church.
The Christmas tree exercises will be held on Christmas eve in the vestry.
The Christmas sermon and Sunday School concert will be given respectively on the morning and evening of Sunday, Dec. 26th.

—Thursday evening the Men's Guild of the M. E. church held its regular meeting. After the transaction of routine business a most animated discussion of the following question ensued. Resolved: That the labor unions have proven more detrimental than beneficial to the civic, social and moral well-being.

—The Epworth League of the M.
E. church gave its unique entertainment, "Shadow Pantomimes" to a crowded house on Wednesday evening. Judging from the applause given, every part of the program was greatly appreciated. The young people are to be congratulated upon their success financially, and also upon the character and novelty of the entertainment.

—Col. E. H. Haskell and family of Beacon street have left for Pasadena, Cal., where they will spend the rest of the winter.

—Mr. F. Wayland Preston, Jr., of Trowbridge street is in Stafford Springs, Conn., where he was called by the death of his mother.

—Mr. J. H. Murray and daughter, Miss Kathryn M., have returned to their home on Trowbridge street, after a brief visit to Connecticut.

—Yesterday at the Women's Club meeting, held in Bray Hall, Mrs. Fred H. Tucker gave an interesting stereopticon lecture on "Forests and Water."

—Last Saturday afternoon the fire apparatus was called by a still alarm to a small fire in the chimney in the house of Mrs. J. E. Snelling on Elgin street. The damage was slight.

—Mrs. M. Grant Edwards, president of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Baptist church, will give a short lecture next Sunday evening before the young people.

—Next Sunday morning at the First Baptist church the pastor, Rev. M. A. Levy, will be assisted by Dr. F. E. Paddelfoot, secretary of the Men's Baptist Missionary Society of Boston.

—Last Wednesday evening the regular monthly social was held by the young people of the church. Original games were played and an old-fashioned candy pull were enjoyed by all present.

—A delivery automobile owned by Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company was badly damaged at Beacon and Hammond streets, Chestnut Hill, Wednesday, when an axle broke. The driver escaped injury.

—Last Saturday morning Box 712 was rung in for an automobile owned by Mr. Carl Vinal of Ashton park. The damage was slight and when the fire apparatus had arrived the flames had been extinguished.

—At a meeting of the Men's Club of the Trinity church, held last Wednesday at the home of Dr. John B. Powers of Beacon street, plans were discussed for a new parish house and an interesting address on the same topic was given by Mr. S. B. Paul.

—On the afternoon and again in the evening of Thursday before Christmas there is to be a Mystery Play in Mason school hall. The story of the play is the familiar one of the nativity of Christ, and the music which accompanies it is that of the old Christmas carols. All the parts are taken by children from the different churches.

Thousands of people today are using "WINCHESTER" steam and hot water heaters and thousands of people are satisfied with their use. They can be relied upon in zero weather. Made by Smith & Thayer Company, 236 Congress street, Boston.

MR. SLATER DEAD.

Funeral services for Andrew C. Slater, who was for many years engaged in the East India trade and who died in his 91st year at his home in West Newton, took place Tuesday afternoon at his late residence, 326 Highland street, Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of First Unitarian church, officiating.

Attended by former business associates and numerous Newton friends, a simple service was conducted, there being no music and no pall bearers. Floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The body was taken to Forest Hill cemetery for interment.

Mr. Slater was born in Worcester. When he was three years old his parents brought him to Boston. Ten years ago he came to West Newton. He retired from business 30 years ago. His wife died several years ago and is survived by no immediate family.

REV. DR. PATRICK

COMPLETE TEXT OF THE MEMORIAL ADDRESS

RECENTLY DELIVERED BY REV. J. T. STOCKING OF CENTRAL CHURCH

The vacation bell had scarcely ceased to ring last summer when the message came that at midday of July sixteenth, a bright, sunny day as was befitting, the glorious spirit of Dr. Patrick had taken its flight to the more glorious country toward which his face had been so consistently set for more than four score years. The services were held, as they should have been, in the beloved church at West Newton, of which he had remained the pastor emeritus for fifteen years. The occasion, as well as the too scant opportunity for preparation, forbade any extended or adequate review of his life. Few of this congregation were able to be present to pay their tribute. I therefore announced at the time that in the autumn, in this church, I should speak more fully of his life and work. Nothing could be more fitting than that we should have such a service. His connection with the beginnings of this church, coupled with his residence among us for these latter years, made us feel that he belonged to us. Nothing could be more appropriate than that such a service should be on a Friday evening; for it was here that we came closest to him, and heard his rich voice in speech and prayer and song and in incomparable repetition of the most majestic passages of Holy Scripture, on which his soul rested and soared as a bird rests and rises on the upper air. The room is full of his presence. We meet together, moved by one impulse, bound by one more tie, a common affection—that we may pay our tribute to this distinguished servant of men and of the Most High God.

Henry Johnson Patrick was born in Warren, Massachusetts, September 20, 1827. With characteristic humor he said at the Boston Ministers' Meeting that he was not consciously present at that time, but that he understood this to be the case. His father, Rev. Joseph H. Patrick, was pastor of the Congregational Church of Barrington, just over the Rhode Island border. He had married his cousin, Mary Patrick of Warren, and this suggests why the child was a son of the Bay State. It is interesting to note that this child, robust in body, mind, and soul, could not in any way be made to fit in with certain theories in regard to the marriage of kin. One year later a sister was born. Dr. Patrick tells us that the first item of what we have recognized as a tenacious memory has to do with this little sister. He recalls vividly that at the age of three they played church; he stood on the floor and was the minister; she sat on the stairs and was the choir. His next recollection, just as vivid to him, was of the day not long after when his sister's form left the home. Henceforth, he tells us, he was under the disadvantage of being the only child. If the temptation to selfishness remained as he says an "inner enemy" all his days, it must, at least, in these latter years when we all have known him, have had few victories to its credit.

The Rhode Island pastorate was followed by one in Greenwich in this State. Here the minister received the sum of four hundred dollars a year. But he was fortunate enough to own a house and four acres of land, on which, being a farmer by birth, he raised adequate supplies for his family, and on salary and lot together he succeeded in laying up money. In a letter which Dr. Patrick wrote the committee on "Old Home Week" in 1904, he recalls scenes of these Greenwich days. There is the "broad level common called the plain"; the ponds and streams on either side of the village; the hills beyond them, especially the Hardwick hill with its side all blue with huckleberries. "There is the inn on the side of the common, at the head of which stands the old home; in the yard was the well with its curb and the old wooden bucket. There was the meeting house, with its gallery on all four sides, and the pulpit aloft on pillars between the two entrance doors, a constant source of mystery as the minister opened a narrow door and disappeared until his head emerged high above the expectant eyes of the wondering children. There is the aged sexton, limping his way across the common on a week day to toll the bell for the dead, one stroke for a man, two for a woman, three for a child, and then a stroke for every sixth. These were happy days, almost the only cloud lying in the fact that he was, so he says, "the only child of the only minister in town and expected to be so good." These Greenwich days made their indelible impression on the boy's mind. They continued to flash across the inward eye and be to the last a "bliss of solitude." As the end drew very near, he was back there again on the common, among old acquaintances, and he sang at times a rollicking song, and was happy.

It was here that he began his musical education that was such a joy all his life, here in the old-fashioned winter singing school. He recalled a year ago the interest that he had, though he was not yet in his teens, in the transposition of the scale. About this time he was sent away to school to begin his Latin and Greek. His first year was spent at Belchertown, his second at Quabog Seminary in Warren. At Belchertown his first roommate was a fellow by the name of Young, who had been a bartender in Worcester and who shocked him by his profanity, but who soon learned to restrain himself, says Dr. Patrick, "as we boarded with a good deacon who had family prayers." This George Young, who later gave his name to the Boston hotel, and his young roommate remained good friends and frequently talked over the former days. At Warren his roommate was Francis H. Underwood, who was later editor of the Atlantic Monthly. Here also he found himself in the same Latin class with Miss Lucy Stone, who was already a reader of the Liberator and under the spell of Mr. Garrison. He tells us that many years later, on a street in New York, he met Miss Stone and listened overpowered, while in her sweet voice she denounced his profession and called upon him to quit it and enter the work of reform.

At about the age of fourteen he found himself in Amherst, his parents having removed to that place that he might have the advantages of the academy and college. He entered the college in the class of '48. The story of his life there is a striking contrast to the story of the present-day student. In a speech to the Boston Alumni only ten months ago, he referred to the simple life of those days. "We had no luxuries to shorten life. Our gym was not confined to any four walls. The sky was its roof; and its ornament the ancient elm and oak. No swimming tank for us nor bath tubs in dormitories, but we had the whole Freshman river, pure and picturesque. Down cellar we had our sawhorse for morning and evening exercise, and the subsequent strengthening of arms, by the transfer of the white oak and green walnut of Pelham hills to the air-tights and open Franklins of our rooms." In referring to the founding of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, of which he was a charter member, he writes: "These beginnings cost us poor fellows money and hard manual work. We cannot forget the winter vacation when two of us gave our time to fitting up the room, turned ourselves into carpenters and masons, and kept a fire burning day and night to dry out the plastering." He adds, characteristically: "but it paid." The young student threw himself heart and soul into the college life. He joined the choir and learned to play the bass viol to help out the little wheezy organ. These were the days before glee clubs. He took a deep interest in public speaking and was a student of every orator who came to address the college or whom he could hear on other occasions—Everett, Cushing, Sumner, Choate, Bushnell, Gough, Webster. Here is one of his recollections:

"It was my special good fortune to hear Choate and Webster when they were pitted against each other at the courtroom at Northampton, upon a will case involving a large bequest. It was a hot summer day, and the room was crowded with Amherst students. Mr. Choate was a striking figure, tall and spare, with a pale, thin, haggard face and bright piercing eyes; a head covered with black ringlets on which the perspiration stood in drops like jewels, and when he shook his head a shower descended upon his papers. He spoke for an hour, and the jury were fastened to him. No old farmer dropped to sleep under the heat. He was the prince of intense oratory.

"Mr. Webster followed for sustaining the will. His bodily presence was impressive in size, with his large head as in his pictures. He stepped near the jury, and began talking to them familiarly as though they were old acquaintances. They listened to him with all their ears, and he did not rise into a single flight of eloquence that I remember. It was argument and fact which convinced them, and they gave him the verdict."

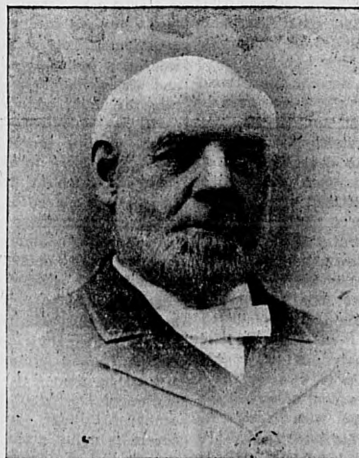

The year following his graduation from Amherst, he was principal of the high school in Conway, Massachusetts. Here he listened to the preaching of Samuel Harris, later professor at Yale, and says he learned more theology from those sermons than from the subsequent lectures in the seminary. He entered Union Seminary, N. Y., in 1849 and stayed there two years. Through singing tenor in churches in the city at three dollars a Sunday, and teaching music in a private school at one dollar an hour, he supported himself in the institution. He heard as many of the great preachers of the day as he could. These were exciting times, of which he was rich in reminiscence. Of a meeting of the Anti-Slavery Society, he says:

"The Broadway Tabernacle was filled to its utmost, even to the aisles. Mr. Garrison as usual was in the chair. Soon after the opening there was a stir, as a rough, burly man pushed his way through the crowd, followed by a line of men, and then marched up to the platform, and the leader commanded arrest of the meeting on the ground of treason. This was Captain Isaiah Rhynders and the Empire Club. Here was a scene for an artist, as Mr. Garrison arose. I can see his calm, unmoved face under this severest provocation. The Hutchinsons in the gallery broke in going back to preach the sermon fifty years after his ordination, fifty men and women of this band gathered from all the country round and expressed their love and gratitude through a delightful gift. One of that band, writing to the old pastor on his eightieth birthday, says: "Among the pleasantest memories of my life are my boyhood days, and the good times we enjoyed when you were our pastor and leader. I am sure no minister of our little Bedford church ever has, during its entire history, made a more lasting impression for good than was made by you upon the generation whose good fortune it was to come under your ministry." Mr. Patrick was a member of the school committee and was one year its chairman. He organized and was a leading spirit in conducting a Lyceum. His reminiscences in connection with this course are to many of us like a profound perfume breeze from a far-away field. "This was the starting of the Lyceum, and we were compelled to appeal for the lowest price. Mr. Emerson, living in the neighboring town, gave his lecture, asking nothing; and Thoreau reduced his price for his 'Wild Apples'; Dr. Holmes would come for ten dollars if he could sleep in his own bed, and he did; Wendell Phillips abated nothing and we gave him twenty-five dollars for his 'Lost Aris'; and others were considerate of our condition."

During the pastorate at Bedford he represented his town in the General Court. You will want to hear his own words about this experience:

"One Saturday evening while writing my sermon, a delegation of three men appeared in my study. They came from a Republican caucus to ask if I would allow the use of my name as a candidate for representative to the General Court. I answered at once, 'No. I cannot ride two horses and one is enough.' Then followed the plea that if I would not, then a man would get it who was a license man and drank himself. 'You can have it if you consent.' For the cause I yielded and was elected and went down and breathed the bad air of the old State House for six months.

THE LATE REV. HENRY J. PATRICK, D. D.

with one of their ringing songs. A parody was arranged by which each party might have a speaker. Rhynders had his man, a doctor broken down, who made a dull speech to prove the negro to be an extension of the monkey. Then came the climax of the exciting occasion as Mr. Garrison called out the blackest negro I ever saw, Sam Ward by name, and he was equal to the time. It may be that memory adds a glow to the scene, but I think of it as one of the most eloquent speeches I ever heard and surely it was a practical victory for the negro."

Here he had one of the greatest joys of his life, in listening to Jenny Lind. Of her singing he says: "Never anything before or since that has equalled it in these ears." Of her "I know that my Redeemer liveth," he says, "That know runs still through my heart."

But Union did not altogether satisfy, and we find the theological student at Andover for the completion of his course. After his graduation and a half year as teacher at Merrimack Normal Institute, he entered the work which he had chosen. He was ordained at the Congregational Church in Bedford, November 15, 1854, and was its pastor for six years. Here he entered vigorously upon his threefold work as preacher, pastor and citizen. He was particularly interested in work for boys and girls. He once said in reply to the question: "What is the most repaying service in your life?" "More tangible testimonies are coming to me in the evening of my life from what I have done for the young than from any other efforts." He refers particularly to the Band of Hope which he founded in Bedford, the bond of which was a pledge against ardent spirits, tobacco and profanity. Of that he says: "The echoes of the good wrought by that organization reach my ears, multiplying from many in middle life, in stations of responsibility and usefulness." In

This gave me a peep behind the scenes. It so disgusted me with politics that I have not gotten over it yet, and the overture for a second term was declined. The lobby was a sickening sight, suggesting an added prayer to the Litany. From those who make politics their business, good Lord, deliver us."

In the latter part of the summer of 1860, he finished his work in this old town of his first pastorate, having received a call to the church at West Newton. Between his dismissal from the old "field" and his coming to the new, there occurred the most important event that had happened to him since his birth, viz., his marriage on September 13, 1860, to Miss Martha Armes Loomis. From that moment we record in his life and doings the story of two lives, singularly one in aim and spirit. The spirit that he exemplified in his active work, and still more conspicuously in the days of his affliction, was not merely paralleled by, but also in no small degree depended upon, a like spirit in her whose one great aim and care was his joy and welfare, and the success of all his labors.

Of his long pastorate, covering thirty-four years to which may be added the fifteen years in which he served the church as pastor emeritus, it is impossible to speak adequately. Nor is it necessary that I should make the attempt. Many of you are more familiar with those long years of work than I am. He lived the life of a busy, consecrated city minister. With the problems and labors of such a field you are all acquainted—at least in part. He came to Newton when the city numbered little more than eight thousand people. The church was small, there were only one hundred and thirty-four names upon the roll. He left it large and strong. During his ministry six hundred and fifty people united with the church. The church building was remodeled and enlarged and a parsonage was erected. The one hundredth anniversary was observed with appropriate exercises. His parish labors of love were abundant. He was a beautiful pastor, especially to those who needed him, most, a friend full of sympathy and tenderness to all who were in trouble or any kind of need. Here again he took great interest in work with the young. The children gathered frequently in the parsonage for good times and instruction, especially in missions. Once a year the "Pine Farm Boys" were entertained at his home. He made much of the ministry of music. He was a preacher of force and power. His central message was man's redemption through the love of Jesus Christ. He was not afraid to speak much of salvation, for that he conceived to be the end of all preaching. He was positive in his utterances. He recognized that he knew only "in part," but he preached that part as emphatically as he could. After thirty years in the ministry, he says: "I note a renewed confidence in the faithful preaching of the vital truths of the Gospel." During this pastorate there were several "seasons" of evangelistic meetings, held with success. Dr. Patrick interested himself in whatever concerned the welfare of the city and West Newton. He was a foremost figure in promoting the old Lyceum. There may be some of you who remember his bright address in one of these lecture courses, "A Parent's Side Sights." One of the most humorous of his addresses was an essay before the Horticultural Society, on "The Moral Uses of Horticulture," which was printed in full in the Transcript. Of this long, rich pastorate, the present pastor of the church has recently said: "There are many among us still who remember those years with thankfulness and joy. After a long life of usefulness he is at rest. We build upon his foundations."

One beautiful labor to which he gave himself during this pastorate was his work for the Union soldier as a delegate on the Christian Commission. You will wish to hear, in part at least, his own "Memories" of that service:

"In January, 1865, I left my peaceful home in West Newton for service in the Army of the Potomac, as a delegate of the Christian Commission. At South Framingham I was joined by the Rev. Mr. McLean and Deacon Bigelow. We stopped over at Philadelphia to receive at headquarters our orders and papers and a graceful metal badge and blank books for diary. At Baltimore we took the boat for Fortress Monroe. Here broke in upon us on board the visible signs of war in the uniformed soldier, the accoutrements and the arms and provisions for the army. We passed the wreck of the Merrimack and sailed up the James and reached City Point. Passing the site of old Jamestown we landed at City Point, General Grant's headquarters. We had the new experience of Virginia mud, deep and sticky, for a half mile. This brought us to the headquarters of the commission for the Army of the Potomac, with its separate buildings for chapel, storeroom, reading room, stockades for lodgings and dining room and cook rooms, arranged in two parallel lines. In front is the Base Hospital of the Army of the Potomac, with fifty acres of sick, wounded, dying and recovering soldiers. I was assigned to the Fifth Corps Hospital, for which I was glad, as it included our Newton company. The end of the first day's service found me broken down and broken up, and when I came in I said to the superintendent, Mr. Cole, and to Mr. Ashley, his assistant, 'I can't stand this. You must let me go back tomorrow.' 'Oh, no,' they answered, 'you've made the common mistake. You are not here to sympathize with these men and console with them, but you are here to cheer them up, to get them up out of the valley and not go down with them the deeper. Try it on tomorrow.' I continued in it for eight weeks and became much interested in my men in my daily round among them. There was a constant change, a going and a coming. It was my habit to visit the morgue every morning to see if any of my boys had passed away in the night. There were cases of special interest to me I would write letters to their homes at their dictation. Detention amid these surroundings made them despondent, for they preferred to be at the front or on furlough. I had more than I could do to drive out the blues. It was pleasant to be called to varied services along the front, as the dedication of chapels and special meetings. Evenings were given to a class of colored men in a kind of school, great, tall fellows, eager to learn to read. It was interesting to see how tickled they were to get hold of a word; they would laugh right out. One of them did this when he got his tongue round the word wisdom and I asked him if he knew what it meant. He said, 'O, yes, it means to have a heap of sense.'"

"The second action at Hatcher's Run took place so that the train with the wounded came in the twilight of one morning. It was cold, icy, miserable, and we had our hot coffee ready for the poor fellows. This was the worst sight of war that we saw. Some had expired and were borne away; some were severely wounded and others slightly. One fellow held up his leg and showed a bullet hole through it, and said, 'Isn't that a fancy hole, but it will give me what I have been wanting.' It was common for a bright sparkle of humor to break forth from many a cot as I came to it.

"Two men were confined in the prison at City Point while I was there, who were condemned to be hung for desertion. One was a New Hampshire boy, who from sheer homesickness had run away and was taken at his home and brought back. The other was a bounty jumper, and was a confirmed criminal. They were to be executed the same morning. One was accessible to the chaplain, full of emotion, and expressed penitence. The other turned a deaf ear, wanted none of the 'darned stuff' as he called it. The night before the execution was to take place a reprieve came from Washington for the penitent boy, which was read to him, and he burst into tears and exclaimed, 'I will do everything I can for my country,' and he fulfilled his promise to the end of the war."

We are indebted to Mr. C. C. Carpenter of Andover for this little picture of Mr. Patrick at this time: "I remember seeing you in the Army of the Potomac distributing tracts among the soldiers, and I have as evidence a picture of you in an army scrap book, in front of the Christian Commission chapel, with a big knapsack hanging over your shoulder." How easy it is to see with our imagination that stalwart figure in uniform.

In 1895 Dr. Patrick took up his residence in Newtonville, became one of us in spirit and interest, as well as in worship, and joined in all our enterprises as far as his infirmities would permit him. He never retired from service. Newtonville was familiar ground to him. He had watched its growth, especially the growth of Central Church, with whose beginnings he was so closely linked. He was frequently present at the house meetings that preceded its real formation. The first paragraph of our church manual reads, in part: "The Rev. H. J. Patrick of West Newton rendered invaluable assistance to the enterprise from its beginning by his cheering presence at the meetings and his constant aid and advice." When the first house of worship, on the corner of Washington street and Central avenue, was opened, April 3, 1868, he preached the first sermon. When, in the following September, the church was formally organized and the first pastor installed, he gave the charge to the people. Not long after, at a reception at Mr. Littlefield's, the church presented him with a large engraving which he ever prized. So when he came to us he really came to a kind of foster child, to a people who from the first looked upon him as a benign father.

Considering his infirmity, these fourteen years were remarkably full of activity and service. He continued to perform many a service in the old parish. He married and buried and baptized and called. He preached many sermons in many pulpits, and was always desired again. He took part with frequency in anniversaries and installations. He was present to take active part in meetings of ministers and churches. He became a kind of pastor-at-large. Honors and recognitions poured in upon him in the way of public and private tributes. In 1900, when the North Church was settling its present minister, at their reception to him to which Dr. Patrick was bidden, they presented to him, as a token of their appreciation of what he had done for them, the Morris chair which he found such a continual comfort during these last years. He helped them to their feet and they helped him to rest. In 1904 he went to old Bedford, his "first love," and preached the sermon at the fiftieth anniversary of his entering the ministry, and received the homage of a people that had not ceased to revere the man who had gone from them forty-four years before. As I have said before, these were years when he found himself entering into his reward, the reward that is reserved for those who love and serve mankind.

Greatest of all these days, probably, was September 20, 1907, for on his eightieth birthday there came to him more than one hundred and forty letters of appreciation and congratulation. From high and low they came, from rich and poor, from old and young, bearing their burden of love and loyalty, giving him their praise and prayers. They are a wonderful witness of the way in which a man may wrap himself about the lives of people. As one reads them he feels anew the force of the Master's injunction: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven." From some of these letters I have already quoted; from others I am yet to borrow.

The advertisement features a circular illustration at the top showing a lumber mill with a central building and two large saws on either side, with logs being processed. Below this is a horizontal scale bar with markings for 100 and 12 1/2. At the bottom is a cross-section of a log, showing the internal grain structure.

the minimum of rebellion. So I want to thank you, and have you think that out of the witnesses that could be called to the stand to give like testimony, this is my one illustration of the good wrought by the unnumbered letters of like import which you have sent forth.

"Who can measure influence, letters written, words spoken, communion of spirit? Who can tell the story of these forty years in the unreported deeds thereof? Shall we ever know it all? We must wait till the books are opened and the light of the heavenly world shall reveal the invisible deeds of today. Then we may hear additions to the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew: 'I was downcast and ye lifted me up, I was despondent and ye gave me good cheer. I was despairing and ye brought me the dawn of hope. I was in darkness and ye led me into the light.'

"I congratulate you not only for the success of these forty years, but for the good things in store for you when time is no longer.

"Pardon the great length of this letter. I did not mean it should be so long, but like Eliphaz of old, I am full of matter, with plenty of leisure and a garrulous habit which increases with age. Both of us are journeying toward the setting sun, and in the course of nature the end cannot be far away. The mystery of the coming change increases as I approach it, and I have times when I wish the ground of my assurance was as solid as yours when you step over into the unseen and untold."

If there was rebellion we have not seen it. We have only seen the spirit of courage and good cheer. We have wondered at the abundance of inward light that could keep him so full of sunshine, when the shutters were drawn so tightly over the outward eye. We have marvelled at his patience, doubtless knowing only vaguely how hard it was for one so thoroughly alive and so active in spirit to be bound so fast by fetters, that there was no hope of breaking. As he addressed the ministers a year ago he expressed himself as "speaking into the darkness and silence around me," and yet it was without complaint or sighing. We have heard him say, "Eye-gate closed; ear-gate nearly closed," yet with scarcely a cadence to indicate that his lot was heavy. He has been a lesson to us all. We have learned from him the beauty, if we have not gained the secret, of a life in which the inward world wins the mastery over the outward. He has shown us that the king's son may be "all glorious within," though his outer world be dark enough.

We shall not find the secret of such good cheer until we trace it back to his faith. Here was the corner-stone of the beautiful building of his life. His house was founded upon a Rock; his feet rested on everlasting foundations that could not be shaken. He knew that his Redeemer lived, and he lived daily with that Redeemer. "All that pertains to life," he once wrote, "may be simply divided into the things we cannot help and the things we can help. Why worry about the first, since we are relieved of all responsibility for them?—and about the latter we should not fret because we can and we should help them. So we gain relief, and do our duty. But there is something higher and better than our philosophy, more efficacious as a remedy, even the providence of God, and the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ. How often do the lessons of history teach us to be calm and undisturbed by the most threatening omens, and how often the issue is a protest against our worry and foreboding." He had the triumphant faith that all of life's events could be transformed into spiritual values, which are the real values. The outer eye was darkened but the inward eye became brighter day by day. He saw the invisible things. His ear became dull but he was not deaf; for he heard the voices that are too near for sound. He could lose all that eye and ear could tell him and yet live in a world full of lovely sights and sounds. He could be fettered by his infirmity and yet not be restless, because there was so much that was restful within. In his faith we find, as he found, the secret of his peace. As we think of him and the visions that he has opened to us, we can say with his friend, Dr. Arthur Little: "How much better not to have eyes and yet see, than to have them and not see."

What a striking parallel there exists between his life and that of his father, of whom the devoted son gave us the following little picture: "He will be remembered as a sincere, faithful minister of the gospel, appealing more to experience than to argument to convince and lead men to Christ. He made the impression upon every one that he felt what he H. PATRICK—Galley 11, said. He was a man of sunny temperament, this being an inheritance from his father before him, and often a quiet humor betrayed itself in his playful responses. He took special delight in the service of song. With no apparent pain and no struggle, he breathed his life out as a child falls to sleep. The end of the good man was in consistency with himself. Through all the days of his confinement he was in a waiting posture, childlike, submissive and hopeful, with a constant outlook to the other world. He was most interested, even to the last, in the affairs of the church. Another peculiarity of these last weeks was the repetition of hymns learned in his youth. Waking up at midnight, and finding himself restless, he would commence to repeat the loved hymns of former years, and show a wonderful facility in reviving what had been lost to him for a long period."

To live as Dr. Patrick lived is to solve the problem of human life. He has won the victory and gained the crown. He fought a good fight, he finished the long course, he kept the faith against all odds. And every man knows in his heart the rewards laid up for such a victory. He has gone from our outward eye, yet we see him day by day. New words of experience will not fall from his lips, but the old will remain ever new. He will not reveal new secret things which his inward eye has discerned in the treasury of Holy Writ, but we shall see over and over again the new things which he has already pointed out to us. We shall not hear his rich voice in song, but we shall sing the songs better because we have seen what they meant to his soul. We shall not be lifted up with his prayers, but how often as we pray we shall think of him and be lifted up.

We are a happy people to have had him among us. We are grateful to God for the privilege. We know better how to meet life, to undertake its conquest and bear its burdens. We know better the supremacy of spiritual things. We are surer that courage and sunshine and charity and benevolence are the things that men love. We know better that the unselfish life is the open sesame to the doors of the human heart. We know better that faith is the substance of all true, brave living.

We rejoice in his glorious victory. We can sing of his triumph. We take comfort in our assurance, which he made more sure, that while our beloved friend and minister for so long saw as through a glass darkly, now he sees face to face.

This is a little of what his life has meant to us. If he were to say what life meant to him, he would doubtless choose some such words as these, with which he closed his sermon at Bedford at the fortieth anniversary of his installation:

"I thank Thee, Lord, for using me, For Thee to work and speak; However trembling in the hand, The voice however weak. For those to whom, through me, Thou hast some heavenly guidance given. For some, it may be, saved from death, And some brought nearer heaven. O, honor! higher, truer far, Than earthly fame could bring, Thus to be used in work like this, So long by such a king!"

Safety For Your Estate

Our method of administering estates and trust funds has not only all the advantages of an individual trusteeship, but other points of superiority that one-man direction cannot have. Sickness, accident or death cannot endanger a trust confided to us, because no one man is responsible for it. Our executive board act together, and are ready for business every business day in the year.

Every investment made, or other important action taken, represents the collective wisdom of a group of men expert in trust management, and their services cost an estate no more than it would pay an individual.

All our securities are officially inspected three times a year. We give bonds equal to twice the amount of the personal property of an estate we administer; and these bonds are backed by a guarantee of $4,500,000. An individual acting as executor or trustee rarely is required to give security.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

Don't forget the Newton Federation Christmas Stamps. Be loyal to the work being done right at our own doors where we can see what use is being made of our money. The Club Editor would in no way disparage what is being done by the Red Cross Society, but is merely urging the claims of our home city, that Newton money go to Newton work. If anyone desires further information of what is being done, just take a car to the hospital and personally inspect the camp.

The Conference idea is being emphasized this year by the State Federation. So far, three committees or departments, have held theirs with eminent satisfaction to all who attended. If attendance is any criterion of the relative interest in the various subjects, civics may be considered the most popular. Several factors, however, must be taken into consideration before coming to a conclusion in the matter,—whether the subjects presented are new or already familiar, the place of meeting, whether in the city or the suburbs, and the weather. Thus far, the weather has been propitious on all three occasions, but had it been very stormy either for the Forestry at Milton or the Civics at Chelsea, the numbers would have been materially decreased.

At Milton the members of the Milton club formed the larger part of the audience, but at the Education conference held in Boston, with about the same number in attendance, the visiting delegates far exceeded the members of the hostess club.

This experience would seem to indicate that a large number of clubs are reached by a conference held in the city. Yet the meeting at Chelsea, where the numbers were much larger than the hostess club dared hope would seem to show that after all the place of meeting may not make so much difference. There are those, however, who can attend one held in Boston when it would be impossible when it is held outside, on account of added time, strength and expense required to journey from one suburb to another.

They are all of such interest and value it is a pity that it should be necessary to crowd so many into so short a space of time. The Presidents' Conference and the Forestry had but an interval of one week between them, and the same is true again of the Education and the Civics, while in January three will come within thirteen days.

Of course everyone is not expected to attend all, yet there are those who would like to, but if it is necessary to have them so close together, the attendance will be affected materially.

The dates for the January conferences are as follows: Food Sanitation New England Club Rooms, Copley Square, January 5, 2 P. M.; Civil Service Reform, Hyde Park, January 14, 2 P. M.; Art, January 18, at new Museum of Fine Arts.

As guests at the Chelsea Woman's Club the Civics committee of the State Federation held a conference in the Cary Avenue Baptist Church on Thursday afternoon, December 9. Mrs. Esther M. Andrews, chairman of the committee, presided over the conference and in her opening words referred to its being fitting that this civics conference should take place in Chelsea. Mrs. Carrie M. Cassell, president of the hostess club, presented greetings, stating that her club is deeply interested in civics questions and at present they have a very active committee.

The time at the disposal of the committee was very carefully divided, so that each subject being considered this year was given its fair share for presentation with the opportunity to discuss and ask questions. In this way it was possible to bring to a close promptly at four o'clock, the appointed time. This systematizing of the meetings is a great gain in the right direction.

The first subject was Stamp Savings presented by Mrs. Jennie S. Dame of Clinton. Mrs. Dame has had practical experience in the work in her own town. Its object, she said, is to teach thrift and to give the children the idea of saving from the time they begin to have money to spend. In starting this work it is wise to secure the sympathy of the superintendent of schools. Clinton children have saved $10,000 in five years. A member of a Weymouth club told how the work has been carried on there very successfully.

A new subject which is occupying the attention of the committee this year is that of a Noiseless Fourth. Mrs. Mary McI. Hervey told of the desire to improve the method of celebrating our great patriotic holiday. When we realize that from 250 to 300 of our citizens sacrifice their lives every year and some 3000 are mutilated or crippled, all will agree that it is time some change is made and some of the element of danger eliminated or at least reduced to a minimum. Then, too, we are missing good opportunities for teaching patriotism. A second matter which Mrs. Hervey has in charge is International Peace. She desired that the club women inform themselves so that when the next Hague conference convenes they may know what it stands for.

In the absence of Mrs. W. W. McClench of Springfield, Mrs. Peabody of Malden told something of the celebration of the Fourth as it has been done in Springfield, of the preparation in the schools of patriotic scenes which formed parts of a great pageant in the forenoon, of sports in the afternoon in which many children took part and of the great mass meeting in the evening. In order to make such a celebration successful it will be necessary to secure the co-operation of the school committee, the city government, the park and police boards. All agreed in the course of the discussion of the subject that if the firecrackers and other dangerous elements are taken away from the children, we must give them something to take their place. Large bonfires, which the children have helped to build, and fireworks in the hands of competent persons were considered as safe and permanent forms of the celebration.

Mrs. Lillian Folger, chairman of the health department, told of two new lines of work being suggested this year, educating the school children in the laws of health and the matter of sex hygiene. She spoke of the need of a more intelligent understanding of the meaning and object of medical inspection in the schools, of new books on physiology and hygiene to be used in the schools, the old ones being inadequate, and suggested the introduction of the sanitary drinking fountain in place of the common drinking cup.

The work for tuberculosis in Newton was spoken of by Mrs. G. W. Auryansen.

Mrs. Mabel W. Tourtelotte of Marlboro, of the department of town and village improvement, urged the removal of billboards and all unsightly objects about one's home town, saying that a gentle but insistent pressure should be brought to bear to get rid of them. She also urged tree planting, a celebration of Arbor Day by the children and the establishment of public playgrounds.

Mrs. Andrews emphasized the need of greater information about and greater interest in the juvenile court work. There should be separate probation officers for adults and for children, she said, and probation officers enough, that each one may come into friendly and intimate relations with the probationers in his care. The work among girls and the white slave traffic were referred to in the discussion.

Mrs. Harriette J. MacDonald, chairman of the Junior Civic League work, urged the formation of clubs where boys and girls may be trained in patriotic and loving service to their city. The motto of these leagues is, "If you would love your city, you should make your city lovely."

As a fitting close to an exceedingly interesting session Miss Georgie A. Bacon summed up the different phases of civic work that had been presented and, commending what has already been done, stimulated the clubs to still higher achievement.

At the close tea was served during the social hour.

There will be no session of the Social Science Club next week.

On Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 21, the Newtonville Woman's Guild will observe Forefather's Day. The general question, "What have we gained from the Pilgrims?" will be discussed by means of the query box.

On Saturday, Jan. 1, the Newton Mothers' Club will hold a charity luncheon and bridge at the Brae Burn Club. Invitations have already been issued.

"The Campaign for Pure Food" was the subject of the paper presented to the Social Science Club by Miss Louise M. Powe on Wednesday morning. Interest in this matter, she said, seems to have culminated with the passage of the pure food act in 1906. Next to air, food is the greatest necessity of life. Special places for the killing of animals were established very early in Rome, and in Nero's time the market was a prominent building. Standards for these markets were lowered, in the dark, and middle aged. By the second half of the 16th century markets appeared in France and in 1810 an abattoir was erected by Napoleon. She traced historically the gradual development of the sentiment toward improvement of conditions and the public regulation of the production of meat down to the present time. As late as 1866 slaughter houses were permitted within the downtown districts of New York city. In 1874 the Brighton Abattoir was established and two years later the State provided for inspectors. Since local laws were not effective and on account of the wide difference between the laws of the various States, it was at length thought necessary to have a national law in order to bring about uniformity. This matter was agitated for a number of years and it was not until 1906 that pure food and drug act was finally passed.

Miss Powe discussed many sources of danger, in food, such as milk, water, flies, decaying vegetables, exposure of foods on sale where they become infected by dust, cooking vessels, improper care of food at home, unclean handling in shops, and the public drinking cup. Commercial adulterations of baking powders, butter, lard, cheese, canned goods, coffee, tea, eggs, milk, maple sugar, and the use of harmful preservatives were also explained.

She considers that legislation has proved a benefit and has in reality brought about a revolution and feels that the general sentiment of manufacturers is in favor of the law.

There was considerable discussion of the paper afterwards, in the course of which the hope was expressed that something may be done toward improving certain conditions in Newton.

It was a source of real regret to those of the Waban people who heard Mrs. Emily Farrow Gregory's talk on "Cabin Days in Dixie," last Monday evening, that the inclement weather kept so many others away. The occasion was the annual "Gentlemen's Night" of the Waban Woman's Club, the affair being held in Waban Hall.

Mrs. Gregory was the sole entertainer; her aim being to present a true picture of the old-time "darker" of anti-bellum days. This was done in an entirely acceptable manner to the audience, which was responsive to both the humor and pathos of her talks. At the conclusion of Mrs. Gregory's talk a delightful supper was served and informal dancing brought the evening to a close.

On Monday, Dec. 27, Miss Louisa Phillips Merritt will give an illustrated lecture on Italy.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold a sale of food, candy, aprons and fancy articles in Society Hall, Taylor block, Auburndale, Saturday, Dec. 18, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. The public is cordially invited.

Hereafter the Home Circle will hold their meetings at G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville, on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands continued the study of Dickens at its meeting on Dec. 13, with a paper upon "The Tale of Two Cities." This was supplemented with readings from the book. Next week the meeting will be with Miss Webster of Chester street.

ENJOYABLE MEETING.

Members and invited guests of the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union were given a rare treat Tuesday evening, when at the residence of one of their members, Mrs. George F. Lowell of Newtonville they listened to an able and well-chosen address on "Peace" by Mrs. Lowell, who being a member of the American Peace Society, and a delegate on several occasions to the various peace conferences, was especially well qualified to speak on the subject. The Misses Robbins of Newton Highlands gave several readings very acceptably, and the discussion and social hour following, were enjoyed by all. Combining as it does a deep philanthropic purpose with literary features, this organization is destined to become a real factor in the social life of Newton.

THE COMMON GIVEN FOR A PLAYGROUND

By the gift last Monday evening of the land on Elm, Webster streets and Oak avenue, known as "The Common," West Newton, the city comes into possession of a splendid piece of land for a public playground. The matter has been in mind for many years, but it was not until last year that active measures were taken to purchase. A committee of which Mr. George J. Barker was chairman was appointed, the residents of West Newton canvassed by postal cards as to their preferences in the site, and when an overwhelming majority favored "The Common" subscription lists were opened to purchase it. The price paid for the property is said to be $10,000 and the back taxes and the land is assessed at $16,000. The city was not asked to contribute and this is the first playground presented to the city as the entire gift of citizens.

MAN KILLED TO LOSE LAND

In a runaway accident shortly after 6 Saturday night Albert Hudson, 35 years old, living at Rosemary Hill, Needham, was severely injured by being thrown from an express wagon which he was driving through Jackson street, in the outskirts of Newton Centre. Becoming frightened, the horse ran away. Hudson was thrown off the seat with such force that he was knocked unconscious. A pedestrian found him lying at the roadside, and after wrapping him up in a blanket sent in a hurry call for an ambulance. Hudson was taken to Newton Hospital, where it was found that he was badly cut and bruised about the head. He died about a half hour after being taken to the hospital.

The General Court of 1910 has been petitioned by the trustees of Boston College and John G. Ramsbottom to annex a portion of this city to the city of Boston. The petition asks that the territory bounded by Beacon, Hammond, South streets and Commonwealth avenue be annexed to Boston, making the boundary line the southerly line of Beacon street and the northwesterly line of Commonwealth avenue, so that the care of both these streets shall be in Boston. The territory in question contains some four acres and is valued at $283,500, of which $73,000 is taxable, the remainder being used for educational purposes by Boston College, is exempt. The Commonwealth owns 1200 feet, valued at $2000, exempt; J. G. Ramsbottom 40,856 feet, valued at $25,000; Ernest R. Sharpe 18,649 feet, valued at $20,000, and the Schlesinger estate, 146,617 feet, unimproved, valued at $28,000. The tax income from the real estate the present year amounts to $1,328.60.

—Mrs. Robert A. Leeson gave the second of her receptions at her winter home on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, last Thursday, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

—Mr. Charles S. Capen is making extensive alterations and improvements to the Webster estate on Beacon street. Mr. Capen will occupy later with his family.

—Mr. Edward S. Kelley of Sumner street announces the engagement of his daughter, Elizabeth Munroe Kelley, to Mr. Raymond Symmes Fosgate of Shrewsbury, Mass.

—Rev. E. Raymond Chappell of New London, Conn., a graduate of the Newton Baptist Theological Institution, has received a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of East Brookfield.

Auburndale.

A Christmas vesper service will be held in the Congregational Church next Sunday evening at 7:30. The choir, assisted by a chorus of 20 voices, will render Brewer's cantata, "Holy Night."

—Cards are out for the marriage of Miss Leona M. Benner, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Benner, to Dr. H. V. Dunsnoor of Huntington avenue, Boston, the ceremony to take place Monday, Jan. 3, at the bride's home in Wapokoneta, O. Miss Benner is well known here, having been a popular member and president of last year's class at Lasell Seminary. The bridesmaids will be classmates of Miss Benner at Lasell.

REAL ESTATE

The large four-apartment brick house, 1285 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, belonging to E. Vinton Earle, has been sold through the office of John M. Brooks, Exchange building, to Charles F. Dow of Newton. The assessed value is $26,500, which includes the rating on 3484 square feet of land. Mr. Dow secured for investment at a price above the taxed value.

CITY HALL NOTES

The retiring Board of Aldermen will tender Mayor Hutchinson a complimentary dinner at the Brae Burn Country Club on Monday evening, Jan. 3.

The caucus of the incoming Board of Aldermen to nominate a president and vice-president will take place on Wednesday evening, Dec. 29.

City Forester Bucknam has a new automobile.

The registrars of voters recounted the votes cast for ward Alderman from Ward 2 on Friday evening, on petition of Kinsella and others. Both candidates, Mr. Higgins and Mr. Cannon, were present, with Alderman Doherty representing Mr. Cannon and Mr. E. P. Hatch representing Mr. Higgins. Mr. Cannon lost one vote and Mr. Higgins lost two votes, all in Precinct 1, and there was no change in Precinct 2, leaving Mr. Higgins' majority at 22 votes.

A petition has been filed at the State House that that portion of the city east of South street, north of Beacon street and south of Commonwealth avenue, be annexed to Boston. This petition is advocated by the trustees of Boston College, which is now located in the territory in question.

Citizens of West Newton have made a desirable precedent in the gift of the "Common" to the city as a playground, without asking any contribution towards the same from the city treasury. Parks and playgrounds hitherto given the city have always required municipal aid, some more and some less. West Newton, however, has raised over $10,000,
purchased the land and made a free
gift of the same for public purposes.
This enterprise has been thought of
for many years, but active steps were not taken in the matter until last year, when a committee of which Mr.
George J. Barker was chairman, began the collection of funds. The successful result is largely due to the heartily, personal work done by Mr.
Barker, who, though a resident of Waltham, had a deep interest in the movement from boyhood associations.
Let us hope that future playground movements may find someone like
Mr. Barker as the moving force.

I trust the Board of Aldermen will move slowly in the attempt to establish a board of survey in this city.
While theoretically, the movement looks feasible, it has always been opposed when suggested in the past,
and in actual operation may work a hardship on innocent and unfortunate land owners. The present method of laying out streets has worked in a most satisfactory manner for nearly 20 years and any attempt to increase the already severe conditions
should be carefully considered.

I cannot commend the judgment of Secretary of Commonwealth Oliver in directing the publication in a Boston paper of the petition to annex
a portion of this city to Boston. The statute reads that such petitions shall be published "in such newspaper or newspapers as the Secretary of the Commonwealth, having regard to the locality of the interests involved in such petition, shall direct." It would seem that Newton has some interest in a proposition which will cost it over $1300 a year in taxes.

A Merry Christmas to all readers of the GRAPHIC.

CLERGYMAN DEAD

Rev. William J. Hambleton, who
as a Methodist Episcopal clergyman preached 16 consecutive years in Massachusetts, died Tuesday at his home in West Newton, in his 81st year.

In February, 1908, Rev. Mr. Hambleton suffered a slight shock. He rallied and was in fairly good health until June 16 last, when he was afflicted with a more severe shock, the day before he was to go to New York to spend the summer with his brother.
He was born in Aurora, N. Y., Oct.
26, 1829. He came to Massachusetts when 19 years old and was graduated from Wilbraham academy and Newbury, Vt. seminary. He joined the New England conference April 5, 1856.

He had pastorates in Swampscott,
Lawrence, Salem, Danvers, Dorchester, Hudson, Newburyport and Oakdale previous to occupying his last pastorate in Hingham. In Dorchester he served as pastor of the society
now occupying the Baker memorial church at Uphams Corner.

In 1902 he came to this city and resided from active work. For a time he resided in Auburndale, but during the past few years he made his home with his only son, William G. Hambleton, at 75 Webster park.

He married Miss Salome Cook of Provincetown, Dec. 25, 1857. She died in 1905. Besides a son the only immediate relative surviving is a brother,
Henry H. Hambleton of Glenwood,
N. Y.

Clergymen from many sections of the Commonwealth were present at the funeral services held Thursday afternoon in the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, at Auburndale. The gathering also included representatives of several of the parishes over which Mr. Hambleton presided during his 46 years of active work.

Four clergymen participated in the services, which were in charge of Rev. C. F. Rice, D. D., superintendent of the Cambridge district. He delivered the opening remarks and pronounced the benediction. Bishop Willard E. Mallou of Auburndale
read the lessons and offered prayer,
while the pastor of the church, Rev.
Charles E. Spaulding, and Rev.
George S. Butters, D. D., of Newton, delivered eulogies, dwelling on the dead clergyman's long and useful life.
The Mendelssohn quartet sang "Nun-
ci My God, To Thee," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Passing Out of the Shadow."

The burial was in Newton Cemetery. The pallbearers included Rev.
George S. Chadbourn of Melrose,
Rev. Alonzo Sanderson of Lynn, Rev.
C. H. Hannaford of Barre, Rev. John
H. Mansfield of Winchester and Rev.
George W. Mansfield of Newton.

MOTHERS' REST

Plans for the Immigrant party at Bray Hall on Jan. 3, are progressing at a rapid pace. The boxes, to be obtained from Mrs. Crampton, find much favor, and the reserved seats are almost equally good. There will be national character sketches by some of the more gifted immigrants and the foreign dances will be well done. All those coming in costume are asked to send their names and characters to Mrs. S. A. Shannon, Mrs. H. R. Luther and Mrs. E. Ray
Speare. Tickets may be obtained from them or from any woman interested in the Mothers' Rest Association.

HIGHLAND GLEE CLUB

The Highland Glee Club will give its Fourth Concert at Bray's Hall, Wednesday evening, January 26th at eight o'clock. Since giving their last concert the membership has increased to forty-four and new members are being constantly added. The club will have the assistance of an orchestra of Symphony men and the soprano soloist will be Miss Josephine Knight of the Eliot church choir. The club will also be assisted by a baritone soloist, to be announced. The concert will be given under the auspices of the "Y. P. S. C. E." of the First Congregational church at Newton Centre and the proceeds above the expenses will be devoted to a charitable or worthy cause at the discretion of the Young People's Society. The concert will be under the direction of Edgar J. Smith of Newton Highlands who will have the assistance of Arthur M.
Curry as associate conductor of the orchestral numbers. It is expected that this will be one of the most brilliant social events of the winter, the program of which will be announced in detail later on.

BRAE BURN WINS

The Brae Burn Country Club's ice hockey team defeated Dartmouth, 4 to 1, on the Brae Burn rink last evening.

Footie, the former captain of Dart-mouth's squad, directed his team,
which was picked up at the last moment, and at no time did Dartmouth prove the formidable rival of Brae
Burn that it has in former years.

The Dartmouth players did considerable creditable passing, but the work of Brae, playing guard for Brae Burn, several times prevented the visiting players from scoring after rushing the puck half the length of the rink.

The work of the Brae Burn forwards was fast, in spite of the comparatively little practice the team has had. The rushing of Mackay brothers, Footie and Whittemore won the approval of the spectators.

POLICE NOTES

As a result of a raid on a "crap"
game in Nonantum, four young men were fined $5 each for gaming on the Lord's day and five were fined $3
each for being present.

Patrolman Condrin testified that he found a game in progress Sunday in the outer entrance to a mill on Chapel street. When he interrupted the game there were several persons rolling the "bones" and a considerable number were looking on. He got the names of most of the alleged offenders. Oliver Twist, James Costigan, Henry Marchant and Joseph Clancy were fined $5 each for gaming,
while Oscar Beauchamp, James Nally, Robert Atchison, Leo Keegan and Frank Shea were fined $3 each for being present.

Newtonville.

The Travellers' Club will meet
next Monday at the home of Mrs.
Herbert R. Gibbs on Judkins street.
The subject, "Egypt; Northern Africa," will be continued, Mrs. G. H.
Gibbs speaking on "Physical Features," and Mrs. A. D. Auryansen on "The Sahara." Mrs. G. W. Auryan-sen will give a reading, "Three Gases of the Desert."

THEATRES

Colonial Theatre—Interest in the forthcoming engagement of Margaret Anglin at the Colonial Theatre in Boston has grown considerably in the last few days and this is aided to a marked extent by the fact that so prominent a Boston lady as Mrs.
Margaret Deland is identified with the engagement as the authoress of the book from which the play has been taken. Miss Anglin, who has long been a prime favorite with Boston playgoers, has not been seen here
since she went to Australia a year and a half ago. As Helena, she is credited by the New York critics with giving the most finished and artistic performance of her career and it is evident that the role is well suited to her great capabilities. The engagement in Boston will be for two weeks
with four matinees on the two respective Wednesdays and Saturdays.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Hon. Chester B. Williams of Weymouth has been elected a County Commissioner, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel O. Upham.

WHITNEY—CHURCHILL

Miss Gertrude Holbrook Churchill,
daughter of the late George F.
Churchill, and Mr. William Alonzo Whitney of Lawrence were married at 5:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs.
Frank G. Westwood, Tremont street, in the presence of immediate friends and relatives.

The bride was graduated from Smith College in '99. She was several years secretary of the association of Boston Y. M. C. A. The groom is secretary and treasurer of Lawrence Co-operative Bank and is well known in that city.

The officiating clergyman was Rev.
Samuel C. Beane of Grafton, formerly of Lawrence. Miss Jessie E. Stearns of Boston was maid of honor, and the best man was Mr. George A. Whitney of Peabody, the groom's brother. The dressing was decorated with evergreen and holly. A reception followed. After a trip Mr. and Mrs.
Whitney will reside in Lawrence,
where they will be at home after
Feb. 1.

N. H. S.

William Clancy will captain the Newton High School team this winter and Dr. Brown will coach it. The prospects for a strong team are not so bright as a year ago, but Clancy hopes that many new stars will be developed.

Captain Mahoney of the '08 team has entered Brown and is one of the most promising candidates for the track team there. There are enough good shot-putters at Newton, but sprinters are scarce.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

JUDGE BISHOP HONORED

At a largely attended meeting of the Suffolk Bar, held at the Court House, Boston, last Saturday morning
resolutions were adopted and eulogistic speeches made in honor of the late Robert R. Bishop. The resolutions which had been prepared by a committee of the Bar Association were presented to the court and ordered engrossed upon the court records. Remarks were made by Chief Justice Alken, and Messrs H. M. Rogers and
P. B. Greenhalge. The resolutions were as follows:

"Robert Roberts Bishop was born in Medfield, Mass., Mar. 1, 1834, the son of Jonathan Parker and Elizabeth (Harding) Bishop, and died in Newton, Oct. 7, 1909, thus rounding out a life of a full seventy-five years. He was born at a fortunate time for the development of character. It was an era of small things, as is sometimes said; of restricted opportunity, perhaps; but it was also an era of plain living and of high thinking; of the training of the New England conscience; of the belief that character is destiny. The influx from other nations had hardly begun; luxury was not approved even if it were known;
it was a plain, God-fearing, somewhat rigid and exclusive New England community in which he was born to work out his destiny. His father was a lawyer who, as was common in his day, depended largely on his farm as a means of support, and young Robert helped upon the farm and was a farmer's son with all that that implies. He attended the district schools in Medfield till he was fifteen years of age; then was a year at Worcester Academy, and afterward worked his way through Phillips' Academy in Andover, where he was graduated with honors in 1854. He was prevented from entering Harvard, as he had intended, partly because his health had been impaired by overwork at Phillips' Academy and partly from his lack of means. Instead, he began the study of the law in Boston with Brooks and Ball, continuing with Pe-lig W. Chandler, and simultaneously followed the regular course at the Harvard Law School, from which he was graduated in 1857. While at the Law School he assisted Professor
Parsons in his work on contracts.

"At the beginning of his practice,
while in the office of Pelig W. Chandler, and later, of John Lowell, he was the law reporter of the Boston Advertiser. In 1861 he became associated with Thornton K. Lothrop, and the firm of Lothrop & Bishop continued
for many years, and it is in connection with this firm that he is best remembered by his contemporaries at the bar who survive him. In 1874 he was appointed one of the Water Commissioners of the city of Newton, and served for the next three years in that capacity, giving to his duties
there the same fidelity that marked his course elsewhere, and while in that position installing the present system of supplying water to the city of Newton. For more than twenty-two years he was a trustee of Phillips' Academy, resigning in 1903, and the last four years of his service he was president of the board of trustees.
In 1879 he received the honorary degree of master of arts from Dartmouth College. He was elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1874, and to the State Senate in 1879, and re-elected to the latter in 1880, 1881 and 1882, and acquired there a well-deserved reputation as a legislator and as an adviser upon legislative matters. During these last years he was the president of the Senate. His brief historical sketch of the Senate of Massachusetts still holds a place in all works
on our State institutions and government.

"In 1882 he fought the memorable campaign as candidate for Governor against General Butler, and was defeated without dishonor to himself.
In the spring of 1888 he was appointed a Judge of the Superior Court and continued in that office until his death. He opened a term of court in Boston in July last, but illness compelled him to suspend his duties
there and to go to his home in Newton, where he passed the last few weeks of his life, and died there in the midst of those nearest and dearest
to him.

"The life of Judge Bishop was full of service; of that kind of service that exalted a man; the impulse of that service was an educated conscience. From such a conscience as his only good could come.
"At the bar he was conspicuous for his ability, patient and exhaustive preparation, tireless energy and absolute fidelity. He presented his cases to the court and jury as a man with convictions, with a firm and abiding in his cause, earnest, honest and sure. To the full measure of his capacity, to the full value of his case, he assisted the court as one of its officers and never for a moment forgot that he was one of its officers.

"As a judge, he had the confidence of attorneys and of juries, in a high degree. On the bench he was patient, sympathetic, open minded, a searcher
after truth. His courteous disarmed aggression and misdirected zeal. He was impatient of subterfuge and disingenuousness and had fire enough and to spare to rebuke breaches of methods or manners. He invited confidence and trust, and through his sympathy reached the hearts of men.
The simple, unobtrusive fidelity of Judge Bishop's life, his loyalty to high ideals, his devotion to the best traditions of his profession entitle him to a high place among those who
by consecrated service have given enduring honor to the bench of Massachusetts.

NEW RECTOR

With the beginning of the new year
Rev. Francis B. White will become rector of St. Mary's (Episcopal) Church at Newton Lower Falls, and will reside on Washington street, Wellesley, where he will occupy the Valentine dwelling.

Mr. White was graduated from Cambridge Episcopal Theological School in 1895. He became curate of the Church of the Ascension at Fall River, where he remained until 1897. He then accepted an invitation to become rector of St. Luke's church in Fall River, where under his guidance a stone edifice was built. In 1901 he was made rector of St. Paul's Church in Brockton, where he remained seven years. Since that time he has served as minister in charge
at St. Peter's, Boston, at St. Paul's, Boston, at Christ Church in Ridgewood, N. J., and at St. James in New Bedford. He is active in temperance and Y. M. C. A. work. He is married and his family includes two sons, Edward, aged 11, and Francis, aged 9.

Going Into a Safer Business.

It was Cassidy's first morning as newspaper carrier. From side to side of the avenue he hurried, dropping the moist sheets in vestibules and running them in the space between the door and sill. Finally he came to a house that was separated from the sidewalk by an urn studded yard. Cassidy opened the iron gate and walked up the stone path. He knelt in the vestibule and started running the paper under the door. An upper window was raised, and a woman's voice called: "Is that you, Harry? You are awful late. I hear the milk carts rattling."

Cassidy thought it best to remain quiet. The voice continued: "You needn't think I'm coming down at such an hour! The idea of you, a married man, coming home at such a time! Lost your key, as usual? Well, catch this one."

A heavy piece of brass shot two stories. There was a heavy fall, and the vestibule resembled a press room.

Some one found Cassidy smoking his pipe in the "accident ward."

"Going back to the carrier route?" they asked.

"Niver once more," responded Cassidy. "O'm goin' back to wur-ruk in th' quarry. Thor's no fallin' knees thor, only dynamited rocks."—Chicago News.

As Expanded.

A diminutive specimen of juvenile femininity yelped Miss Muffet had placed herself in a sitting posture upon an article of household furniture ordinarily termed an ottoman or hassock, ministering to the gratification of her gustatory organs by ingurgitating the congealed portion of bovine lacteal fluid mingled with the watery serum of the same which remains after the congealed portion has been segregated and withdrawn.

Happening to glance downward, she observed that a specimen of the genus arachnida, class arachnida, remarkable for its ability to produce filaments of extraordinary tenacity from its own interior, had taken a position upon the ottoman or hassock in immediate proximity to her.

Which totally unexpected incident aroused her apprehension to such an extent that she immediately, not to say precipitately, arose from her sitting posture and departed from the locality, leaving the intruder in undisputed possession of the apartment.—Chicago Tribune.

An Easy Job.

In antebellum days Colonel Moore of Kentucky owned a large number of slaves. One day one of the field hands, named Jupe, was guilty of some negligence and was sent to the woods at once to cut down and split up a black gum tree, practically an impossible task. Jupe cut down the tree and labored hard to split the tough wood, but in vain. In the meantime a thunderstorm came up, and Jupe sought refuge under a brush heap. Directly the lightning struck a large poplar near by, splitting it into kindling wood. After the storm had passed Jupe crawled out from his place of security and after taking a careful look at the remains of the poplar tree, which were scattered all over the woods, said: "Mr. Lightning, I wish you had just tried yo' han' on dis black gum. Any blame fool can split a poplar!"—Cleveland Leader.

How Welshwomen Carry Their Babies.

The quality of Welsh wool in which Swansea women carry their babies attracts every one's notice when visiting that town for the first time. A big shawl over the right shoulder is drawn down to the left hip, where the two ends of the shawl are met and held together, forming a sort of pouch or pocket, in which the baby snuggles cozily and safely. Its weight is so supported by the hip and distributed by the shawl over the whole upper part of the body that there is no strain at all nor any tiring of the arms. This probably accounts for the upright carriage of the Welsh mother. Moreover, the method is comfortable for the child and so safe that in Swansea small boys swathed in their mothers' shawls are seen carrying the family's latest baby.—London Chronicle.

Dear Swift's Complaint.

It is no new thing, this complaint which one hears of the high cost of living. Writing to Stella from London in the year 1710, Dean Swift remarks: "I lodge in Bury street, St. James, where I removed a week ago. I have the first floor, the dining room and bedchamber at 8 shillings a week; playday deep, but I spend nothing for eating, never go to a tavern and very seldom in a coach, yet, after all, it will be expensive."

Know of One.

Traveler delayed in Drenthurst by washout—Are there any objects of curiosity in this village? Uncle Welby Gosh—Well, I reckon I've got as much curiosity as any object you'll find. Where are you going, mister, an' what do you folter for a livin'?"—Chicago Tribune.

Got the Time.

A man was so cross eyed that he put his hand into another man's pocket and abstracted therefrom a watch. He wanted to learn the time. The judge told him it would be three years.

A Nuisance.

Father—What do you mean, my son, by saying that your teacher is a nuisance? Theobald—Well, that's what you call me when I ask questions, an' teacher does nothin' else.

Lofty Expectations.

"Is your husband all you thought he was?" "Just about. But he doesn't come close to being all he thought he was."

FOR CHRISTMAS, A REAL LIVE BABY?

I'm the real thing as far as babies go. Six months old; soft, brown hair that is sure to grow redder; large, bright eyes that will grow larger and brighter; a sturdy body that bids fair to make a large, well proportioned man. I'm growing rapidly all the time. I know that isn't much for what is a strong, happy, healthy boy for it isn't to grow. I'm so strong, healthy and happy that I simply can't help growing.

Mr. Newton Santa Claus, don't you think that in your wanderings you could find a stocking big enough to hold me and couldn't you somehow fix it so that I when discovered early Christmas morning would be welcomed as are other little children when they come into a family? I do wish you would try. Just think how much better present I would make than if you left in the stocking a big Christmas doll? Dolls are no good anyway. They are only wooden—their sewed on arms and legs are always pulling off—how they do look when the red gets rubbed off their cheeks, lose their hair or get their eyes punched out? No, dear Santa Claus, don't mix me up with any such trash as that; I tell you again, I'm the real thing.

"I'm just a baby angel
And as lonely as can be;
I'm waiting for somebody
To come and ask for me."
Note—the above is written in the hope that a good home may be found for this little boy. All in all the best child that I have ever known or seen for adoption. If interested drop me a line.
FRED M. LOWE,
City Physician.

MRS. EDDY ON CHRISTMAS

Certain occasions, considered collectively, individually and observed properly, tend to give the activity of man infinite scope; but mere merry-making or needless gift-giving is not that wherein human capacities find the most appropriate and proper exercise. Christmas respects the Christ too much to submerge itself in merely temporary means and ends. It represents the eternal informing Soul recognized only in harmony, in the beauty and bounty of life everlasting—the truth that is Life, the Life that heals and saves mankind. An eternal Christmas would make matter an alien save as phenomenon, and matter would reverentially withdraw itself before Mind. The despotism of material sense, or the flesh, would flee before such reality to make room for substance, and the shadow of frivolity and inaccuracy of material sense would disappear.

Christmas, in Christian Science, stands for the real, the absolute and eternal—the things of Spirit, not matter. Science is divine; it hath no partnership with human means and ends, no half-way stations, nothing conditional or material belongs to it. Human reason and philosophy may pursue paths devious, the line of liquids, the lure of gold, the doubtful sense that falls short of substance—the things hoped for and evidence unseen.

The basis of Christmas is the Rock, Christ Jesus; its fruits, inspiration and spiritual understanding of joy and rejoicing; not because of tradition, usage or corporeal pleasures, but because of fundamental and demonstrable truth, the heaven within us. It is love loving its enemies, returning good for evil, that suffereth long and is kind. It elevates mediocrity to Mind, it casts out evil, heals the sick, raises the dormant faculties, appeals to all conditions, and supplies every need of man. It leaves hygiene, medicine, ethics, and religion to God and His Christ, to that which is the Way, in word and in deed—the Way, the Truth and the Life.

Hitherto there is but one Christ Jesus on record. Christ is incorporeal. Neither the you nor the I in the flesh can be or is Christ. (Christian Science Sentinel.)

SWIFT'S PREMIUM CALENDAR
FOR 1910

Swift's Premium Calendar for 1910 consists of four famous, old-time national songs: America; Home, Sweet Home; Old Folks at Home, and The Old Oaken Bucket.

Each of the four large sheets 9 1/2 inches by 15 inches beautifully illustrates in color the homes and childhood scenes of the authors, also giving portrait, autograph and biography of the author, the history of the song, words of the song, and on the reverse side a full piano music score with the words.

The first subject is the quaint old silvery gray weather beaten cottage at East Hampton, N. Y., the boyhood home of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," together with an autographed portrait, his graphical description of the author's travels and life of the song.

The next subject, Home of Samuel Francis Smith, Newton, Mass., author of "America," shows in beautiful colors the home of this famous author. Also an autographed portrait of him and a reproduction of the old Park Street Church, Boston, where the song was first sung in public, is shown.

The third subject is a colored reproduction of the Foster Homestead, near Pittsburg, Penn., birthplace of Stephen Collins Foster, author of "Old Folks at Home," and many other well known songs. An autographed portrait of him, and Christy, the famous minstrel who first sang "Old Folks at Home," are also shown. A colored allegorical illustration "The Moss-Covered Bucket" taken from Samuel Woodworth's "The Old Oaken Bucket," complete this interesting series of American songs.

There is no one thing more needful for the comfort of a home than good ventilation. The GEM Ventilators, advertised on another page, are a common-sense device for good ventilation without any direct draught. They are sold by C. H. Campbell of Newton and H. W. Orr Company of Newtonville.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

A Merry Christmas to all! Club activities are reduced to a minimum during the holidays and attention is turned to the children and to renewing old and cementing new friendships through the exchange of remembrances and greetings. It is to be hoped that the element of barter evident at times in the Christmas giving is on the wane and that the real spirit of Christmas is uppermost,—the spirit that gives for the real pleasure of giving, seeking no return, that delights to remember those who are held dear and to bring cheer to some lonely soul. Many friends there are at a distance, who in the pressure of our modern life are often neglected, not from any lessening of friendship, but from actual inability to meet all demands and the ones close at hand press hardest. What a joy it is to remember these old friends and to be remembered by them, be it merely an exchange of greetings! Many a friendship would slumber and sleep and even fade from existence were it not for the blessing of the Christmas season with its opportunity and incentive for the renewal of old ties. The Club Editor would not seem to imply that one's own friends alone should be remembered, but friends in the broadest sense of the term, the poor, the lonely, the outcast, and especially the children, that their outlook on life may be bright and joyous. May it be that not one single "Tiny Tim" goes unremembered this year.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club announces the formation of a cooking class conducted by Miss Margaret Howard to be held on successive Saturday mornings at the Technical High School at Newtonville beginning on January 8th. The course includes lessons on soups, salads, sandwiches, meat substitutes, simple desserts, breakfast dainties, vegetables, cakes, candies, lesson with chafing dish, luncheon for six at a cost of $1.50 and an economical dinner, eight courses for $3.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning Mrs. Blanche E. Hyde of the Household Economics department of the Technical High School will speak on "The Choice of Food." Guests may be invited.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild announces a course of three lectures on alternate Wednesdays at 10.30 A. M. by Prof. W. Richard Burton of the Literature department of the University of Minnesota, beginning next week, December 29, at the Central Congregational church. The course is free to Guild members and is open to other club women of Newton on payment of a small fee for each lecture. The subject for the first is "Rudyard Kipling."

The Current Events Class will meet on Thursday, December 30th, at eleven o'clock at the New Church parlors.

The members of the Newton Highlands Monday Club will meet at Mrs. George G. Philp's at two o'clock on Tuesday to make their annual visit to the Newton City Home.

On Monday afternoon, December 20, the Monday Club of Newton Highlands continued its study of Dickens with readings from several of the novels. This was followed by a paper upon "The Children of Dickens." The scenes between Sairey Gamp and Betsey Prig were presented in charmingly realistic fashion by two of the members as the closing part of the program. Next week the club meets at Odd Fellows Hall.

"Forefathers' Day" was observed by the Newtonville Woman's Guild at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon. It was a home talent day with Mrs. G. W. Auryansen as chairman, the general subject being "What we got from the Mayflower." The various ideals of the Pilgrims and how far we have realized, improved upon or fallen short of them were discussed by members of the Guild. Among those taking part were: Mrs. Mary R. Martin, Mrs. G. H. Wilkins, Mrs. W. C. Richardson, Mrs. D. K. Bartlett and Miss Julia Butler. The social committee, Mrs. W. P. Upham, chairman, in the kerchief and cap of our foremothers served an old fashioned supper from tables adorned with apples, quaint old china and candlesticks.

AMONG WOMEN

The sum of $50 was cleared at the recent 25-cent sale held by the West Newton Woman's Educational Club.

N. H. S.

Newton high school's hockey team defeated Wellesley high 9 to 3, Tuesday afternoon on the Brae-Burn rink. By superior team work Newton ran up 7 points in the first half to 2 made by its opponents. Several substitute players went in for Newton in the second period, and Wellesley was enabled to play a better defensive game. The passing and caging of Hopkins and Wood of Newton and the playing of Webster of Wellesley were featured.

Newton high's basketball team won from Allen School, 32 to 8, in the latter's gymnasium at West Newton, Monday afternoon.

The team work of Newton High was particularly creditable, and the work of Cady and Osborne in getting baskets from difficult angles was a feature. Allen School played a good defensive game, and made all but two of its points by accurate basket shooting on free tries.

Y. M. C. A.

With both sides playing a fast game throughout, Newton defeated Somerville, 27 to 12, in the Y. M. C. A. series in the association gymnasium Wednesday.

Although the game was warmly contested it was characterized by the cleanest basketball playing seen here this season. In the latter part of the second period the fast work tired the Somerville players somewhat and enabled Newton to run up a formidable score.

During a greater part of the first period Somerville led, but the half ended with a score of 13 to 9 in Newton's favor. Newton was particularly fast in its team work in the second half.

The playing of Duggan and Wilson was a feature of Somerville's work. Of the Newton players the work of Jacobs, Milley and Barrows was particularly creditable, while Bowden was especially effective in blocking in the second period.

By scoring a basket in the last few moments of play, Somerville's second team won from Newton's second team, 17 to 16, in a preliminary game. Moore and Purdy did excellent work for Somerville, while Blackett got nearly every goal for which he shot on free tries. Lucas and Newcomb played well for Newton.

JUST A REMINDER

That this is a good time to, once more, extend the glad hand, with something in it, to our postmen and newsmen. Let us show them that we are not unmindful of their labors in our behalf. APPRECIATION.

In the league bowling tournament Wednesday evening Hunnewell won three games from Neighborhood Club at West Newton.

The prize for the ladies' bowling Tuesday evening was won by Miss Winnie Kimball.

W. H. Barker and J. H. Aubin won the bowling roll-off for November, the match being rolled Saturday night.

The special prizes last Saturday night at bowling were won by A. J. Wellington, single string, and O. W. Holmes, three string.

Special prizes will be offered for bowling on Christmas Day and the club will keep open house.

The New Year's party will be held next Friday night, in charge of Mr. R. G. Howard. An effort will be made to reserve this dance for club members exclusively.

On Saturday night five tables were in play at whist, with these scores: Usher and Jos. Smith..... 72 Snyder and Buffum..... 72 Brinkner and J. Simpson..... 66 Tolman and Edmunds..... 61 Sawyer and Marshall..... 57 Bates and Estabrooks..... 53 C. C. Smith and Bonney..... 53 Glenison and Eustis..... 45 Brown and Walt..... 44 Stanley and Nash..... 41

Fourteen tables were in play at the ladies' and gentlemen's bridge whist Tuesday evening, in charge of Mrs. J. Edward Mullen. The prizes were won by Mrs. G. Fred Simpson, Mrs. Howard Norton, Mrs. H. H. Kendall, Mrs. H. L. Dexter and Mrs. A. C. Cummings.

The calendar for January, just issued, includes a children's party on New Year's afternoon, a musical program on Neighborhood night, Jan. 4, ladies' bridge matinee on Jan. 11, gentlemen's bridge, Tuesday, Jan. 18, and entertainment of vocal and instrumental music, with a humorous, on Jan. 19, and ladies' and gentlemen's bridge on Wednesday, Jan. 25.

SQUASH TENNIS

Newton Centre took the lead in the Massachusetts Squash Racquet Association tournament Saturday by winning three out of four matches from the Tennis and Racquet Club in the latter's courts. Uphill playing by Allen Hubbard of the Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club in the final match of the series with J. H. Parker prevented the Tennis and Racquet Club from getting an even break. Parker won the first game, 18-15, and his opponent 12-0. In the second, and yet lost the match. The following was the result of the matches played at the Tennis and Racquet Club:

Clubs	Won	Lost

THEATRES

Castle Square Theatre—To say that "1915" is an immediate and Square is to underestimate the truth, overreaching success at the Castle On Monday it will begin the first full week of a run that will bring merriment and joy to every Bostonian. In writing "1915" Theodore Friebeus has outdone himself. He has invented a plot and dialogue that is overflowing with humor, and in preparing the piece for the stage Mr. Craig has added everything that is useful in the way of elaborate and brilliant scenery. It abounds in local scenes, local humor, local characters and local bits, and it contains a dozen novelties that have never before been seen on the stage. There are no less than 75 people in the cast, and with Mary Young, Donald Meek, George Hassell, Bert Young, Wilfred Young, Mabel Colson, Gertrude Hinely and Mr. Friebeus himself at their head, there are all a part of a novel and an enjoyable entertainment.

UNIQUE CALENDAR

The unique calendar issued each year by Jones, McDufee & Stratton Company has just been received for 1910. It bears a picture of the Mayflower entering Provincetown harbor, 1620, on one side of a crockery plate, and the usual monthly calendar on the other.

If you have let some of your Christmas purchases wait "till the last minute" come to our Newton Centre shop.

We can almost guarantee that you will find something unexpectedly desirable that would not have occurred to you.

Why not plan to make gifts of home furnishings that will not only delight the receiver, but be of real value and permanence?

We know we can suit your purse: we guarantee our goods,—all of them.

Knew It Was a Canal.

Some of these youngsters who are studying physiology have as hard a time as their parents figuring out the terms used in that profoundly interesting subject. One little girl, according to her mentor, was asked the other day to name the three openings into the throat. For the benefit of the reader who may not have studied his physiology recently it may be stated that the openings are the epiglottis, the esophagus and the alimentary canal.

The little girl had tried awfully hard to remember those names because she had a hunch that the teacher would ask her to give them. She started bravely.

"The epiglottis," she began and hesitated.

"Right you are," encouraged the teacher. "What then?"

"The—um—ah—sarcophagus?" she inquired a little dubiously.

"You mean esophagus, my dear," suggested the teacher. "And the third?"

"The Erie canal!" announced the little girl confidently and triumphantly.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Bucket Shop.

"Bucket shops"—a name now used to denote small "outside" stockbrokers or financiers not in membership with the Stock Exchange—were so called because when they first started in Chicago the only commodity dealt in by small speculators to any extent was wheat. The legitimate dealers would not handle an order for less than 5,000 bushels, and then a lot of places sprung up where men of limited capital could speculate with very small sums, and these men were spoken of contemptuously as buying and selling wheat by the bucketful; hence shops where a small business was conducted in grain on a margin came to be known as bucket shops. The term was finally extended to cover all brokerage offices where small lots of other grain or stock were bought and sold, and it was applied particularly to those places where both seller and buyer did not more than "gamble" on the rise and fall of stocks.

Bows on Men's Hats.

Why is it that a man's hat has a band, and why is it this band has a bow invariably on the left side?

The answer is that there was a time when a piece of cloth adjusted to the head and tied with a band of other material served for a headpiece. The reason the bow was always placed on the left side had its origin in the fact that in wielding a sword—an accomplishment possessed by nearly every one of consequence at one period of the world's history—the bow or rosette if placed on the right side would have been in the way. Its present day utility is that it keeps most men from wearing their hats blind side before, and, although with most hats that would not matter, with most heads it does.—Chicago Record-Herald.

On the Moon.

The question "Could a man live on the moon?" has been put to an eminent astronomer, who replied: "I am afraid not. A man transplanted to the moon would find himself the lone inhabitant of a perfectly lifeless orb in which eternal silence reigned. He would have to manage without air, water or fire. He would not need to put windows in his house, for there is no wind, no rain, no dust, upon the moon. It has been truly and practically observed that the moon is apparently abandoned to death, nourishing no inhabitants, producing nothing resembling trees, flowers or beautiful things of any kind—useless, in short, except as a mass of extinct volcanic rubbish, which drags the sea into tides and reflects the sunbeams in moonlight."

The Dean's Retort.

One Sunday morning at Causton church Dean Hole noticed a tipsy man in the congregation. He bore his presence until it was no longer possible and then came to a halt with the question, "Are you fit to remain in God's house?"

The man got up unsteadily and was helped to the door.

"James," said Hole after the service was over, "what did you do with him?"

The useful parishioner replied, "I put him on a tombstone, sir."

The indignant vicar's retort was, "Couldn't you have put him under it?"—London Mail.

Names in Politics.

"I want to make a name for myself in politics," said the ambitious youth. "Well," answered Senator Sorghum, "it's liable to be a long and difficult enterprise. You'll probably have to put in a considerable share of your time allowing your enemies to call you any names they happen to think of."—Washington Star.

His Claim to Fame.

"Who was this fellow Pepsy, and what is his claim to fame?" "His claim to fame is well founded, my friend. He's the man who kept a diary for more than a year!"—Kansas City Journal.

Cause For Surprise.

Belle—Mr. Higgins started to kiss me, last night.
Beulah—And weren't you surprised?
"I should say I was. He didn't do it."—Youkers Statesman.

His Preparation.

"Listen to this charming bit of obituary sentiment," said a cynical bachelor: "He had been married forty years and was prepared to die."—Ladies' Home Journal.

POLICE COURT OF NEWTON.

H. W. Orr Company vs. Fred J. Read.

Petition to enforce lien.

Respectfully represents H. W. Orr, dog's business under the name and style of H. W. Orr Company, of Newton in the County of Middlesex, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, with- in the district of said County, who has a lien and a proper charge for money due him on account of work and labor, care and diligence, and money expended on or about the personal property described in the schedule hereto annexed, marked "A," under a contract with Fred J. Read, whose usual place of abode is now unknown and who is the owner of said property; that said property is now and has been since the first day of October, 1908, in the possession of the petitioner.

And your petitioner further says that the amount due under said contract on the first day of October, 1908, was $4.00, and according to the account hereto annexed, marked "B," that the whole of said amount has been due and unpaid for 40 days, and that the filing of this petition and that the storage which has accrued since the said first day of October, 1908, is also due and unpaid.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays that the lien which he has upon said property may be enforced and order be made directing said property to be sold to satisfy said lien, together with charges for storage from October first, 1908, to the date of sale, and all other expenses in the premises.

On the foregoing Petition, it is ordered that the Petitioner give notice to the said Fred J. Read, whose usual place of abode is unknown, and any owner unknown, to appear before said Court, on the eighth day of January, 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, by publishing an attested copy of said petition and this order of Court in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in said Newton, once a week for three successive weeks, the last publication to be seven days at least before said January eighth; that they the said Fred J. Read and any unknown owner may then and there appear and show cause why the prayer of said Petitioner should not be granted.

By the Court,

FRANCIS W. SPRAGUE, 2d, Clerk.

Notice is hereby given, that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of John M. Gould, late of Newton, in the County of Middlesex, deceased, testate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. The Mullet in Gulf Waters.

The mullet has always attracted a goodly share of attention. His fame is not circumscribed by the boundaries of the gulf. Whether the visitor be from the Atlantic or the Pacific coast or from the shores of the Mediterranean or the Baltic, he wants to see, examine and feast on the mullet.

He is the best known fish that swims. Some have a prejudice against him; but, like all feelings of this nature, it rests on an unsubstantial foundation. It cannot bear investigation, for the mullet plays a greater part in appeasing the craving for sea foods than any fish that inhabits the waters of the gulf. He is here in summer and winter. In fall and in spring. When the fisherman contemplates his plight, when luck is against him and a feeling of depression creeps over him, the mullet, always ready to give him a helping hand, rushes into his seine and contributes to his fortune and to the gastronomic pleasure of the thousands of people to whom they are shipped. He is a regular standby. In prosperity and in adversity he is always here in abundance.—Pascagoula Chronicle.

Helping Him Out.

He was well groomed, sober, evidently intelligent, but he looked worried as he approached a policeman on Broadway, near Long Acre square.

"Officer, I know my name and all that sort of thing," said he, "but I don't know where I live. What'll I do about it?"

"Advertise," said the bluecoat with a stony stare. "What are you giving me?"

"Honest," continued the worried one, "I'm a stranger in New York. Got here this morning. Had the address of a boarding house on a slip of paper a friend gave me. Went there, engaged board, left my trunk and then went out on business. Now I've lost the slip of paper somehow, and I've forgotten the street and number. What'll I do?"

"Advertise," repeated the bluecoat, but less bluntly. "Then go to a hotel and wait for an answer. Another way is to write to the friend who gave you the address."

"Thank you," said the lost one gratefully.—New York Globe.

Life's Day.

The time that has elapsed since the first appearance of life on earth has been variously estimated at 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 years. To tax our powers of comprehension as little as possible Dr. E. Schmidt of Jena has taken the shortest estimate and has tried to make understandable the five great evolutionary periods through which life has passed by comparing them with a day of twenty-four hours. This is the result: The archeozoic period (52,000,000 years) is represented by 12 hours 30 minutes; paleozoic (34,000,000 years, 8 hours 7 minutes; mesozoic (11,000,000 years, 2 hours 38 minutes; cenozoic (3,000,000 years, 43 minutes; anthropozoic (100,000 years, 2 minutes. If the last period, the age of man, be compared in its subdivisions by the same scale it is found that the "historic" portion covers only 5 seconds, and 2 seconds are sufficient for the Christian era. It seems incredible that this does not exaggerate the time relations of our written records with the records of the rocks.

An East Indian Crime.

The accidental reader who shrugs his shoulders deploringly over the evils of Indian caste has little conception of what suffering the custom involves. Its tragedies extend even to the humble, commonplace matters of everyday life. A little incident witnessed by Prince Buljar Karageorgievitch and chronicled in his "Enchanted India" needs no comment.

Stones and flying sticks were thrown at a little pariah girl whose shadow as she passed defiled the food of a Brahman.

He merely threw away the rice, which the dogs soon finished. But the bystanders who witnessed the girl's insolence in going so near a holy man—she, so base and unworthy—flew at the unhappy creature, who ran away screaming and dropping the load of wood she was carrying on her back.

Meat on a Spit.

It was the custom in medieval times to serve roast meat on a spit and to pass it round the table for each guest to cut off what he liked. In France one still finds chicken livers and bacon served on small spits.

It is probable that many people continued to prefer fingers to table utensils even after these were perfected and in general use, for knives were certainly invented at the period when Charles XII. chose to butter his bread with his royal thumb.

Wanted One Saved.

"My task in life," said the minister complacently, "consists in saving young men."

"Ah," replied the maiden, with a soulful longing, "save a good one for me, won't you?"

His Big Hit.

"Jones made an awful big hit at the banquet the other night."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; he was called on for a speech and refused."—Detroit Free Press.

Happy Thought!

Coloring Billiard Balls Red.

It often happens that red billiard balls more or less completely lose their color and then present a disagreeable appearance. But nothing is easier than to restore their original color. To do this dissolve some dried sorrel, after having pounded and sifted it to assure solution, in a small quantity of water placed in a porcelain capsule large enough to take a billiard ball. Heat this liquid till it is tepid only and add as a mordant about ten drops of sulphuric acid. Put the ball to be colored in the capsule and leave it there about three quarters of an hour on the corner of a stove, the temperature not being allowed to exceed from 40 degrees to 50 degrees C. At the end of that time take it away from the fire and let it cool.

The operation is complete in from two to three hours. Care must be taken to turn the billiard ball from time to time, so that it may be colored all over, for the coloring matter is deposited, and the part of the ball at the bottom would be too deeply colored.

When the ball is withdrawn from the liquid it only requires wiping and then rubbing strongly with a wooden rag to make it brilliant again. It may be further polished by means of chamols leather impregnated with coaltar.—Vulgarisation Scientifique.

Bread and Cloves.

"Did you ever notice that the man who brings bread to this place always wears heavy gloves?" asked the regular boarder at the bakery in addressing his guest.

"No; I don't get here often enough to notice it," answered his friend.

"Well, you see him now. He always wears gloves, especially in handling rye bread."

"Yes?"

"It's a fact. Maybe you would not believe me if I told you that he is more apt to get his hands torn and cut than I am working at machinery all day."

"Really?"

"I never have learned the real cause, but the bread seems to have rough edges which scratch and cut the hands. Of course one or two leaves would not have any bad effect, but hundreds of loaves a day passing through a man's hands seem almost as dangerous as sandpapered brick would be."—St. Joseph Gazette.

The Small Boy's Revenge.

A family whose means were limited was expecting company for dinner, and the thoughtful mother instructed her small son how to behave at the table and also told him there was one thing on the table he was not to ask for.

The appointed time came, and things looked very tempting, especially to the small boy, who suddenly said, "Say, ma, I want some of that," pointing to a plate of cheese.

The mother cast reproving glances upon him, but the child continued, "You going to give me some of that?" The mother again tried to attract the boy's attention to his error by stepping upon his toes, but it was of no use, for he continued, "Give me some of that or I'll tell." Beginning to count, he said: "One, you going to give me some? Two, you going to give me some? Three, my pants are made of the old window shades."

Baked Men.

Workers in porcelain factories are literally baked, but by some miracle they remain sufficiently underdone to live. At least if they are not quite baked they endure a stronger heat than that which browns the Sunday steaks. The furnaces wherein porcelain is finished are kept at the fiercest heat used in any industry. A chain of workmen, their heads and bodies swathed in fireproof garments, take the finished pieces from the fire one at a time and pass them to the cooling room. The man at the head of the chain—he who stands nearest the furnace—can only work in five minute shifts. In his intervals of rest he lies on a mattress drinking glass after glass of ice water from the hands of a small boy. At lunchtime all about the chain of men steaks grill.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Why Joyner Left Home.

"Are you ready to receive the obligations?" asked the most upright supreme locus pocus of the Order of Foot Owls.

"I am," said the candidate firmly.

"Then take a sip of this prussic acid, place your right hand in this pot of boiling lead, rest your left hand upon this revolving buzzsaw, close your eyes and repeat after me."

Early next morning shreds of Joyner's clothing were found upon the bushes and trees all along the road to Potsville, thirty miles distant, and at Scabtown, sixty miles away. He was reported still headed west.—Judge's Library.

Easy Method.

"Henry," said Mrs. Gloomip at dinner, looking down at her watch, but speaking to Mr. Gloomip on the other side of the table, "my watch hasn't started in a week."

"Remarkable!" said Mr. Gloomip. "How did you get it to vary so little?"

"I broke the mainspring."

Tanning.

Johnny—Don't they use bark to tan shoes with, pa? Father—Yes, my son, but if you ask any more questions this evening you'll find that a slipper does just as well.

A Mean Comment.

The Man—She looks nice enough to eat. The Woman—M-yes; plain food seems to appeal to some people.—London Illustrated Bits.

NEW VICE PRESIDENT

At a special meeting of the directors of the Newtonville Trust Company held Monday, Mr. Samuel W. French, who has held the position of treasurer since the organization of the company in 1896, tendered his resignation, as he wished to be relieved from the more active work of the company. Mr. Frank L. Richardson was chosen treasurer, and Mr. French elected a vice-president in Mr. Richardson's place and was also chosen a member of the board of directors, so that he is still identified with the affairs of the company. Mr. Richardson, the new treasurer, is also treasurer of the Newton Trust Company and the executive officers of the Newtonville Trust and of the Newton Trust companies are now identical. Hon. George Hutchinson, Mayor of the city, was added to the board of directors, which includes many of the most representative men of Newton.

THE WONDER OF HIS GRACIOUS WORDS

By Rev. J. Edgar Park, Pastor of Second Congregational Church, West Newton

This is an exposition of the Sermon on the Mount. No one can have read the author's "Keen Joy of Living," or his introduction to the "Sermon on the Mount," in our illuminated edition of this wonderful passage, without desiring to read this larger work, written in the same brilliant and incisive style. It will be especially welcome to the teachers of the international Sunday school lessons desiring something fresh and vigorous for the lessons early in the coming year. Mr. Park has the power of artistic presentation to a marked degree. He can not only paint a picture of the Palestinian life of so long ago, in colors as fresh and glowing as those of Sorolla, but against the background so skillfully depicted he makes his characters stand out as living personalities. His strongest gifts of insight and imagination, however, are primarily directed toward making the figure of the great Teacher real and vital. (Pilgrim Press, Boston. Price $1.00 net.)

LODGES

Auburndale Lodge, A. O. U. W., has elected the following officers to serve the coming year: M. W., William Francis; F., Adelbert A. Foster; O., P. A. McVicar; R., George H. Bourne; R., E. A. Walker; F., W. F. Hadlock; G., George W. Simpson; J. W., M. Maloney; O. W., Thomas Gleason; representative to the Grand Lodge, P. A. McVicar; alternate, M. J. Hurley.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION

Mayor Hutchinson will give a New Year's reception to Mayor-elect Hatfield at City Hall, West Newton, on Saturday, Jan. 1, from 4 to 6 o'clock, to which all citizens of Newton are invited. In the receiving line with the Mayor and Mayor-elect will be several of the ex-Mayors. Mayor Hutchinson desires a large turn-out to meet the Mayor-elect and everyone will be welcomed.

The Methodist Church will have its Christmas tree this evening at 7 o'clock, to which all the parish and friends are invited. Next Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Thrasher will preach on "The Wonderful Story." On Sunday evening there will be a Christmas concert.

EVENING HOCKEY.

Playing under brilliant electric lights, Brae-Burn county club's team was defeated in its opening game by the Harvard hockey team, 7 to 1, on the Brae-Burn rink Tuesday evening. Within a few moments after the referee tossed the puck onto the ice, Foote of Brae-Burn caged it. Although Brae-Burn played a good defensive game throughout, lack of practice handicapped the players and despite frequent rushes the home team was unable to score again. The Harvard players gave a creditable exhibition of team work, and Hicks shot several goals after hard play. The work of both goalkeepers, Smart and Bray, was creditable.

FINE SKATING

—As a forerunner of the round of winter sports that will begin in this city within a few weeks, the first good skating of the winter was enjoyed Sunday by many persons in several parts of the city.

The private pond at Brae Burn Country Club provided the best skating surface that could be found in Newton. A considerable part of Hammond's pond at Chestnut Hill, parts of Crystal Lake at Newton Centre and the coves of Charles River were also in good condition and attracted many young people.

Throughout the afternoon and during the early evening there were many skaters at Brae Burn. Here some of the members enjoyed hockey practice and curling for the first time this winter. It was announced that within a short time the club's hockey team will begin to play its schedule, as it is expected that the hockey enclosure will now remain in suitable condition to play the remainder of the winter.

Included in the gathering of skaters at Hammond's pond were many persons living in the south side of this city, in Brookline and from other places. Crystal Lake attracted a considerable number of persons living in Newton Centre and Newton Highlands. Auburndale skaters sought the Charles River and in some parts of the stream they found the skating conditions good.

CORRESPONDENCE.

It is beyond question that the wanton destruction of bird life is responsible for "the plague of gypsy moth, brown moth" and the rest of it. Birds are so created that they need, and can consume, countless insects and worms. They are our best, and indeed only adequate protection from everything that flies and crawls. But along comes man, with guns, poison, snares and traps, equipped to change the order of the universe, give points to the Almighty and rectify His mistakes. Horses should have been born without tails, many species of dogs minus both tail and ears; anything is fair game to chop in pieces alive, to discover the internal economy; and as for the poor little birds, they have no right or quarter anywhere. What matters it that they are innocent, that they are beautiful, that their song is sweet and inspiring? Women have with the coarsest taste, demanded them for "trimming," as they call it. They are slain by thousands, by millions, and nestlings left to starve, for what? To pamper the insufferable vanity and conceit of such women.

There is nothing in the world more beautiful than a living bird. There is nothing more hideous than a dead bird on a hat. Naturalists have said—and it seems with good reason—that if we were wholly deprived of the birds, human life could not continue.

Now, after so much mischief has been done, and as a natural consequence, our homes and gardens are infested, instead of trying in every possible way to protect and win again the birds—the only remedy, as they surely are—it is proposed to spray the trees with poison and so increase our trouble!

Aside from the inhumanity, the cruelty of it, think of the loss in bird life!

But it is inhuman, it is cruel beyond expression. The boards of "warning" are about as much account as the trumpets of wrath blown at revival meetings. A man may not let his horse stop and browse by the roadside, but he probably wouldn't anyway. Dogs and cats, as we know, are liable to eat grass anywhere they may happen to be. Hens are in danger. And the birds are sure to be poisoned.

Every consideration of mercy, and even of interest, should appeal to the citizens of Newton to prevent this wholesale destruction.

MRS. MARY JOHNSON.

Auburndale, Dec. 12, 1909.

Among the many successful graduates of the Faelton Planoforte School, none is more pleasantly situated than Esther M. Whitledge of the class of 1909, who received the appointment of musical instructor at the Marlborough School, one of the most distinguished institutions in Los Angeles, Cal. Miss Whitledge has been very cordially received in the best musical circles in Los Angeles, and as the school has both a preparatory and an advanced department, her work is exceptionally interesting and diversified.

NEWTON CATHOLIC CLUB

Sam Langford and George Byers, the well-known middleweight boxers, were guests of Newton Catholic Club at an entertainment for members Friday evening in the clubhouse at West Newton.

There were about 200 present and an attractive program was conducted.

Langford and Byers each gave short addresses on the "manly art" that held the close attention of the audience. The program included piano selections by several members, buck and wing dancing by John Foley and Scotch character songs by John Flanagan of Charlestown.

The announcement was made that the first annual banquet of the club will take place Jan. 13. The feast will be served in Temple Hall, Newtonville, and among the guests will be Archbishop O'Connell, Lieut.-Gov. Frothingham and Charles E. Hatfield, Mayor-elect of Newton, according to present plans.

Acts as Custodian or Attorney

This Company, besides receiving monies subject to check upon which interest is paid, acts as custodian or attorney of your estate by collecting coupons, dividends, interest and rents.

Its safe deposit vaults are of modern construction and afford absolute protection for your valuables.

These facilities should be considered by those going abroad, and especially by those seeking to minimize the time and effort required in the conduct of their affairs.

ALDERMEN PROPOSE BOARD OF SURVEY

The Aldermen held a busy meeting on Monday evening, after a vacation of four weeks. Many important matters were considered and others contemplated.

President Weston was late and Vice-President Palmer presided for a portion of the meeting. Aldermen Avery, Bacon, Burr, Cabot, Clarke, Doherty, Gray, Holmes, Lyons, Miller, Moore, Stone, Underwood, White and Williamson were also present.

No one appeared at the hearing on petition of the Telephone company for attachments on Brookside avenue.

Mayor Hutchinson's request for transfers of appropriations in the street, engineering, sewer and charity departments was granted. The Mayor also submitted the deed of land on Elm and Webster streets, West Newton, known as "The Common," as a gift from 57 citizens for a public playground. The gift was accepted and formal thanks of the city tendered the donors.

The chief of police asked that the number of police sergeants be increased to four, and notice was filed that Joseph A. Reamy of Nevada street had deserted from the United States navy. The registrars of voters reported that they had recounted the ballots cast for Alderman by Ward in Ward 2 and that Willard S. Higgins had lost two votes and James S. Cannon had lost one vote, both in Precinct 1 of that ward, leaving Higgins' majority at 22. No change was made in the Precinct 2 vote. The board then adopted an order declaring the result of the recent municipal election.

Petitions were received from Wilton, et al., for sewer in Washington street, of M. Pillion for sewer in Newtonville avenue, of F. J. Stark for sewer in Woodward street, of W. M. Morse for sewer in Morseland avenue, of F. H. Thomas for damages caused by personal injuries from defect in Boylston street, and of Hyman Melman for transfer of junk license. Hearings on Dec. 29 were ordered on petitions of the Edison company for pole locations on Berkeley road, for pole locations on Grafton street, for underground conduits on Washington and Perkins streets, and on petitions of the Telephone company for pole locations on Fayette street and for attachments on Lassell street.

Petitions of Lester S. Lowell for a minor's license, of Alfred E. Alford and George F. James for auctioneer licenses and of F. T. Ward for one pool table and two bowling alleys at 39 Elm street were granted. Petition of Marcus Morton to keep gasoline at 186 Highland avenue was referred to the next city government.

On recommendation of committees, leave to withdraw was granted on claims of Henry Paul for land damages and for damages done by spraying, of George L. Johnson and of Annie H. Plummer for abatement of sewer assessments, on petitions of the Telephone company for pole locations on Judkins street, on Richardson street and on Homer street; on petition of Jacob Luft for a junk license, on petitions of C. A. Person to enlarge capacity of oil establishment on Winchester street, and for permit to lay pipe under Winchester street, on petition of Ann F. Ritchie relative to street line of Prospect street and on petition of Axtman, et al., for improvement of Florence street.

On recommendation of committees, $13.05 was appropriated for land damages on Parker street, $700 for land damages of Endicott street, $7800 for construction of wall, etc., about Technical High School, the Telephone company granted attachments on Carver road, Camden road and Rowe street, sewers ordered built in Sylvan avenue, Hartford and Boylston streets, hearings assigned for Dec. 29 for taking land for sewers in Bigelow road, Morseland avenue, Thornton road, Hersey street and Wade street, for discontinuance of portion of Washington street, Nonantum square, and for laying out of Huntington and Farlow roads and for a drainage right from Huntington road to Kenrick street.

A proposed ordinance allowing the Aldermen discretionary powers relative to fall of soil pipes, etc., in buildings, was passed to be enrolled. An order authorizing the Mayor to petition the Legislature for authority to establish a board of survey was ordered printed and assigned for the next meeting. Orders were also adopted authorizing petitions to the Legislature for authority to issue $250,000 additional sewer bonds, and relative to drawing jurors. A return of expenses for rental and maintenance of the armory was signed by the members present. Orders were also adopted laying out, etc., of Long street, authorizing the treasurer to advance money for sewer construction, to pay interest at $24,064.50 due Jan. 1, making grant of $20,045 for city expenses to Jan. 15, amending annual appropriation order so as to separate items for interest for school bonds from that for other city bonds, authorizing school department to use $2100 of water during 1910, and authorizing Mayor to exchange land with H. E. Merritt on Kimball terrace and Elm road. During the session Hollis H. Sawyer of Chestnut street, Waban, was drawn as a grand juror for service at Cambridge Superior Court in January. And the board at 9:01 adjourned until Dec. 29.

THEATRES

Kelth's Theatre—One of the biggest holiday bills in the history of Kelth's is in preparation for the week beginning Monday. It will contain a number of splendid features, especially suitable for the season. For this reason "Kris Kringle's Dream," with the "Top o' the World Dancers," and the famous Collier Ballet, will be held over.

Little Billy, who has simply captivated Boston with his quaint ways and splendid singing and dancing, will also be retained. A feature of more than ordinary interest will be Frank Fogarty, the famous Irish story teller. Mr. Fogarty has a brogue and a wind of his own, and is possessed by no other comedian now on the stage. Another special feature will be Blinn, Blinn and Blinn, a company of musical comedians that know how to make people laugh. Others will be Alcide Capitaine, the beautiful lady gymnast; the three DuBoll brothers, America's greatest dancers, and the Brunels, in the most remarkable exhibition of billiard playing that has ever been shown.

American Music Hall—The bill at the American Music Hall next week will be made up of all-star acts delightfully varied to suit every possible taste. Of course, Consul, the wonderful man monkey, will be the big attraction. Another big feature of the bill will be the Karno comedy company, which will present its famous "Night in an English Music Hall." An act which will appeal to Bostonians will be that of the Divers and Diverines, with Peter S. McNally, the champion long-distance swimmer of the world, and Charles A. Digney, the champion high diver of the world, and Miss Sadie Schuman and Miss Jessie Sutherland will be the performers. Mr. McNally will perform many of the feats that have made him famous as a natator. He will eat and drink under water and empty a bottle without so much as sending a bubble to the surface. The balance of the bill will include some of the biggest acts ever seen on the vaudeville stage in Boston.

Boston Theatre—When Jos. M. Galties first gave to the stage "Three Twins," he entirely changed the prevailing style of musical comedy. Up to that time musical plays had depended almost entirely on their music and their chorus, the story counting for little. In "Three Twins" Mr. Galties gave the stage a real comedy with a musical setting, a comedy that had stood alone without the musical accompaniment. Since then other managers have attempted the same thing, but it has remained for Mr. Galties to offer a real logical successor to "Three Twins," which is noted as the greatest success of its kind in America. This successor is "Bright Eyes," which is to be seen at the Boston Theatre beginning Dec. 27. "Bright Eyes" is a musical version of the popular farce, "Mistakes Will Happen." Mr. Galties has provided a most elaborate production with a number of elaborate and novel effects and a very large chorus of pretty girls. The players are headed by Cecil Lean and Florence Holbrook, two of the best known funmakers on the American stage.

Tremont Theatre—The biggest and most expensive organization now traveling, namely, "Follies of 1909," with the cyclonic Eva Tanguay as the star, has started on the second week of its limited engagement. As we expected, Ziegfeld's latest Revue was superior to all the former "Follies," and with Miss Tanguay as its star gives more genuine satisfaction than any musical entertainment seen here this year. This year's "Follies" is brim full of novelties that are interspersed in two acts and 18 scenes. Other novelties in the cast who scored heavily were Billy Reeves, Arthur Deacon, Annabelle Whitford, William Bonell, Josephine Whitell, Helen McMahon, Rosie Green, Welch, Mealy and Montrose; William Schroder, Evelyn Carleton and Will Philbrick. The dancing of Miss Bessie Clayton was a revelation, and she proved that she is the best of American dancers. The baseball game at the end of the first act in which the audience plays a prominent part as those on the stage is one of the best novelties that Ziegfeld has ever produced. Will Philbrick, a Charleston man, scores heavily with several songs. Annabelle Whitford is seen at her best and her voice is more melodious than ever. Josephine Whitell also sings some of the latest song hits.

The engagement positively ends Jan. 1. Matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

A good deal of attention is being attracted by the very fine display of holiday goods in W. H. Brayton & Co.'s windows this week.

In addition to a complete line of candles, dates, figs, nuts and other holiday goods, this firm will have a complete line of Christmas trees and green, making a specialty of wreaths.

IMPORTANT SALE

One of the most important West Newton land sales of recent years has been consummated by Wm. H. Rand. After being on the market for 40 years, the tract on the corner of Elm and Webster streets has been purchased by the citizens of West Newton, who in turn have donated it to the city for a playground. It contains about 160,000 square feet, being about 400 feet square. For generations it has been used for a ball field. It being these that the Newton boys received their first instructions regarding the national game. It is assessed on a valuation of $16,000.

NEWTON CLUB OPENS SEASON WITH BRILLIANT ASSEMBLY

The Newton Club was the scene of a brilliant occasion on Tuesday evening, when the first of a series of assemblies attracted over 200 members and their ladies for an evening of sociability, dancing and whist. The success of the new departure in turning over the management of these functions to the associate members was fully demonstrated by the attendance and evident enjoyment.

The hall was tastefully and appropriately decorated, carrying out in its laurel, pines and color scheme the holiday season of warmth and good cheer.

Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Mrs. Sydney Harwood, Mrs. William M. Flanders were the receiving party. Mrs. Coolidge was gowned in russet color marquisette embroidered in metal thread of harmonious shades and pearls. Mrs. Harwood wore the jeweled gown. Mrs. Flanders was resplendent in corn color moire with gold beaded garmlure and gold colifure bandeau. Mrs. Flanders wore white lace with jet colifure ornaments and carried violets.

Mrs. Coolidge, Mr. Harwood and Mr. Flanders were in attendance and among other familiar faces were seen Hon. Samuel L. Powers and Mrs. Powers, the latter in black lace; Mr. George W. Brown and Mrs. Brown, in black and silver Egyptian embroidered gown; Mr. Charles F. Avery and Miss Avery, in pink crepe; Mr. Albert P. Carter and Mrs. Carter, in black voile; Mr. W. J. Frapp; Mrs. George H. Talbot, in gray embroidered crepe; Mr. William J. Follett and Mrs. Follett, in black satin and jet; Mr. John H. Eddy and Mrs. Eddy, in steel satin; Dr. Veo and Mrs. Veo, in black satin and lace; Mr. Edwin T. Fearing and Mrs. Fearing, gowned in mauve crepe de chine, embroidered in silver and pearls; Mr. Hubert G. Ripley and Mrs. Ripley, in violet silk. A large number of young people dined at the club previous to the dance and an artistic French gilt jewel box was presented to the winning lady at each of the 20 tables of bridge whist.

The ushers were Messrs. T. A. Whidden, W. I. Fearing, A. W. Follett, J. Dana Thomas, F. Rogers Thomas, D. M. Lodge, Fletcher Gill and Philip Whiting.

LODGES

Waban Lodge No. 156, I. O. O. F., elected the following officers for the year 1910 on Wednesday: N. G. Oscar McQueen; V. G., Hugh Hughes; R. S., Hiram W. Forbes; F. S., A. F. A. G. Libby; treasurer, Alex. C. Baxter; trustee for three years, Charles F. Dow.

A very enjoyable "dance and a good time" was given by Waverley Council, No. 313, Royal Arcanum, to the members and their friends in Odd Fellows' Hall, last Tuesday evening. About 30 couples participated. Refreshments followed the dancing.

The four-act Mellow Drama, entitled "The Conspirators," will be presented by the Entertainment Club in Channing Church parlors, Monday evening, Jan. 3, 1910, at 8 o'clock.

ALDERMEN SELECT 1910 OFFICER

The Aldermen-elect for 1910 held their usual preliminary caucus Wednesday evening to nominate officers for the succeeding year and to assign seats. The senior member, Alderman F. H. Underwood of Auburn, presided and Alderman Matt B. Jones of Newton Centre was nominated for president by Alderman Stone and the vote was practically unanimous. Alderman Gray then nominated Alderman W. J. Doherty of Nonantum, one of the three Democratic members of the board, for the office of vice-president, and the nomination was unanimously confirmed. Drawings were then made for seats to be assigned at the inauguration meeting on Jan. 10.

Alderman Matt B. Jones, who will be the next president of the board, will serve his fourth year in 1910. He has been a most valued member of the Public Works committee during his three years of service and has also been a member of the Claims committee. There has been no other name than his suggested for the presidency.

Alderman William J. Doherty will serve his sixth year in 1910 and has rendered most excellent service on the important committee on Public Franchises and Licenses during his five years in the board. He is well known as a former chairman of the Democratic city committee and has served on the Democratic State committee from this district.

CITY HALL

City Forester Luckman has had the pond at Farlow Park cleared for skating and there is also skating on the tennis courts at Elm road, Newtonville. He will build a hockey rink on Crystal Lake as soon as the snow can be cleared away for the purpose. Mr. W. N. Howard, who has had charge of the Newton Centre playground, will take care of the skating on Crystal Lake.

FATAL BURNS TWO WOMEN DEAD

Two women were burned to death in this city on Wednesday. Mrs. Nathaniel Price, colored, living at 8 Clinton street, Nonantum, threatened to burn herself that morning because a boarder had given notice to leave. She set fire to her dress several times, while the boarder extinguished the flames and remonstrated with her. The last time she put the edge of her skirt in the stove and was so badly burned about the legs and body that she was removed to the Newton Hospital, where, in spite of the efforts of the physicians and nurses she died that afternoon. She is survived by her husband and three children.

Miss Rose Colney set fire to her dress while standing in front of the kitchen stove in the home of her sister, Mrs. John F. Malone, 79 Freeman street, Auburndale, on Wednesday afternoon, following a walk.

In an effort to extinguish the flames she rushed about the room, but this fanned them into a brisk blaze and she was badly burned about the face and body before occupants of the house could extinguish the flames.

Miss Colney was treated by a doctor and removed to Newton Hospital, where she died early in the evening.

FIRE

A Christmas tree fire in the cobbling shop of John Nogera at 1263 Washington street threatened to spread to the adjoining stores in the business centre of West Newton Friday evening, but was extinguished by a policeman in the nick of time to prevent a bad fire. A tree had been set up in the window of the shop and decorated with tinsel and lighted candles. Early in the evening Nogera went out of the shop for a short time, leaving the front door unlocked. In some way the tree took fire and was burning briskly when a young woman saw it and notified police headquarters. Patrolman Dalton ran to the shop and succeeded in smothering the blaze. He received slight burns in doing so. His cap, which he used in fighting the fire, was burned. Had it not been for the quick work of the patrolman, it is believed, there would have resulted a bad fire.

See "The Conspirators" at Channing Church parlors, Monday evening, Jan. 3, at 8 o'clock.

THE STORM NEWTON HARD HIT BY SUNDAY BLIZZARD

The storm which struck this region on Christmas night transformed this city into a winter picture far beyond the skill of human art to depict. Nature wreathed the snow into fantastic forms and turned the trees into arches of beauty. The beauty lasted for several days as the snow, which clung to the trees, became hardened and retained its grip unusually long.

On the more material side, conditions were not so favorable. Fortunately for the travelling public, the storm came just before Sunday so that business was not interrupted as much as if it had been a weekday. The damage to the trees was severe. The weight of the snow combined with the high wind breaking off many limbs and smaller branches. In many places the trees bent over the sidewalks and streets to such an extent that wide detours were necessary in order to pass them.

Early Sunday morning the damage to wires was so great that the electric current was shut off and not turned on again until Monday afternoon. A return to the primitive candle or kerosene lamp was found necessary in many homes, whose sole dependence for lighting had been electricity.

The local street railway was badly hit on Sunday, mostly on account of poles and wires falling down across its tracks orrolley wires. A large pole fell at the corner of Parsons and Washington streets, preventing any service whatever into Nonantum square from places west of that point, although cars were operated between West Newton and Waltham and from West Newton to the Lower Falls. A wire falling at Adams street put the Bemis line out of commission, while a snowplow running off the track on Commonwealth avenue near South street completely blocked service on that route. The Walnut street line was not operated at all on Sunday. Extraordinary work on the part of General Manager Sylvester and his assistants brought about normal conditions, so that regular schedules were in operation Monday morning. The cost to the company may reach $10,000.

The Boston Elevated Company, as usual, rendered good service. Its cars were operated all night Saturday with but little delay, and while the Sunday travel was not heavy, there was but little change in the regular schedule, beginning on half-hour time in the morning and increasing to a 10-minute time in the afternoon. The Elevated company kept its tracks well plowed out and the snow piled at the sides of the streets was quickly removed on Monday morning by a large force of men and teams.

The Telephone company had out every available man early Sunday morning repairing damages to its wires all over the city, and while probably 300 subscribers were temporarily inconvenienced for a few hours, normal conditions were resumed by Tuesday night. The local

—Mr. and Mrs. 124w. Hammond of Winchester street spent the holidays
at Mr. Hammond's home at Elliot, Me.

—Mr. W. Scott Richards of Floral street has been at Allerton, Mass., this week, where he has several cottages.

—Mr. C. W. Coffin, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Robert Clark of Erie avenue, left yesterday for Nantucket.

—The engagement was announced
on Christmas of Mr. H. Earle Shaw, formerly of this village, and Miss Kate Worley of Reading, Pa.

—The C. L. C. will be entertained at the home of Miss Marion Morse, the president of the club, on Allerton road next Monday night.

—Next week a week of prayer at the M. E. Church will be observed, special services being held every night of the week except Saturday.

—Thursday evening was "Ladies' Night" with the Men's Guild of the M. E. Church. Refreshments were served and all shared in the pleasure of the social hour which followed.

—The regular meeting of the Men's League of the Congregational Church was held Thursday evening. A fine musical entertainment was given which was in charge of the entertainment committee.

—The Christmas services at the M. E. Church planned for last Sunday will be conducted this coming Sunday, including the concert which will be rendered by the Sunday School at 7 p. m.

Waban.

—Miss Grace Miller of Chestnut street has been confined to the house
for several days by a severe cold.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Elmer of Windsor road have been entertaining
a large house party of relatives over the holidays.

—Mr. F. H. Putnam of Upland road rallied well after a very severe attack the last of the week and has spent several comfortable days.

—On Wednesday evening the League held a very enjoyable dance in Waban Hall, 14 couples being present. The artistic Christmas decorations which were left up added to the attractiveness of the scene.

—The Union Church, through its Young People's League, had a more pretentious celebration than ever before members of the league, presenting Bird's "Christmas Carol" in Waban Hall, in a more finished manner, which earned for them the praise of all the spectators. After the play the interest was transferred to the big Christmas tree and the presents which were distributed to all the children.

—The several who have been confined to their homes with slight illnesses have all recovered. Miss Gertrude Zeles of Nebodden road is out
after a slight attack of chicken pox.
Mrs. C. Adrian Sawyer is convalescing
from a tonsillitis sore throat. Mrs.
Francis Davis of Woodward street has recovered from a severe attack
of tonsillitis. Mrs. William M. Buffum of Beacon street, who suffered from a severe return of neuralgia
during the first of the week, has recovered.

—The storm necessitated the postponing of the Sunday special services at the Church of the Good Shepherd and the Union Church, as the paths had not been sufficiently broken out to allow any one to attend. They will be held the coming Sunday.

—As usual, the Church of the Good Shepherd had a big Christmas tree and gifts for all the children of the Sunday School distributed by the same jolly old Santa, and a large attendance was present to enjoy the fun. Miss Clifton Parker read
"Twas the Night Before Christmas"
to open the exercises.

—The drifts on Windsor road have proved a veritable auto trap, one machine took nearly three-quarters of an hour to get from the top of the hill to the corner, and on Monday the amusing sight was seen of a big car and a sleigh which had gone to its aid and become smashed,
stuck in the same bank.

Newtonville.

of bronchial pneumonia.

—Mr. Arthur Brine of Harvard street took a party of friends on a sleigh ride to the Wellesley Inn last Thursday evening.

—The Young People's League met
at the home of Dr. S. C. McLaughlin on Harvard street Sunday evening.
Mr. R. B. Capon was the chairman and in charge of the program.

—Mr. and Mrs. George G. Webster of Walnut street will be among the passengers sailing Wednesday, January fifth, on the Cedric of the White Star line for a trip to Southern Europe.

—LOST—Tuesday, between Newtonville station and Cabot street, a black handbag containing a pocketbook with sum of money, a letter and other articles. Reward on its return to Mrs. Wm. Palmer, 352 Cabot street, Newtonville.

Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlin, the new pastor of the Baptist Church, will address the men Sunday afternoon at 3:15.

The basket ball team is making a trip this week, playing at Springfield and Northampton. The score at Springfield was 25 to 18 in favor of Springfield. As both teams will play return games, it is expected that our Newton team will win on the home
floor.

On Saturday evening, Jan. 1, "The Boston Lyric" will give an entertainment at the rooms. The program will consist of very high grade musical selections and Miss Bertha Wells as reader. This entertainment is for members and friends of the association.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a reception to parents of the boys will be given by members of the boys'
department, and at 3 o'clock there will be a demonstration of the boys' gymnasium classes, to which both men and women are invited.

On Monday evening David J.
Raney, the ex-Bowery thief, will speak to men only at the association rooms.

THE STORM

district came out of the storm in far better shape than other places about Boston.

The company generally uses but 20 per cent of its force on Sunday and consequently it was necessary to reach those who were not on duty. By 6:30 Sunday morning temporary headquarters had been established in the district and by 9 o'clock all but one exchange had been covered sufficiently to give commercial service and by 11 o'clock all had been covered. While the service on Sunday was a little slow, pretty fair service was rendered under the unusual conditions. Little things caused trouble during the day, such as losing supply current from storage batteries and the lack of electric lights in a number of offices. The operators showed a splendid appreciation of duty, some walking three miles through the snow to reach the exchange and working from 7 A. M. to 10 P. M.

The railroad service was unusually good as compared with past experiences. Three trains were omitted from the usual Sunday schedule on account of difficulty in making shifts in the Baxter street yard, caused by broken wires. The trains were run practically on time. On Monday the local service was exceptionally good, about every train keeping its regular schedule. The through trains suffered on account of failure to make connections with other roads, but nearly every train left Boston on time. One pole fell across the tracks near the Brookline junction, but it was removed by the crew of the newspaper train Sunday morning, and about the only damage suffered by the railroad was by broken wires.

OLD MERCHANT DEAD

Mr. George Lane, one of the oldest business men of Newton, died quite suddenly Christmas night, while sitting in a chair at his home, 14 Bacon street, Newton. Earlier in the day he had been present at a Christmas dinner, with his four children, and while not in the best of health, his condition did not cause any alarm.

Mr. Lane was born in Ashburnham, Mass., Sept. 23, 1829, and came from an old New England family, being seventh in descent from John Lane, who settled in Billerica in 1640. He was a grandson of Benjamin Lane and Jesse Walker, both of whom served in the Revolutionary War. Walker serving as one of General Washington's life guards. He was also a great-grandson of John Lane, one of the Lexington Minute Men, and who was wounded on Lexington Green on the 19th of April. Mr. Lane was also a direct descendant of Rev. John Heyner of Plymouth, Ralph Hill, John Whipple, Rev. John Woodbridge, Samuel Ruggles and Governor Thomas Dudley, through him tracing his ancestry back to Henry I. of France and Anna of Russia.

Mr. Lane opened a store in Hyde's block, Newton, in 1860, afterwards removing to Watertown for a few years and returning to Newton in 1875. A year later he removed his store of dry and fancy goods to Cole's block, where he remained until the Washington street widening in 1896 compelled him to remove to the present store in the Taylor building. Mr. Lane retired from active business several years ago, his daughters succeeding him. He married Mary A. Costello in 1860 and who died in 1903. He is survived by a son, Mr. George W. Lane of Brockton; Mrs. Cora M. Currier and the Misses Anna M. and Laura M. Lane of Newton.

Funeral services were held from his late home on Tuesday morning, Rev. Laurens MacLure, rector of Grace Church, officiating. The interment was in the family lot in the Common street cemetery, Watertown. Messrs. Henry Urquhart, George R. Aston of Newton, George E. Griffin of Malden and H. B. Dinan of Melrose acting as pall-bearers.

"MILLINERY SALE"

Mlle. Caroline, the high-class milliner of Boylston street, has reduced the price on all her foreign hats and toques, personally selected while abroad, at a mark-down to close them. In addition to these bargains, there is an "occasion," as the French say, in all the creations from her own workrooms. This is an opportunity to get an exclusive hat at her shop in the block of the Brunswick Hotel, opposite the Walker building of the Institute of Technology, at 486 Boylston street, Boston.

Always on hand when needed is the record of the "WINCHESTER" steam or hot water heater. Thousands of satisfied users prove this statement. Why not specify it on your heating contract? Made by Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

We have but one standard for all work and goods, regardless of price. It is simply this: "All work must be done right. All goods must be as represented."

If you believe that this protects you and if you want a large variety both as to goods and prices, to select from, we want your patronage.

Our line is not equalled in most of the large city stores, and our prices are low.

THEATRES

Holla Street Theatre—There are only a few real light comedians on the American stage and of these John Drew is easily the most distinguished and the most deservedly popular. His annual engagements at the Holla Street Theatre are always events which attract the most fashionable and the smartest audiences of the season. It is expected that such an audience will be present on Monday night, Jan. 3, when he begins an engagement of two weeks in his latest comedy success, "Inconstant George."

"Inconstant George" provides this popular player with a typical John Drew role. He plays the part of George Bullin, a Parisian gentleman of the world, without a serious motive or a sincere propelling principle. This gentleman is somewhat unusual in that he suffers from a mild form of neurasthenia which he himself calls "anemia of the will power." This renders it impossible for him to make decisions and keeps him constantly entangled in four or five love affairs simultaneously, it being absolutely impossible for him to decide which of his adored ones he likes best. Charles Frohman has provided the play with a series of settings which reveal that rare good taste so characteristic of this foremost producer.

Castle Square Theatre—"1915" has started off in the liveliest fashion at the Castle Square. The past week has seen nothing but large audiences whose enthusiasm over Mr. Friebe's new musical comedy is unmeasured, and the beginning of another week on Monday indicates a continuation of its success. In fact, such a piece as "1915," written especially about Bostonians and for Bostonians, could not do otherwise than meet with an overwhelming popularity. It is made solely for entertainment and laughter and its melody of songs and dances, of vivacious dialogue and sentimental ballads, and of brilliant costumes and spectacular scenery, offer three hours of unintermitted pleasure. From the opening scene in the Old Art Museum, with its rollicking glimpse of student life, through the flight by airship, the scene on the South Sea Island and the last act on the Public Garden, it is a musical comedy of perpetual enjoyment.

Boston Theatre—"Bright Eyes" is an instantaneous success at the Boston Theatre. The production which has been provided is elaborate in the extreme. The three scenes, the first representing the stage of a theatre during a rehearsal, the second a carriage house (both the lower floor and the loft being shown), and the third an elaborate lawn and garden, are all novel in design and each is a masterpiece of the stage carpenter's and the scene painter's arts. A number of novel mechanical and electrical effects, the secrets of which are being closely guarded until patents can be secured, are introduced, and the company, which includes a very large chorus of pretty

Mr. Hall's Resolutions Adopted by Association

At the meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, held Tuesday in New York city, there was an animated discussion of the football question, and ended by the adoption of the following resolution presented by Mr. Edward K. Hall of Newtonville, representing Dartmouth College:

"That the football rules committee of this association be instructed to use every possible endeavor to bring about such a modification of the rules as in their judgment shall tend to reduce to a minimum the danger of physical injury to the players, and at the same time retain as far as may be possible the most desirable and wholesome features of the game."

Only three negative votes were registered against the resolution, but nearly every college in the West had something to say concerning it. Mr. Hall was chosen a member of the rules committee of the association.

MILKMEN FINED

Two milkmen were convicted of violation of the milk law on two counts each in court Tuesday, on complaints brought by a State inspector, who testified that he had taken samples of milk offered for sale by the defendants.

William T. Hardy of Lexington pleaded not guilty to having in his possession milk not up to the standard and of selling a half-pint of milk from which cream had been removed. He was fined $50 on each charge.

Guust Peterson, also of Lexington, pleaded guilty to having milk in his possession to which water had been added, when arraigned on two counts. He was fined $50 on one count and the other was filed.

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT

It is now two years since the entire Boston Philharmonic Orchestra Club has appeared in Newton and to those who enjoy a good concert attention is called to the program to be rendered on Wednesday evening, Jan. 5, at Players' Hall, West Newton. The occasion is the second concert in the subscription series being held under the direction of Messrs. Charles E. Hatfield and Harry L. Burge. The Orchestra Club will be assisted by Clara Sexton, soprano, and the instrumental soloist will be Paul Brown, cellist.

During the past few seasons this orchestra club, with Clara Sexton, have been giving concerts throughout eastern Massachusetts, with eminent success and the programs played have all been of the highest order, bright, brilliant and pleasing.

At the concert of next Wednesday evening there will be played the Military Suite, "Pomp and Circumstance," by Sir Edward Elgar; the "Ballet Egyptian," an orchestral suite of four movements by Lulligini; the celebrated march from "Lachner's Suite No. 1"; two numbers for stringed orchestra, and the overture "Oberon," by C. M. Von Weber. The solo numbers will include "Romance" by Poppo and a "Scherzo" by Goens for cello, and the aria "Se Seren Rose" by Ardit and a group of songs for soprano.

Miss Sexton is well known as the young American soprano who created such a furore in Milan, Italy, the home of Donizetti, at which city she took the title role in "Lucia di Lammermoor."

The whole concert will be under the musical direction of Mr. A. H. Handley.

MRS. FLEMING DEAD

Mrs. Abby F. Fleming, wife of Mr. Henry Fleming of 1482 Washington street, West Newton, died on Christmas morning, after a long illness. Her loss is mourned by her husband, who is himself in great weakness, and by her children, Mrs. Nettie E. Putnam, Miss Carrie B. Fleming and Mr. H. Eugene Fleming of Watertown.

Mrs. Fleming was born in 1840 in Sherburne, and had lived for more than 40 years in West Newton. For more than 37 years she had been a member of the Congregational Church, West Newton. The funeral services were held with the spirit of thankfulness felt by all who knew her for her life. They were conducted by Rev. Edwin F. Snell of the Congregational Church, Mansfield and Rev. J. Edgar Park of the Congregational Church, West Newton.

NEWTON CLUB

Wednesday evening, Dec. 29, Gamma Sigma Society of the Newton High School gave an enjoyable dancing party at which about 150 danced the cotillon. The matrons were Mrs. Charles A. Vinal, Mrs. Charles D. Meserve, Mrs. Frank W. Pray.

Mr. W. I. Fearling won the high single prize in the Christmas bowling, a cut glass stein. Dr. C. H. Vee took the high three-string prize on the same day, a cut glass pitcher. The game has been crowded with business for over a fortnight. A dinner of 40 covers was one of the features of the past week. The club has been the rendezvous of two sleighing parties for supper, and a number of private dinners.

Saturday evening, Jan. 1, a New Year's vaudeville entertainment will be given for the gentlemen. At the last meeting of the executive committee 51 members were admitted.

The 1910 Board of Aldermen, although strongly Republican when judged by State or national standards, has shown its non-partisanship in local affairs by selecting Alderman Doherty, a former chairman of the Democratic city committee, as its vice-president. It is a courtesy which honors the board as well as the nominee. In addition it is a deserved tribute to one of the ablest and cleanest young men in the city. While Boston and other cities require drastic and untried legislation to even attempt non-partisanship, Newton finds it perfectly feasible to reach that result with old-fashioned methods. It only goes to show that it is the men and not the methods which are necessary.

The residents of Newton are to be congratulated on the excellent service rendered by the public service corporations during the recent severe storm. The Boston & Albany service was particularly good, especially when contrasted with what was given the public only a few years ago. The vast improvement in the operation of the road is a matter of congratulation to all concerned. The Elevated Railway Company also rendered their usual high grade service, and while held up in other parts of their district, were able to give Newton practically its regular schedule.

Second thought was evidently best with the Aldermen as they have postponed immediate action on the proposed board of survey. The history of the former attempt to pass this measure shows that while the city government acted favorably upon it, the legislative committee found so much opposition at its hearings that our city officials were advised to settle the matter in the city before asking the Legislature for the requisite authority.

The Board of Aldermen of 1910 show splendid judgment in selecting Alderman Matt B. Jones for its presiding officer. Alderman Jones has shown rare qualities of leadership in his service in the board and should make an excellent presiding officer.

Women's Clubs

Edited by Miss Grace M. Burt

There seems to be no better time for taking account of stock than on the eve of the New Year, to find out as it were what the Old has brought forth and what awaits in the New. On this account it may not be out of place for the Club Editor to glance backward and see what the clubs have done for Newton during the year 1909.

One very cold morning early in January the officers of the Newton Federation, together with the Social Service committee, met at the Newton Hospital to inspect the bungalow house just erected as a day camp for tuberculosis patients. After the inspection was completed, the women adjourned to the parlor of the Nurses' Home, where a meeting of the committee was held in order to report the progress of the work to the executive board of the Federation at its January meeting a few days later. At this time the case of a child was spoken of, how the club women of one of the villages, together with assistance from one of the churches, had made it comfortable. By vote of the committee provision for nourishing food was made, though it was felt there was little hope for recovery. Under the fresh air treatment and proper food the child has steadily gained and has now been sent to Rutland to complete the cure. Those who have kept in touch with this work know how it has grown beyond all expectations and friends from outside express wonder at the rapid pace it has taken. If this were all that the clubs have accomplished in one short year, certainly 1909 would not have been spent in vain. It remains for 1910 to make ample provision for the support of this work until it can be put upon a firm financial basis. There has been a generous patronage of the Christmas stamps, but no definite statement can be made until another week.

For 1910 may the club women see the further establishment of the tuberculosis work and may they not rest content while the billboards still stand and while vacant lots scattered with papers need to be cleaned, that Newton may be in reality the "Garden City."

A Happy New Year!

On New Year's Day the Mothers' Club will hold a charity luncheon bridge party at the Brae Burn Club. The regular meeting for January will be held at the home of Mrs. F. E. Spaulding on Highland avenue on the third. Mr. Albert Perry Walker will speak of "Tennyson's Lyrics."

The Newtonville Woman's Guild meets on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 4.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, after the usual business session, Miss George A. Bacon, president of the Massachusetts State Federation, will address the club.

On Dec. 27 the Newton Highlands Monday Club held its meeting at Odd Fellows' Hall. "Women Philanthropists" was the general subject for the afternoon, papers being given upon Clara Barton, Florence Nightingale, Baroness Burdett Coutts and Rebecca Pomroy. The rest of the time was given to the consideration of current events.

The club made its annual visit to the Newton City Home on Tuesday. Gifts as well as holly and Christmas wreaths were taken by the members. An entertainment consisting of readings and songs in which all could join gave much pleasure to all. Tea was served by the visitors and cake and candy distributed. A piano is much needed there and would add much in giving cheer to the residents. Perhaps someone has an old-fashioned one that could be spared.

Mrs. F. H. Putnam entertained the Waban Woman's Club at Waban Hall on Monday afternoon. Miss Louisa Phillips Merritt, formerly of Newton, who now has a studio at North Scituate, gave an interesting paper upon "Italy." The talk was illustrated by many water-color sketches made by the speaker during a recent visit to that country.

The Abundant Review Club is studying France, especially its drama and cathedrals, this season. At the last meeting, held on Dec. 28, in addition to the usual papers, a reader from the Emerson College rendered Racine's "Athaliae."

The Food Sanitation committee of the State Federation will hold a conference at the New England Women's Club rooms in Chauncy Hall building, Copley square, Boston, on Wednesday, Jan. 5, at 2 P. M. All interested are invited to attend.

Mrs. Blanche E. Hyde of the Technical High School addressed the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning upon "The Choice of Food." As an interesting commentary upon the subject Mrs. Hyde read extracts from a letter of a physician written to Sir William Pitt in 1796, which pointed out many facts in relation to the feeding problem, much as they are understood today, among them being that we consume far more than we produce, and that the prosperity of a nation depends largely upon its being properly fed.

The speaker treated her subject first, as to its cost, or the economic function, second, in its relation to the human body, or its nutritive function, and third, in its relation to the people as a whole, or its social function. In these days of increasingly high prices more skill and knowledge is required than ever before. Knowledge of the cost, the nutritive value and the balanced ration is absolutely essential. The cost is the first thought of the home maker. With the family of small income, say $500 or $600, 60 per cent of it goes for food, while as the income increases the percentage decreases, so that with the $3000 income only about 25 per cent goes for the food. Every housekeeper should know how to spend to bring in the greatest returns.

For the proper nourishment of the body and the right providing of food

it is necessary to understand the make-up of the human body and what is needed to restore the waste and the proportion in which the elements should be provided. The ages of the several members of a family must be taken into account, as well as the occupations in which they are engaged, in order to know how to provide properly balanced rations. Since in early life the body is building up tissue, a larger amount of food is needed than later on when the body is merely restoring waste, while in old age when waste is greater than assimilation much less is required.

Authorities are coming to agree that it is not wise to depend largely upon meat for the protein, but to rely more and more upon milk, eggs, nuts and the cereals. The proportion of animal food to vegetable was suggested as 25 to 75.

In speaking of the social function the speaker felt that the proper providing, cooking and serving of food helps to make a happy household and that family discords more often arise where meals are not served regularly and with attention to these things. Eating may be made a fine art, a diversion and an enjoyment and it does help to keep up social intercourse.

Most practical information was brought out during the discussion. Some of the food fads were touched upon and a description of the uncooked luncheon served recently to the members of the Twentieth Century Club was given by one who had attended.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will meet on Thursday, Jan. 6, in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville.

The Pierian Club met with Mrs. S. A. Thompson of Erie avenue on Wednesday afternoon. The program was in charge of Mrs. Lees, who gave a paper on "The Life of Poe." Mrs. Thompson read "The Raven." Mrs. Knight, a guest, read a paper upon "Gladstone."

The next meeting will be with Mrs. W. A. Chadwick of Oak street, on Jan. 12.

Miss Clara A. Murphy of Smith College is the guest of her mother, Mrs. L. E. Murphy, on Pelham street during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Speare and Miss Caroline M. Speare of Sumner street motored up to their country place, Burgess Farm, New Hampshire last week, where they entertained a large house party over Christmas.

Dr. George E. Horr, president of the Newton Baptist Theological Institution, is in New York, where he will give an address on "The Marian Exiles" this evening before the American Church Historical Society of Columbia University.

Mr. Patrick P. Tierney of Centre street, who was in charge of the elevator in the building on Summer street extension, Boston, owned and occupied by Jeremiah Williams & Co., was crushed between the elevator and the walls of the elevator well yesterday afternoon. He died soon after being removed by firemen called from the ladder house near by.

Mrs. Gertrude Roffe, the wife of ex-Alderman Albert H. Roffe, died last Monday at her home on Cypress street from heart trouble. Mrs. Roffe was a native of Newton and was 63 years of age. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Brayton and Miss Bessie Roffe. Funeral services were held from her late home on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. H. F. McDaniel, a former pastor of the Unitarian Church, officiating. The burial was in Newton Cemetery.

The regular Christmas entertainment and supper was served to the children of the Sunday school of the Methodist Church by the ladies last week Wednesday. In the afternoon a graphophone concert and stereop-

The many friends of Mr. John A. Gould of Boylston street are glad to learn that he is improving, although still at the hospital.

The funeral services of the late Mr. Tambo were held at the M. E. Church Monday afternoon, the Rev. Walter Healy officiating. The choir rendered several selections. Many friends were present. The interment was at Newton Cemetery.

Miss Madeline and Master Norman Everett celebrated their birthdays by entertaining about 40 of their friends at their home on High street on Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5. The main rooms were prettily decorated with Christmas greens, the color scheme of the dining room being pink. One pretty feature of the party was the lighting of the candles on the birthday cakes, one containing 12, the other eight. Both were the recipients of many remembrances.

IMMIGRANT PARTY

The immigrant party at Bray Hall, Newton Centre, next Monday night, promises to be a brilliant and original occasion. The steamer will dock at 8 o'clock sharp with its load of foreigners, so that all guests in costume must be in the dressing room at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Shannon has some wonderfully clever specialties to present and there will be dancing for all in costume. Some reserved seats are still in the hands of the committee. The affair is given under the auspices of the Mothers' Rest Association.

Mrs. H. Chapin Sawin will have the sympathy of her friends in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Tryphon W. Ladd, who died last Thursday of apoplexy at her home in Borden town, N. J. She was 84 years of age. The remains were brought here for burial in Newton cemetery, the committal service being held Tuesday afternoon in charge of Rev. Dr. Wolcott Calkins.

TIT FOR TAT

A local druggist, who caused the arrest and conviction of two boys for robbing his cash drawer, was himself summoned into court this week and fined for selling cigarettes to minors.

Reduction in Price of Gas

After January 1, 1910, this Company will reduce the PRICE OF GAS to 95 cents net per thousand cubic feet, this reduction being made possible by the consolidation of the Newton and Waltham Companies.

The gross price will be $1.05 less 10 cents per thousand cubic feet discount on all bills paid within fifteen days from the date of the bill, making the net price 95 cents.

The rearrangement of the territory covered by the Newton and Waltham Companies due to the consolidation, necessarily makes certain changes in the date of meter reading, and as this will be completed by January 1, 1910, bills rendered during the month of January may be of a different date than formerly, and may cover a period of more or less than the usual thirty days.

Customers are, therefore, respectfully requested to make special note of the date of the bill and the period covered in comparing same with previous bills, and also in order that advantage may be taken of the discount of 10 cents per thousand cubic feet, which we can allow only on payments made within fifteen days from the date of the bill.

After January, during which month the entire change of reading dates will be covered, customers will find that each month they will receive bills on or about the same date, and that each bill will invariably cover the preceding thirty days or so.

We have established expressly for the convenience of customers five additional local pay stations, where accounts may be paid without expense to them. These together with the Company's offices and present pay stations are as follows:

MAIN OFFICE . . . 308 WASHINGTON ST., NEWTON.
WALTHAM OFFICE . . . 684 MAIN ST., WALTHAM.

THOMPSON—NOYES

The wedding of Miss Francena Louise Noyes of Dorchester and Dr. Charles Arthur Thompson of Newton Highlands occurred on Christmas evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Noyes, in their apartment at the Hotel Gladstone, Roxbury.

Rev. H. Lyon of the Walnut Street Unitarian Church, Brookline, officiated, using the Episcopal marriage service. The bride was given away by her father. The bride wore white and carried a bouquet of lilies. She was attended by her maid of honor, Miss Catherine Paul of Auburn, Me., a Wellesley College classmate of the bride. The maid of honor wore pale blue messaline and carried pink roses. Master Ralph Thompson, a nephew of the groom, acted as flower page. Dr. Thompson was attended by Dr. Rose of Wellesley Hills. The ushers were Dr. Wormwell of Allston and Dr. J. D. Thompson of Newton Highlands, a brother of the groom. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Marion Whiton with violin and cello accompaniment. Decorations of Southern carnations and roses were used throughout with the exception of the dining room, where the Christmas season was evidenced by holly. After the ceremony a wedding reception was held. After a short bridal tour Dr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Newton Highlands.

The lack of fresh air in any room occupied by human beings is probably the cause of more sickness and discomfort than any other one reason. The GEN VENTILATOR is a common-sense device which will give the required amount of ventilation as needed, they are adjustable to windows of different sizes, can be installed by anyone easily and instantly, are dust proof, storm proof and draught proof. Call on Mr. C. H. Campbell of Newton or H. W. Orr Co. of Newtonville and see them.

LOGGERS

Triton Council, No. 547, Royal Arcanum, has chosen the following officers to serve the coming year: Regent, J. E. Mahon; vice-regent, William Cahill; orator, Maurice B. Coleman; chaplain, J. R. Condria; secretary, T. J. Green; financial secretary, F. C. Sheridan; treasurer, W. H. Maguire; guide, George Green; scout, Dennis McCarthy; warden, William Green; trustees, John O'Brien, James Duncan, Peter Delehanty.

Nonantum Council, I. O. O. F., of Newton has chosen the following officers to serve the coming year: Ardon, R. Cumming; provost, W. V. Craig; prelate, Harry Wilson; secretary, C. Fleischner; financier, C. E. Joslyn; treasurer, George F. Wilson; inspector, J. Slattery; warden, Joseph Doyle; sentinel, M. Carley; trustee, John W. Cox.

—A house owned by Mr. John McLean on Adams avenue and occupied by Mr. Smith was considerably damaged last Sunday. The chimney was blown over by the high wind and will have to be repaired as well as a portion of the roof.

—A Christmas social of the Sunday school was held in the vestry of the Congregational Church last Wednesday evening. The entertainment consisted of a program of music and readings by Miss Helen M. Sylvester, light refreshments and a social hour.

—A union watch night service will be held this evening at the Centenary Church beginning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. W. C. Gordon of the Congregational Church will preach the sermon. There will be a social hour from 9:30 to 10:30. At 11:30 there will be holy communion. Rev. John Matteson of the Church of the Messiah officiating.

Tremont Theatre—"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which comes to the Tremont Jan. 3, promises to prove one of the most interesting dramatic offerings of the year, if not of the decade. The play combines all the popular appeal of such time-honored successes as "The Old Homestead" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and the cleanliness of "Ben Hur."

Rebecca, whose fortunes are followed from childhood to maidenhood, is a unique personality and one that lends itself readily to stage purposes. Miss Thompson has taken full advantage of this fact and the result is one of the most charming characters ever presented to the amusement-loving public. As the play abounds in quaint New England characters, so does the play Simpson, the two maiden aunts, the kindly old stage driver, Emma Jane, the "bosom friend," and the other simple Maine folk among whom Rebecca lives, are represented and under the skillful handling of the adapter, Charlotte Thompson, they become living, breathing characters of the type that the advent of the summer boarder in the small New England town has rendered almost extinct.
